The activity is unprecedented. The work projected will furnish employment to a larger number of men than were employed last year, and the total investments, when we come to figure up the results of the year's work, will be found to be at least ten and possibly twenty per cent. in excess of last year. Last year's investments were profitable, and hence the confidence and anxiety this year to crowd ahead.

Real estate is just active enough to make builders and investors anxious to secure desirable sites.

The N-w York Arcade Road.

The Arcade Road will be forty-four feet wide, and the entire line will be constructed without interference to travel. About two hundred adjoining owners still oppose the road, but all the rest, from the Battery to 59th street, to which point it is to be completed within two and a-half years, favor it.

Many people have conceived of the projected road as a tunnel, a passage like the smoky and stuffy underground railway of London. This is a mistake. The New York road is to be an arcade and not a tunnel. It will have an abundance of light and ventilation. Its charter prohibits the use of engines emitting smoke or gas. In comparing it with the London road, it may be noticed that the difficulties to be encountered and the cost per mile will be much less, while the work, as completed, will be much more satisfactory. There will be four tracks, while in London there are but two tracks.

The stairs which will afford access to the road at the corners will be only ten or twelve feet high, which is less than half the average height of the elevated stations, and this, to many who will use the road, will be an important consideration. In stormy and thick weather, the elevated trains are obliged to run slowly to avoid collisions, and the tracks are more or less obstructed by snow and ice. The protection from all the inconveniences caused by storms will be an important advantage of the Arcade. The elevated roads have already become crowded to their full capacity for accommodating travel, the trains follow each other closely, and their length cannot be increased because their structure is not strong enough to support the weight of heavier engines to draw them. The Arcade Railway, with its standard gauge tracks, large engines and long trains, will give the iron horse a chance to show his full power and speed, and rapid transit will be something more than a seductive and deceitful name. The estimate of the carrying capacity of the road for passengers is 100,000 per hour, more than the traffic will require for a long time to come. The route will be under Broadway from the Battery to Madison square, and thence under Madison avenue toward the Grand Central Depot, with a branch extending to Fifty-ninth street on the west side. Both parts of this forked line will eventually be extended to the Harlem river. The lines follow the central lines of traffic of the city, and afford to it the greatest possible relief. Tens of thousands of people will be daily carried swiftly from their homes in the upper streets of the city or in Westchester county to their offices, stores and workshops down town, and back at evening, with a degree of speed, convenience and comfort that has never yet been approached. The people have become fully awake to the fact that the Arcade Railway will be the only practical and effectual relief to traffic; they realize that the city and the whole country will be proud of it as a splendid result of American engineering skill and ingenuity, and the few rich men who are still prejudiced against the road will gradually cease to oppose it, as they see that every important interest will be immediately benefited by its completion.

Interesting Facts About Electric Lighting.

The Electrical Review in an interesting article upon electric lighting gives some very interesting facts as well as figures to prove them. It states that in 1880 the electric light investments were not considered of sufficient importance to justify the collection of the data in order that they might be reported among the industries of this country. In following the rise and progress of electric lighting, the Review presents the following figures as the true state of the business in 1885, and vouchers for their correctness:

Amount of investment in voltaic arc lights in the United States on Nov. 1, 1885.....	$87,000,000
Incandescent plant.....	15,000,000
Investment by manufacturers of arc and incandescent plants.....	20,000,000
Invested in manufacturing other apparatus connected with electric light apparatus, including conduits, cables, etc.....	15,000,000
Invested in the manufacture of carbons, about.....	5,000,000
Estimate of the value of patents, as made at the Patent Office by experts.....	15,000,000
Total.....	$107,000,000

There are, it states, 650 local electric lighting companies now in this country, doing a thrifty business. From 1881 to 1882 the business of supplying electric lights almost doubled, and has doubled year by year ever since. It cannot go on, it says, under this doubling process much longer, as it would soon amount to infinity. There are at least 125,000 voltaic arc lights lighted nightly, besides about 640,000 incandescent lamps. The Review in conclusion says: "That to-day the cost of an electric lighting plant is less than one-half what it was six years ago, and there is every reason to believe that six years from now almost an equal decrease in cost will have been attained."

Strength of Brick Walls.

For first-class buildings with good workmanship, the general average should not exceed a greater number of feet in height than three times its thickness of wall in inches, and the length not to exceed double the height, without lateral supports of walls, buttresses, etc., as follows, for safety:

Thickness.	Safe Height.	Length.
8 1/2 inch walls.	22 feet.	50 feet.
12 "	40 "	80 "
15 "	55 "	110 "
18 "	70 "	140 "
22 "	86 "	170 "
26 "	102 "	200 "

Where the lengths must exceed these proportions, as in depots, warehouses, etc., the thickness should be increased or lateral braces instituted as frequently as practicable.

Camden's New U. S. Building.

The Hon. Geo. S. Borton, Collector of the port of Camden, N. J., has received instructions and authority from the U. S. Treasury Department to advertise for a building site on which to erect the proposed New United States Building, appropriations for which passed the last session of Congress.

The following is a clipping from the Boston Transcript, it is particularly interesting inasmuch as we daily meet with those who are blessed with perfect bodies and sound minds, who spend their time in whining about their hard luck and poverty:

There recently died at Potsdam, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., Richard Donovan, who was in some respects one of the most remarkable men in northern New York. Twenty years ago, when a boy, Donovan worked in a flour mill. One day he was caught in a belt and received injuries that necessitated taking off both arms at the shoulders. This misfortune did not discourage him, and, after recovering his health, he set about earning his livelihood as best he could without the use of hand or arms. Part of the time he had lived alone, and from the necessity of helping himself he became wonderfully adept in performing all kinds of work, using his feet and mouth principally. He owned a horse, of which he took the entire care, harnessed it, fastened and unfastened the buckles with his teeth, and drove with the reins tied around his shoulders.

Being in need of a wagon, he bought wheels and axles, and built a box buggy and painted it. He went to the barn one winter day and built a cow stable, sawing the timber with his feet, and with the hammer in one foot and holding the nail with the other, he nailed the boards on as well as most men could do with their hands. He dug a well twelve feet deep on a farm in this town, and stoned it himself. He could mow away hay by holding the fork under his chin and letting it rest against his shoulder. He would pick up potatoes in a field as fast as a man could dig them. He would dress himself, get his meals, write his letters, and in fact do almost anything that any man with two arms could do.

The house formerly belonging to the Bradley estate has been sold to Mr. Calvin Pardee, of Hazleton, Pa. He is raising the house two feet, and making other alterations by plans furnished by Geo. T. Pearson. Mr. Jenkins, of Plainfield, N. J., is the contractor. The house is built entirely of stone; it was raised by placing huge timbers under it, which were lifted by the combined efforts of one hundred and thirty jacks.

On the Gowan estate at Mount Airy, purchasers are planning houses to cost from $7,000 to $12,000, they are to be of pointed stone. Cope and Stewardson seem to be the favored architects. The contracts are not as yet let. Lots on this estate seem to be in good demand, they range in size from one-half to one acre. Sprague street and Rumford ave. are now being rapidly graded under the supervision of the Highway Department, and will be improved with gas and water pipe, and a new Telford road.

Proprietor of Phila. "Record."

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, MAY 9, 1887.

THE House has passed a bill authorizing chattle mortgage on various enumerated kinds of iron and steel products, and castings, not in place.

It is said that it will take $75,000 to make our Fire Department effective. The expense is a trifle when we count the increased risks without proper protection.

A BILL passed the State Senate extending the provisions of the Mechanics' Lien Law to debts contracted for work done or materials furnished for the construction or repair of engines, boilers, or machinery.

THE State Legislature has taken hold of legislation affecting the assessment of damages growing out of the opening, widening, and change of grade of streets.

Now that the Supreme Court in its decision in the Horace Binney case has relieved the dead man from the least suspicion of fraudulent intent, it would be but an act of justice if the heirs would generously contribute the amount of money with interest which the old colored man, Morris Brown, lost when his home was taken from him. Sentiment for the dead is worth very little when placed face to face with cruel wrong to the living.

WHEN a woman assumes a position in business life she does so fully appreciating the obstacles in her way and the difficulties to be overcome, and the man who believes that his girlish competitor hopes to get through on sentiment, finds to his own great cost, perhaps, that of the two the woman is the more competent. As doctors, women have not only succeeded, but every city in the country has now among its practitioners women who have gained the respect and confidence of the community in which they live, and whose yearly earnings in many cases equal those of their best male competitors.

DIRECTOR Stokley has in his charge the safety of the citizens of this city, by virtue of his office he can bring to bear his whole personal and official strength against everything inimical to the health as well as the morals of this community, or any part thereof.

Gunnery's Run is a shameful relic of the characteristic weakness of our last city government. It has been declared a nuisance by the Board of Health. It has been the subject-matter before Grand Jurors. It has been condemned by reputable citizens and leading physicians as the great cause of sickness and death in its vicinity, and yet nothing has been done to remedy its evil and disgusting condition. For the coming summer the outlook is a bad one for those living in the vicinity of the Run unless the Director of Public Safety takes the matter in hand, for there has been no one heretofore equal to the necessity.

OVER in New York the idea is being broached of having a black-list of tenants who do not pay rent. It is said there are literally thousands of people who make it their business to defraud landlords. Perhaps these people will not be anxious to join the movement to be inaugurated by the Central Labor Union of New York to demand a 15-per cent. reduction after May 1. The Exchange proposes to take a hand in the matter and probably keep a list of "dead-beats." Here in Philadelphia, we are not entirely rid of such vermin, but they are not so abundant as in New York.

THE new buildings to be erected by the Girard Estate on its 207x180-foot lot, at Twelfth and Market streets, will be of a very substantial character, and all the appointments will be in perfect harmony with the building itself. The idea of two double stores is a good one, and is calculated to increase the value of the property. One store, 91 feet front on Market street, will extend to Girard street, and will be separated from a like structure east of it by a 25-foot alley. This provides for abundant light and ventilation, besides furnishing a convenient ingress and egress for teams, etc. Besides these double stores will be constructed so that they can accommodate four tenants, if necessary, instead of two, a commendable piece of foresight which however is not likely to be utilized in the future. The corner stores will be built with ornamental brick and brown-stone trimmings. The inside pair will have fronts of Indiana limestone, sides ornamental brick and limestone trimmings. Open girders and plank flooring will be used for the floors. Work will begin in two weeks, and the buildings will be ready for occupancy next spring. The architectural features will show some improvement over the first effort of the Girard Trust, on Market street. The display of a little architectural skill is to be commended. It is to be hoped that this is but the beginning of the transformation of Market street from its colonial simplicity to metropolitan elegance. Mr. James H. Windrim, the architect, has done his work creditably, and has stimulated a needed departure from old time simplicity in business structures.

A Famous Property to be Sold.

The West Point Foundry has been posted for sale at the New York Real Estate Exchange. This property is situated at Cold Springs, Putnam County, in this state, and comprises 40 acres of land with several acres of buildings.

The foundry was established in 1819 and has been in constant operation ever since. In 1820 orders were received for cannon for the United States Government, and a lot of 32 pounders, round shot, smooth bore, were turned out which were considered great guns in those days. All the celebrated "Parrott" guns, which played so important a part in settling the contest for the Union during the civil war, were made in this establishment.

The latest and most pretentious work undertaken was the finishing of two eight inch rifled steel guns, being of the very few of the largest calibre of that description as yet made in the United States.

At present there are but two other gun making establishments in this country, one at South Boston and the other at Washington; the West Point foundry, however, is the largest and most completely equipped of the three.

The property was located at Cold Spring before the advent of steam or the railroad, on account of the superior water power (28 feet fall), and also with a view to increased safety on account of the distance from the coast. It has grown to its present proportions gradually; latterly steam power has been supplied, and now the largest castings used for any purpose are being turned out for contractors all over the country. STRONG RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Hale & Kilburn Manufacturing Company whose extensive factory and warerooms are at 48 & 50 North Sixth street this city are in possession of several testimonial letters from prominent Architects and others, setting forth the high character and durability of interior work which it has constructed both in this city and elsewhere. Among the number is a letter received by Mr. T. P. Lonsdale an architect of this city from Messrs. Fuller & Delano Architects at Worcester Mass., in answer to enquiries made by Mr. Lonsdale as to the character, quality and durability of interior work and furniture constructed by the Hale & Kilburn Manufacturing Co., for the house of Mr. George Heywood at Cardner Mass. This letter is given below in full also one each from Messrs. Paxson Comfort & Co., Messrs. D. W. Ellis & Co., and Messrs. Peter Woll & Son.

FULLER & DELANO Architects,

No. 452 MAIN STREET,

Worcester, Mass., March 24, 1887.

T. P. LONSDALE, Architect,

Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir: Yours of the 23d at hand, and in reply would state that we can heartily recommend The Hale & Kilburn Mfg. Co. for Interior Work and Furniture. The George Heywood house (at Gardner, Mass.) is considered one of the best and most elaborately finished houses in New England, and it stands to-day in as perfect condition as the day it was completed (June, 1885). One of the most difficult problems we have to-day is to secure good dry stock—so dry that, when put up in a house where the temperature is 75 or 80 degrees, joints will not open, or doors warp.

Mr. Killburn knows good stock, and when it is dry and fit to use; he personally superintends that Department, and we have not an inch in the house but was right and shows it to-day.

The carving is fine; we made all details, and without exception they were executed in a thoroughly artistic manner; relief and under-cutting, which you will understand is so hard to show on plans, were all that could be desired. In fact their work was thoroughly good, and finished and put up in a manner that proved they had pride in it, and not wholly dollars and cents they were after. We are making details for Mantels to-day, which will be sent them to execute without competition, for we are satisfied that it will be done at a reasonable rate, and that our Client will be satisfied with their workmanship. A large part of the furniture in George Heywood's house was executed by them from 1-inch scale drawings made by us; the drawings were interpreted in an intelligent manner and to our satisfaction.

We take great pleasure in saying a good word for such a Company, and where the best results are desired we would give them preference to any reasonable amount.

Hale & Kilburn were given the preference on George Heywood's work to an amount of over 20 per cent.

Very truly,

(Signed) FULLER & DELANO.

NOTE.—The contract referred to amounted to $30,000, and required 18 months to complete.

THE HALE & KILBURN MFG. CO.

Gentlemen: Agreeable to your request we cheerfully and with great pleasure contribute our testimonial to the complete satisfaction rendered us by the office enclosure etc., placed in our new store by you in December, 1883.

It is very gratifying to us to state that after 3½ years of practical test and service the work is to be found as perfect in every particular as when finished. It is a further evidence of the virtue of your thorough treatment of Lumber before using it. We have had a large number of persons to call on us in admiration of this work and we shall be pleased to receive any others who may feel an interest in such matters and shall take pleasure and pride in pointing out the merits of this work of which we are so justly proud.

Please send some one over to give design and estimate for a large Charging Desk Platform, Railings etc., and greatly oblige

Yours Truly,

(Signed) PAXSON, COMFORT & CO.

THE HALE & KILBURN MFG. CO.

Gentlemen: In reply to your inquiry as to the satisfaction rendered by the Office Screens, Counter etc., furnished some months since we beg to state that your work was everything that could have been desired when finished, and presents as perfect appearance to-day as when placed in position notwithstanding the heat to which it has been submitted during the winter.

We take pleasure in recommending your house to anyone requiring this character of work, believing they will feel highly pleased, as we certainly do with their purchase.

We gladly permit you to refer any parties interested to us and shall be pleased to show them our office

Yours most respectfully,

PETER WOLL & SONS,

THE HALE & KILBURN MFG. CO.

Gentlemen: In reply to your inquiry we wish to express our entire satisfaction with the office and store fixtures you built for our new store last Fall which having passed safely through the trying ordeal of inside winter heat is as perfect now as originally; an evidence of well seasoned and Kiln dried material.

We heartily commend those who desire the best results to consider your thorough and reputable workmanship, which will, as has been our experience—unquestionably secure them eminent satisfaction for the sum invested.

We shall take pleasure in exhibiting the work to any who may be interested.

Yours truly,

G. W. ELLIS & CO.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, MAY 16, 1887.

MR. FREDERICK B. ESLER rather tapped the milk in the cocoanut in his speech in favor of an elevated road, before Councils, sub-committee on law, on Wednesday last. In his speech, Mr. Esler plainly intimated that the reason why former bills authorizing the elevated had failed, was because certain prominent parties were not included in the organization, and with an assurance indicating that he thoroughly understood what he was talking about, he stated that he was there to answer all questions. What a pity some enquiring member of the committee had not invited Mr. Esler to name a few of these important personages who, in order that their own selfish ends may be gained, would impair the development of the city for years to come.

A GREAT deal of money must be spent sooner or later to place the city in proper shape. The street pavements, the sewers, the water supply and other improvements are matters of vital importance. Money will be needed in large quantities, and if it can be obtained in no other way, the tax rate should be increased to yield sufficient to meet the most urgent necessities at least. Politics play fantastic tricks sometimes, and none can tell who may succeed Fitler, Wagner and Stokley. Under the present administration the most will be got out of every dollar expended, but how far a dollar will go, if Mayor Fitler is not re-elected, no fellow can find out. This is a good time to push city improvements.

THE Bethlehem, Pa., Iron Works will probably be selected for the new steel forging and armor plate work to be done for the Government, as it is intimated that Commodore Seward will make a report in favor of the works to Secretary Whitney.

It is said that the International Cigar Makers want to borrow $750,000 from the Government at 10 per cent. interest per annum, with which to construct five immense factories and give work to 92,000 cigar makers and strippers.

TWENTY-ONE years of uninterrupted success is the crowning laurel now worn by the bright and newsy Evening Star of this city. Its Washington letter seems to grow better and richer every year. Its exchequer is filled with bright and shining shekels representing hundreds of millions of stars sent to an appreciative public for one and twenty years.

By constant hammering, we may sooner than we expect, be able to obtain the much needed elevated road. The opposition of course comes mainly from interested corporations, but even they must give way under popular clamor if it is persisted in. It is high time that old fogymism took a back seat, it dies hard, but die it must; Philadelphia has suffered too long and at too great a cost from old time conservatism; enterprise and progress must become the Shibboleth of every Philadelphian who hopes to see the commercial and financial status of this city placed where it belongs; money is plenty enough, but instead of being hoarded in bank vaults, it should be made to extend enterprise in whatever form it presents itself.

To leave our suburban population to the mercy of the railroad corporations is suicidal. The city is growing in population more rapidly than we imagine; no effort should be spared to advance legitimate enterprise, and every scheme promising greater development and better and cheaper traveling facilities should receive the earnest support of every citizen.

THE Phila. Record says:—"It is the unwarranted closing of reputable resorts, whose proprietors are willing to obey the laws, that drives the unwary seeker after amusement into the dives, whose proprietors are hostile to all law." It is hardly clear what the Record means by the unwarranted closing of reputable resorts, for it is not certain that there have been any reputable resorts closed. If the Victoria is one of the "reputable resorts," and the testimony given at the hearing of Rush and others connected with its management is true, it was pulled none too soon.

The good sense of Director Stokley can be relied upon at all times in the matter of discriminating between the Meannorchor Garden and such places as the Victoria and some others that might be safely mentioned, but the best of these resorts with their cheap music and bad beer, are neither a credit nor advantage to the community; the music is only intended as a tempting bait to hold nineteen-twentieths of the visitors while they guzzle beer, they do not need, and which is purchased with money oftentimes sorely needed for food and rentment by a waiting wife and helpless bairns. There are other matters that need the vigorous editorial protection the Philadelphia Record is able to give them far more than does the music and beer question.

Important Tax Decision.

Judge Stowe recently in Pittsburg rendered a decision in favor of the city of Pittsburg in a suit brought to recover taxes on property owned by the Home of the Friendless, but not used in the operation of the charity. The Court held that property not necessary for the operation of a charitable institution was taxable, and concluded his opinion by saying:—"It would be manifestly unjust if property devoted to charitable purposes could be allowed to remain unimproved and unproductive while rapidly increasing in value and susceptible of being at any time sold for a large amount and thus escape the ordinary duty of helping to pay the expenses of government."

THE Bryn Mawr Home News says: H. H. Houston has erected 120 houses on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad between Germantown and Chestnut Hill, and proposes to build 100 pretty cottages on New Grove avenue, east of Locust.

ST. JOHN'S INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL, at Edgington, Pa., is up as fast as second floor. The builders, Messrs. Stacy Leeves & Sons, 129 North Thirteenth street, state that it will be finished in about one year. This is the building given by the Misses Drexel. It will cost $250,000.

THE Norristown Herald says: H. J. Stager, R. T. S. Halliwell, and Col. Theo. W. Bean, the committee appointed to consider the improvements at Washington Headquarters, held a meeting recently and agreed to have an architect make a plan of the necessary repairs to the building.

A SYNDICATE, consisting of Messrs. A. C. Shiner, E. C. Suel, and E. R. Bendall, of the Breckinridge, William H. Young, and E. F. Brendlinger, have purchased of M. H. Casseberry, his farm of 82½ acres of land, 1½ miles from Allentown, for the purpose of cutting the same up into building lots.

AMBROSE DETTRE, real estate agent, of Norristown, has sold all that valuable tract of land known as the East Pennsylvania Hotel, situated on Seventh ward, Norristown, belonging to the estate of Thomas H. Wentz, to R. N. Keely, of Philadelphia. Terms private.

THE fine tract of ground opened for building improvements by the Swarthmore Land Company, near Rutledge and Morton, is being sold at a rapid rate, the fifth lot having been disposed of, making nearly 25 lots sold within the past ten days. Superintendent A. G. DeArmond informs us that at least a dozen houses will be built upon the ground within the next few months.

ON Thursday of last week, President Kennedy and Superintendent Boyd of the C. & P. R. R., R. H. Thomas, of the Farmer's Friend, and delegates of the Sunday School Assembly met at Williams' Grove, Carlisle, Pa., and located the sight of the new auditorium to be built principally for the use of the S. S. Assembly. It will stand near the Spring and seat 5,000 persons.

BENNETT FOLEY will build a large 3-story brick residence, English style, on East Biddle street; Mrs. P. C. Evans, two brick houses on South High street, and Joseph E. White, two-and-a-half-story brick residence on West Bard street. Mr. C. C. Chester, and at same place Stephen C. Black is building a large three-story and mansard roof brick residence on North Church street.

THE West Brooklyn Land and Improvement Company has issued a very handsome pamphlet, which contains some very fine photographs of the houses recently erected by them. The Company has done much to improve this locality during the past few months. Several Philadelphia architects are interested, among whom are Messrs. W. Frederick Snyder, Jay Cook, and John M. Butler.

JOHN KELLEY, 128 Brown street, has the contract for a frame stable for Mr. John Lucas at Gibbsboro, N. J. The building will be 60 feet square, four stories with the basement. It will be furnished with all modern improvements. Mr. Lucas is also putting up two large 3-story cottages, same place. Size 25x50, at a cost of $2,850. H. Gill, of Moorestown, is the builder; Brian & Godwin, 143 Fifth street, are the architects for the improvements.

THE Bridge Works of Cottrill & Saylor, of Pottstown, are very busy at present, employing 400 men or thereabouts, and adding to the number almost daily. The chief object of the bridge works put through by this extensive and completely equipped industrial establishment are the large Market Street Bridge, Philadelphia, and the new bridge, 1,750 tons of iron, a vast pile of which is now ready; bridges for the Pennsylvania Railroad and branches; also for the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway road, and the Colorado Midland Railroad. It is probable that the works will run on night as well as day turn are long.

HEADQUARTERS DIVISION OF THE ATLANTIC, Office of Chief Quartermaster, GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, N. Y. H., May 2, 1887.

Sealed proposals, in triplicate, subject to usual conditions, will be received by the Chief of the Office of the Post-Quartermaster, Fort Niagara, Youngstown, N. News Items.

REAL ESTATE is improving in Camden.

A LARGE number of dwellings are to be erected in Germantown.

The Building Trades Council report business good in all branches.

Considerable interest is manifested in the auction sales of late.

A GREAT deal of property is being scheduled for sale this summer.

Time bricklayers in the Water Department are after more money.

FRONTAGE charges are to be made hereafter for the laying down of gas pipes.

TOWARDS of $300,000 will be put in small houses this summer along Lehigh avenue.

It is rather strange that the properties north of Market street should advance so slowly.

A SYNDICATE, headed by Wm. L. Elkins, has purchased a part of Front Hill for $90,000.

WHAT is the matter with the hotel project on South Broad street? Has it climbed the golden shaft?

H. O. WILBUR & SONS will have 150,000 feet of floor space in their new North Third street establishment.

GREAT building activity is reported all along the Pennsylvania Railroad within twenty-five miles of the city.

THERE is an urgent demand for two and three-story houses in the extreme northeastern section of the city.

RESIDENTS of the Twenty-second ward want mounted police, especially in the neighborhood of Fitville.

THE question of abolishing all street market stands will be acted upon by the Committee on City Property.

If the Governor is willing, Philadelphia will be able to enter into five-year contracts for the removal of garbage.

THE Chicago employers in the building trades have been the bull by the horns. The bricklayers have been obliged to close down.

THE Spring Garden street people object to the removal of the old market sheds until better market facilities are provided or promised.

THE $600,000 appropriated for the improvement of the Capitol building, ought, if rightly spent, to provide all necessary accommodations.

AT last the Raleigh estate has been sold. It comprises 20,000 acres in Camden and Burlington counties. The new purchasers will endeavor to cut it up and sell it out.

SELECT COUNCIL by a close vote, 14 to 12, has asked Governor Beaver to sign the Elevated Railroad bill. The asking ought not to be necessary, and the 12 who voted in the negative, ought to be left at home next year.

CHAS. J. McILVAIN has built 167 the residences in West Philadelphia. The investment amounted to $1,250,000. Mrs. C. B. Truitt, will erect a large number of houses in the vicinity of Spring Garden, Thirty-sixth, and Thirty-seventh streets.

LAST year the Gas Trustees laid forty-five miles of pipe at a cost of 60 cents per foot, or $150,000. Mr. Burley started last week in a Council debate, that this pipe was laid in the interest of builders. An ordinance was passed providing for the laying of twelve miles a year.

THE projected elevated railroad will give property in the northern section of the city a boom.

The prospects of rapid transit has led to considerable inquiry already. Manufacturing establishments will be erected in that neighborhood, and thus assist in the improvement of that locality.

COMMON COUNCIL has voted to allow builders to occupy space in streets not exceeding in extent the dimensions of the front of the premises to be built upon, and eighty feet in addition by nine feet wide and thirteen feet high, no building material to be placed within four feet of a fire-pipe or flag crossing.

THE Governor has 283 bills to act upon, many of them affecting the manufacturing and business interests of Philadelphia. Yet how many know what they are. One bill which passed, abolished taxes on watches, pleasure carriages and household furniture. Another prohibits the employment of children under 12 years of age in mills, factories, or mines. Another increases the number of Building Inspectors from 3 to 9, instead of 14, as was asked for.

BUILDERS and employers generally will read with interest the following decision of the Supreme Court, involving the question of payment of wages, where notice to quit was stipulated. A workman named Goss was engaged to work in the Pottsville Steel and Iron Company's foundry without such a provision, and that he might be discharged at the end of a month he was required to sign a receipt for his wages, in which it was agreed that if he left the company without giving fourteen days' notice, he should forfeit all wages then due. Shortly afterwards he left without such notice, and was refused his wages. He sued and recovered them, and the Supreme Court now reverses the judgment, holding that he was not obliged to sign a receipt containing such a provision, and that he might be discharged at any time, and recover all wages to that date; but that, having signed, a new contract was created by which he was bound. Judge Green says: "In large establishments where very great loss may be inflicted by a sudden and extensive strike of the men, such a seems to be an entirely proper and reasonable one."

Architects' Notes.

JOHN McARTHUR, Jr., recommends asphalt as a lining to the Reservoir. Director Wagner will include concrete and asphalt in his advertisement inviting bids.

HARRISON ALBRIGHT, 508 Walnut street, drew the plans for and has been superintending the construction of two stone and frame cottages at Oak Lane Station for Mr. T. Henry.

BREAN & GODWIN, 1413 Filbert street, have drawn plans for a large 3-story stone residence, 60x72, at Coatesville. The house is a brick with cement. Heavy galvanized iron cornices and antique roof, finished in hard wood. The cost will be over $30,000. A hydraulic ram will be used to force the water into a large tank at the top of the house. The contracts are not as yet let.

THE Girard Life Insurance, Annuity and Trust Co., 202 Chestnut street, has purchased a property at Broad and Chestnut streets, and will probably erect a very handsome building thereon. Ground plans have been drawn merely to see if the location was suitable for a banking establishment, the ground was found to answer every purpose. The building committee will report shortly as to their intentions.

CHAS. M. BURNS, 717 Walnut street, has drawn plans for large new brick church at Sellsbury, Md., the building will be of Byzantine architecure, and will be erected on the site of the old church recently destroyed by fire. It will contain three hundred and thirty seats. The church is a brick tower twenty feet square and one hundred and twenty feet high for St. Stephen's Church, Wilkesbarre, Pa. It will be in Lombard style of architecture. A chime of bells will be placed in the tower. The contracts are not yet let.

MR. HARRISON ALBRIGHT, 508 Walnut street, has drawn plans for a number of houses on Oak Lane Station. Twin Queen Anne cottages for T. Henry Asbury, will be constructed of stone, rock-face finish, for two stories, the second and third stories being of frame. The houses will be built by days' work, size 50x90; also a residence for Mr. H. Subers.

Mr. Frank Williams is also building at Philadelphia, a three-story residence, with a bay window, and a porch in height, 45x62. The porches will be stone arched. The interior will be of hard-wood finish, with a stairway of antique oak. Bath rooms and all modern appointments, which will be supplied by water from an artesian well, by either a wind or steam pump. The contracts are not yet let.

Two more cottages will be erected for Mr. Asbury on Oak Lane, similar to that of Mr. Subers.

Germantown Improvement Co.

The Improved Dwellings Association, of Germantown, began its work with a capital of $3000 in October, 1885. It purchased two dwellings, 240-42 Centre street, embracing four small houses, at a cost of $3000. The income was $387.87, the expenses, deducting taxes, repairs, etc., were $76.54, leaving a net income of $257.33, out of which a dividend of 5 per cent. was declared. It is desired to increase the capital to the limit of the charter, $20,000, there being little doubt of excellent and practical work. Subscriptions to the stock will be received by any of the Directors at par. The officers are: President, James A. Wright; Vice President, Justus C. Strawbridge; Secretary, John H. Clifford; Treasurer, William Foulke; Directors, including above named, Edith Wright, Mary S. Cope, William H. Haines, A. G. Eliot and Walter Cope. The objects of the Association are the sanitary improvement of the dwellings of the poor, enforcement of municipal and sanitary regulations and general improvement of the condition of tenants.

Three per cent. of net earnings will go to the city. The gauge will be four feet six inches. A wise provision would have been to give the city the right to buy the road at expert valuation after ten years. The ordinance secures the stockholders in possession for fifty years. Meanwhile public opinion will be revolutionized on the subject of private ownership of railroads. The opposition to the new scheme will not surrender without some show of fight.

ON Wednesday, the Committee on Law will consider the amendments to the ordinance granting the elevated railroad franchise.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, MAY 23, 1887.

THE monopolistic appetite of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has even assailed the right of a cab-driver to go to its station after passengers, and what makes the matter worse, according to Magistrate Lennon's decision on a test case, cab-drivers have no right to do so. The first thing we know, the company will have a corner on the atmosphere. The elevated road will be gobbled in a jiffy unless carefully watched. Watch it!

THE BROWN BROTHERS have started the big office building boom. The Drexels have given it another push; a half dozen companies have already discussed the advisability of investing some of their surplus cash in office buildings of seven or eight stories, to be erected between Fourth and Seventh streets and Market and Walnut. The agitation has been started, and good will come of it. Land is too dear and too valuable to be covered with old-fashioned rookeries. The needs of the hour call for immense office buildings. New York and Chicago are away ahead of us in this particular.

SOUTH WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Dr. Charles Schneider will build a dwelling and office on Southern avenue. The refining company will build an extension of the steel and iron shop. Jacob Sluader will build on Linden street, and a large addition is to be made to the nail works for the manufacture of wire nails, besides which the following persons are now building: Daniel Plankenhorn, dwelling and store, on Southern avenue; A. K. Jackson is erecting several houses on Maynard street; Christian Kistler is erecting a dwelling on Clinton street, and Archibald Black a very fine 2-story dwelling on Southern avenue; Joseph Plank is extending and improving his residence, and H. M. Murray and George C. Aschenbach, who purchased the old army on Southern avenue, intend changing it into two dwelling houses, and will erect new houses in front of it. Masons have commenced laying the foundation for the new church, and Edward Axtel and Christian Haas are erecting dwellings.

The cornerstone of the new Rutledge Institute, situated at Rutledge, Delaware county, has been laid. The Institute is located a few hundred yards south of Morton Station, it is to be 62 feet in length by 32 feet in width, it will be two stories high, and will be built of stone from the green & Lehigh quarries in that vicinity. The first floor is to be divided into rooms for the use of the public schools, and into large lecture halls and reading rooms for hall purposes, besides several ante-rooms. Charles Biderston, of this city, is the architect, and Wilson Minto is the contractor and builder. Rutledge was first started in 1884, by a company consisting of 250 subscribers, known as the Rutledge Land Improvement Association, which bought 63 acres of land at a cost of $7,000. In June, 1885, the Association was incorporated. The lots were then sold at prices ranging from $100 to $1,000 each. $10,000 have been expended on street improvements, and the new town is booming. The new Institute will cost $8,000, and is being built by the company.

GEORGE CASTOR, Holmesburg, is asking for bids for the erection of a mansion, which he will build on Solly's Hill, at that place.

DIRECTOR WAGNER will shortly advertise for proposals for the erection of a new purifying house at that place.

JOHN M. SHARP is building a number of houses southwest corner Eighteenth and Diamond streets; pressed brick, with brownstone trimmings.

The Tacony Real Estate Association has dedicated the new street, and all streets running between the avenue and the railroad, to the city.

MR. WANAMAKER has purchased the lot, Broad and Third Ward Gas Works, at the corner of the employees. Mr. W. states that he has made no plans for the building.

A lot of ground on Wolfe street, in the First Ward, between Eleventh and Chestnut streets, in the Thirtieth Ward, are to be purchased for school purposes.

It is rumored that E. B. Lewis is about to make a handsome residence, his house on Locust street, above Twentieth. That gentleman could not be found to verify the statement.

PROPOSALS will be received by the Director of Public Works, in accordance with a resolution passed by Councils' Water Committee, for a suitable asphalt paving for a section of the city.

CHAS. G. HENDERSON, 1428 Columbia ave., has just finished seven 3-story houses on Berks street, from Gratz to Nineteenth. The cellar walls have been started for five more, of the same style; blue marble fronts to all.

The great building activity predicted early in the month in the northern part of the city, has not exceeded predictions. The houses, or most of them, are of improved design and finish. By midsummer the three-fourths of the work on hand will be completed.

THE plans for the new buildings to be erected by the Board of City Trusts, on Market street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, in this city, and the hands of the architects, and will soon be finished. A meeting of the Board will be held shortly, and the plans will then be considered.

BLINN & BAKER, whose office is at the buildings, have started eight houses on Eighth street above Montgomery avenue; eighteen on Brevier street. The material used will be pressed brick, with brownstone trimmings, and will sell for forty-three to forty-five hundred dollars.

ANSON M. TRICK has purchased a large tract of land from the Cape estate, southeast corner of Broad and Tasker streets, upon which he will build a number of houses. Those on Clarion street will be small; many houses on Tasker street, while those on Broad street will be three stories, with brownstone fronts.

J. LOUIS KATES, 1806 Berks street, will build in a short time a few hundred houses on Nineteenth street, on Eighteenth streets, the remainder on Gratz street. Those on Nineteenth street and Gratz will be constructed of pressed brick, with brownstone and ornamental brick. Those on Eighteenth street will be of pressed brick, with trimmings of terra cotta and pressed brick. The houses will sell from $5,000 to $12,000, being fitted up with electric bells and electrolights, hardwood finish, and all modern improvements. The contracts will be sub-let.

The trustees of the building fund of the Geo. W. South Memorial Church of the Advocate, Eighteenth and Diamond streets, contemplate erecting a church on the same lot as the parish and chapel buildings, which are now under way. The building will be of pressed brick, with brownstone trimmings. The plans will be so impossible to learn, as no official statement will be made. Stained glass windows and elegant interior decorations will be included. Two houses will also be built, one on Eighteenth street and one facing on Gratz street, of brick, with brownstone trimmings. None of the chapel buildings have been let. The trustees have not decided when the building will be commenced.

Trade and Industry.

Trade and industrial conditions are favorable although there is not that glut in manufacturing and industrial circles that there was earlier in the season. Last week's volume of business as reported by wire from thirty-six cities, shows a decline of 11 per cent. as against the week previous. Bituminous iron output decreased 42 per cent. but this was due to the coke strike. Fifteen thousand anthracite coal miners are temporarily idle because of an effort of the combination to advance prices through restriction. There were 187 commercial failures last week as against 142 for the week previous. The dullness complained of in many quarters is due simply to the undue activity early in the season, which stimulated prices and this in turn encouraged production. The industries are now righting themselves. Usually at this time orders are placed in some industries for fuel requirements. A general reluctance is observable to anticipate requirements, but this has not had the effect of causing a cutting in prices for two reasons: first, the cost of production forbids, and second, manufacturers in nearly every branch of production are confident that the consumptive requirements will absorb the entire output of mills, factories, shops, furnaces, and mines. This confidence is steady prices and preserving the conservative tendency which has been cropping out ever since the spring rush was over.

Builders and contractors in this and all other large cities are busy, except at a few points, such as Chicago, where strikes exist. Fortunately, labor is generally quiet, if not contented. Rumbling discontent is heard in some quarters, but no outbreak is probable. Wages have been generally advanced throughout the country, and workmen recognize that wholesalers and retailers are anxious to do all the business they possibly can do, even to a shading of prices, when trade conditions do not leave much room or occasion for it. Laths are scarce, shingles active, posts are wanted in large lots. The coating-lumber trade is quite active. Hardwoods are moving freely, and prices are in buyers' favor.

The demand for builders' hardware is setting in, and dealers are well stocked. Factors are still running full time for the most part.

The various stone companies and composition-pavement agencies report a good steady movement, but owing to the sharp competition a great deal of business is done on rather narrow margins. The increased use of stone for all manner of work has encouraged an opening of new quarries and an extension of old ones. Slate is also selling well, and several good contracts were closed last week.

Lumber continues reasonable for most kinds. Hemlock, especially dry stock, is scarce and dear, and almost a speculative activity manifested itself last week, especially for certain lengths. A good deal of green stuff is arriving. White pine is dragging so far as prices are concerned, but the distribution is very great and it is unfair, to say the least, to interrupt the friendly relations now existing in an effort to advance cost of labor after employers have bound themselves up in tight, forfeit contracts. Builders have reason to congratulate themselves that building material has preserved so much uniformity in prices. Bricks are one exception, rails have declined, and fair brands have been selling at $2.00 to $2.15, although the Atlantic States nail-makers came together and put prices back to $2.25. Eight factories are now idle for want of work, four in the New England States and four in Pennsylvania, and the rest are running about one-third capacity.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

IMPROVEMENTS are being made at the cordage works of Edwin H. Fittler, at Bridesburg.

A. S. TOURISON is just starting a pair of stone houses on Chew street, near Mt. Pleasant street, Mt. Airy.

At Chestnut Hill, Joseph Hottentstine has bought a $2,000 lot, and will build a double house, with store fronts.

THE church building of the First Presbyterian Church, on Centre street, Manayunk, is to be enlarged.

FRANK RICKARDS is about to build a large brick factory at the corner of Howard and Huntingdon streets.

JAS. H. BOOM has broken ground for the building of four stone pointed houses on Janette street, Manayunk.

MR. H. McNEILL, an enterprising builder, is constructing thirty 2-story, 6-room houses at Sixth and Ninth streets.

A SCHOOL-HOUSE will shortly be erected at Mount Airy. The project is not far enough under way to report anything definitely.

PELASKI & Co.'s store, 1025 Chestnut street, is to undergo extensive alterations preparatory to its occupancy by F. A. Hoyt & Co.

JOHN C. BULLITT, Esq., for the Fourth National Bank, paid $4,000 for the premises, northeast corner Fourth and Harmony streets.

THE children's ward of the Presbyterian Hospital, at Thirty-ninth and Filbert streets, is nearing completion, it being nearly ready to plaster.

THE sale of lots on Delaware avenue, Holmesburg, brought about $2.25 per foot. A number of houses will be erected in the near future.

PETER COLLINS has commenced the building of three 3-story stone and brick houses on Mt. Vernon street, east of Division street, Manayunk.

D. O. MILLS, of New York, has given $80,000 to erect a new building on the grounds of Bellevue Hospital, New York, for a training school for male nurses.

HENRY TAYLOR has the contract for the house of August Rex, on Chestnut avenue, Chestnut Hill. The contract for dwelling and stable will amount to $35,000.

REV. MR. THOMPSON, pastor of church, Broad street and Castle avenue, is erecting two handsome houses on west side of Broad street, south of Dickinson street.

CORP. & STEWARDSON are making drawings for the alteration of J. S. Bispham, 1825 De Lancey Place. The contracts which are not yet placed will probably amount to $6,000.

WILLIAM MORROW is erecting twenty-five 2-story houses on the north side of Watkins street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, for which he has ready sales.

STEINBACH & CHESTNUT, 1822 Federal street, have commenced an operation consisting of nineteen 2-story brick houses, on Rosewood street, between Morris and Tasker.

COUNCILMAN E. J. MATTHEWS is building houses on North Nineteenth street above Butler, and seven on Canine street above Butler. He expects to build fifty houses in that neighborhood.

PLOUCHER & SPOON, builders, will erect for Mr. Schiller, the rope maker, six houses, with store fronts, on the site of the North Star Hotel property, also eight houses on Margarett street, Frankford.

EARLY IN June, Hugh Copeland, stone contractor, Twenty-fourth street and Washington avenue, will build a stone chapel, corner of Ninth street and Lehigh avenue, which will be 65 feet front by 72 feet deep.

AUGUSTUS DUVAL has purchased a lot at the southeast corner of Broad and Tasker streets, where he will build a residence and drug store. The plans have not been drawn, neither have sketches been made.

WM. HOWELL, 3111 Race street, will build a number of 2-story brick houses on Kipp street, south of Cambria, five on Leamy street, and eight on Cambria st., between Kipp and Leamy, Twenty-fifth Ward.

FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS, which has been donated by Miss Elizabeth M. Ward, has been diverted by the Reformed Episcopal Church Council for the construction of a parsonage for the Third P. E. Church, at Germantown.

ROBERT MONTGOMERY, who built on west side of Sixteenth street, between Tasker and Morris, has just completed them. He is now building at Fifty-sixth street and Lancaster avenue, a number of pressed brick 2-story, 6-room houses.

BENJ. KETCHAM & SON, 1029 Brown street, will build, the second week in June, four 2-story brick stores, 1833-35-37-39 Market street; also three 3-story houses, south side of Green, and four 3-story houses north side of Minerva, east of Franklin streets.

MR. J. PLEXTY, of New York, has received the contract for the erection of five greenhouses on the grounds of A. C. Harrison, located on Perikemon pike and Somerset avenue, Chestnut Hill. The glasses are held in place in the frames by a new patent, putty not being used.

A. M. ZANE, 1930 Franklin street, will build four 2-story pressed-brick houses on Orrianna street, between Lehigh avenue and Somerset street; thirteen on east side Fourth street, between Lehigh avenue and Somerset street; two stores and dwellings, and five 3-story houses north side Lehigh avenue, between Fourth and Orrianna streets. Operations will begin early in June.

REDMAN'S HALL, Third and Brown streets, has been a rather unfortunate piece of property. It is a massive building, and cost originally $200,000. It has passed through several hands, and was once more sold on Monday. There is a need in that quarter of the city of a large building to accommodate small manufacturers with space, power and office room. This building might be made to pay, if altered with that view.

JOHN GIBSON is erecting a number of houses at southwest corner of Broad and Wharton streets, east on Wharton street, running west from Broad. The corner is a store and dwelling, which will sell for ten or twelve thousand dollars. The dwellings on Wharton street will sell for five thousand dollars. They are all built of brick, with brownstone trimmings, and are three stories high, inside finish being of hardwood.

JAMES McNUTT, builder, 2320 Sepvina street, has several operations in the Twenty-fifth Ward, on Cambria street, and on Leamy street. He is erecting twelve 2-story brick houses; one store and dwelling, corner of Hart lane and Cambria street; a 3-story store and dwelling, corner of Boudnot and Cambria streets; five 2-story dwellings on Hart lane, near Cambria street, and three 2-story houses, on east side of Boudnot street, between Cambria and Clearfield.

As the Lutherans have built a new church at Kimberton, the Reformed congregation of Pikesland has offered to give the old church to the one. If they succeed in purchasing it the Reformed congregation will tear down the old church and build a new one on the same site.

MR. FRANK P. FALLON, builder, at Wayne, Pa., is about to commence six or eight houses, which will be the nucleus of a settlement at Radnor, near the Baptist church. They will be two stories high, of frame construction, and contain seven rooms; each house will have a quarter of an acre of ground. Prices will range from $1,000 to $2,000; also five very handsome properties on Wayne avenue, two frame and three of stone. Those of frame construction will be three story, ten-room houses, size of lot 10x250 feet, and will sell for $5,500. Those of stone will be three-story, high finished in hard wood, stained glass, and all modern improvements, size of houses, 38x50 feet, size of lot 80x350 feet. They will cost $8,000. Mr. Fallon will also build six or eight stone houses 38x50 feet, on an acre of ground, which will sell for $10,000. Their location will be on Windermere and Louella avenues. These contracts will all be sub-let by the builder.

BUILDING at Wayne Station on the Pennsylvania railroad, is about to spring into activity again. The Wayne estate, under the recent management of Mr. Frank Smith, will receive new life, as he is pushing improvements all over the town. Messrs. Childs and Drexler will divide the land into lots for building lots suitable for any size operation and will make advances for the same. During the coming summer these gentlemen will build from five to fifteen new houses ranging in price from five to ten thousand dollars each. Plans have not been made for them up to this date.

Among the improvements is a three-story stone house for Mr. Henry Geisse, which will be very unique and handsome, finished in hard wood, electric bells and lights, with steam engine, and all modern improvements; the contracts have not as yet been let. A two-and-one-half-story frame house for Mr. E. C. Sober, lot 10x250 feet, cost of house $3,300. The property on Wayne avenue, S. W. from Lancaster avenue, will be sold to Col. Thos. Field for $3,400. The lot is 100x300 feet, on which is a three-story brick house, Queen Anne architecture; also one of same kind for Mr. J. Stewart Wood. INDUSTRIES are looking up at Chester. The extensive works of Robert Witherill are impending their facilities. The Chester Foundry and Machine Shops, and the Patterson Mills are starting again after a long stage of inactivity. Contractors and those having money to invest should make particular inquiries in regard to this place, as the demand for houses is constantly increasing, especially two-story four to six-room houses at cheap prices. In conversation with his Honor, the Mayor of Chester, he expressed his regret that the city was not better known. "Why," he said, "there is scarcely a day passes that I do not have from ten to fifteen calls for small houses, modern residences. The local builders seem afraid to handle any large operation since the failure of a bonus speculation some time since. A great amount of building is going on at the suburban towns on the line of the P. W. & E. and B. & O. R. R. The accommodations offered by these roads as well as 'the stambout companies,' makes this section particularly advantageous to business men.

TO MAKE THE OUTSIDE BETTER.

An architect must of necessity be a learned man, and must know many things that he can't find in books. The quality of building material changes faster than books.

The architect knows how to specify for a good tin roof. Does he know how to obtain it? He wants the owner to be satisfied and to know that he gets the roof he pays for.

There is just one way; only one way—if it is the best tin he is after—and that is to specify—'every sheet stamped with the BRAND and THICKNESS.'

The brand is "GILBERTSON'S OLD METHOD." The thickness is IC or IX.

If the tin is not stamped, you may or you may not get it. How are you to know after the roof is on? You may say it is not the proper tin. The roofer may say it is.

Our tin is a sheet of steel, covered with all the coating it will carry. You can't see through it—you can't even guess the thickness after the roof is laid.

The brand we have mentioned is guaranteed in all respects to do anything required of a first class roof—guaranteed by us to our customers, and to us by the maker—that it will stand all the tests claimed for it—and more too.

No similar guarantees are offered today by other importers with their plates—that is, guarantees that are so direct, positive or convincing.

A guarantee 'equal to something else' is no guarantee at all.

A good roof should last thirty to forty years, without any other expense than painting.

Inferior tin may last five years—often does not last that long—then the expense begins and keeps on.

The first cost of a good roof is but a trifle more than that of inferior tin—in the long run much less.

The above facts cannot be contradicted.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1887.

It has grown to be quite a custom with rich men when their time comes to make wills, to give money to religious or educational and charitable institutions, for the sake, no doubt, of some posthumous fame. It would be well for some good and rich man to give some of his wealth to encourage technical education and manual training.

THE city sets a very poor example in the shabby manner it does its work in tearing down the market sheds on Girard avenue and Spring Garden street; the old sheds were bad enough eye sores, but their removal does not improve the looks of the street, nor add to the value of property in the vicinity so long as their sites remain covered with broken bricks, tomato cans, and old lumber. The purpose of removing the old sheds was to get rid of an unmitigated nuisance, and not to make pasture lots for billy goats, nor play grounds for street urchins.

THE WANAMAKER SYNDICATE, if allowed to prosecute its grand enterprise, will do more to enhance and equalize the value of real estate between the Delaware and Schuylkill than any other agencies possibly could. Its effect on real estate would be equal to a five years' expansion in one year. The region of city between Lehigh avenue and McKean street, and the Delaware and the Schuylkill, could be made to comfortably accommodate a fifty per cent. greater population, to say nothing of the facilities for increased business.

A GREAT deal of suburban property is being purchased for building and speculative purposes. During the past few days cases have come to light where about eight farms, some of them of large extent, have been purchased as investments. These steps are evidently the preliminary ones for a quite general movement to acquire suburban properties of one, two or three acre plots. As the industrial and commercial operations of the city expand, the wealthier classes will be more and more anxious to exchange city for suburban homes. In times past city residences were preferable to those who acquired them ten, twenty or thirty years ago, but the younger scions of the old stock have no attachments to the old homesteads. They want air, style and room, and they will go to suburban localities for it. Wise operators in real estate are anticipating this tendency.

BUILDERS all over the city have been complaining of the scarcity of bricks. The necessities at this season of the year are very heavy, but never so great as at the present time. Last fall a pool was formed by New Yorkers who bought up all the pressed and hard bricks on hand; this, then, is another cause for the scarcity. It should be a matter for congratulation among the manufacturers that the quality of Philadelphia brick is superior to those from yards in any other city. But builders should learn a lesson by this year's loss, and use foresight and judgment and procure their stock before the busy season commences. Brickmakers are very cautious in working up much material as they are never safe on account of the carters and yard men, who are liable to strike at any moment.

It will be remembered that when the Record building was being erected, the Philadelphia Ledger was profuse in its laudations of Mr. Singlerly, because he did not infringe upon the public highway, but stored the old material upon the lot on which his new building was to be erected; of course it was intended as a hint to other builders, and, in fact, intimated that builders should be compelled to keep their old material off the public streets. The absurdity of the proposition and the impossibility of building in cases where the old material must be laid aside until needed, without occupying a portion of the public streets, is expressed in the Childs-Drexel Building, now in course of construction at Fifth and Chestnut streets, for, notwithstanding the size of the lot, seven-eighths of one side of both Fifth and Library streets, of that block, is now encumbered with old material from the Post-office building. Builders have troubles enough without being hampered with editorials from those who know very little, if anything, about what they write.

ALL ordinances that are hereafter submitted to Councils in the interest of elevated railroad schemes, should distinctly and unqualifiedly reserve the right on the part of Councils to forfeit every franchise of that nature in every case where it could be established by satisfactory evidence that any steam, horse railroad, traction company was directly or indirectly interested either in the franchise, stock, road bed or rolling stock, or any part thereof, of such elevated road. In fact, it would be better to prohibit any director of a steam railroad company from owning any of the stock of the elevated road, and upon sufficient proof the same should be forfeited to the city. It is very evident that an effort will be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad and Traction Company to control all elevated franchises granted, and if the matter is not carefully watched, and some prohibitory clause inserted in the ordinance, the people may be subjected to the worst forms of extortion; in fact, the same management which now precludes the possibility of dividends for the stockholders of the Camden and Atlantic could make an elevated road a serious nuisance instead of an advantage to our citizens. This city has already experienced too much of the baneful influences of railroad corporations, and it is about time the brakes were put on.

ANOTHER seven-story edifice is to be erected near Fourth and Walnut by the American Fire Insurance Company.

The Rhetoric of Facts.

Facts are really the strongest points of an argument, they are the salient nucleus around which the skillful orator weaves his web of rhetoric and renders his argument invulnerable. For years Merchant & Co.'s guaranteed brands of roofing plates have in unanswerable argument—that of superiority—appealed to the common sense of the community until now their popularity extends across the continent, and old time dealers by the score, who formerly imported their own plates, have yielded under the pressure of demand and are now carrying full stocks of Gilbertson's old method and Camaret roofing plates. The following is a list of these well-known firms: San Francisco, Cal., Geo. H. TAY & Co.; San Diego, Cal., Williams & Ingle; Portland, Oregon, Goldsmith & Loewenberg; Omaha, Neb., Milton Rogers & Sons; Kansas City, Mo., H. S. Meacham; St. Louis, Mo., The Excelsior Mfg. Co.; Memphis, Tenn., Livermore Pdry. & Machine Co.; Cincinnati, Ohio, F. H. Lawson & Co.; Louisville, Ky., T. C. Coleman; Indianapolis, Ind., Tanner & Sullivan; Detroit, Mich., Rathbone, Sard & Co.; Buffalo, N. Y., Sidney Shepard & Co.; Pittsburgh, Pa., John Dunlap & Co.; Boston, Mass., Richards & Co.

BANKING INSTITUTIONS have been quite liberal during the past year or two in loaning money on building operations. The question has been recently raised as to the safety of investments of this character. The banks and the lenders of money are safe in any event; the only jeopardised interests are the builders and the instalment buyers, and then only in the event of a general depression which would affect the earning capacity of buyers to earn wages. The anxiety of Philadelphia capital to stay at home is favorable to enlarged building operations. A prominent financier stated very recently that these investments were most favorably regarded by banking institutions.

TRYMBY, HUNT & Co. had 20,000 feet of floor space on the site now being built upon. The new building will furnish them about 50,000 feet of floor space. In other words, they obtain two-and-one-half times as much space on the same lot in the new building.

This is a hint or ought to be a hint to the sleepy old Rip Van Winkles who own Market street properties. There are blocks of properties there which ought to be torn down, and which it is the worst possible business policy to let stand. The improved properties would rent better, and attract a class of tenants that could afford to pay more. The Tymbby, Hunt & Co. building which is 35 feet front, is to cost $100,000, the lot was $100,000. The houses on some of the Market street properties are not worth $5,000. Here is high-priced real estate sacrificed by cheap, and poorly renting old structures that are unable to accommodate the big concerns who would move into large structures if erected.

Take this case alluded to. By the expenditure of $100,000 the Lea Estate doubles its income from the property. It is high time that these old rookeries affording from 5,000 to 10,000 square feet of floor space, or less, should be removed, and structures erected that will double or quadruple the available space. The Girard Trust sees what there is in it, and the Lea Estate is not in the habit of going wrong.

The rentable value of Market street properties can be greatly increased by a tearing down and rebuilding. In fact, a fire is a blessing sometimes to all concerned. But there is no use waiting on the fire fiend. There are urgent requirements for more and larger buildings where some of the great manufacturing firms and corporations of this city and State now cramped for room, can find space to do business as they want to do it. In fact, business that would come to Market street is being driven from it by this short-sighted policy of holding on to the old colonial structures for the sake of the miserly rent they bring into the pockets of the owners.

MR. HUGH COPELAND has the contract for the marble and masonry of the Drexel Bank.

The Third National Bank contemplates erecting a new building.

The Girard Trust will expend $500,000 in its new buildings at Twelfth and Market.

entirely decided upon, no dimensions can be given, but the house will contain about 120 rooms. The island contains 3,000 acres, nearly the whole ocean front being protected by high sand hills. These will be partially leveled, the sand thrown back, and a natural boulevard, thirty feet high and sixty feet wide will be formed. A number of houses will be erected at once. The most important is the contemplated; they will be built near the centre of the island.

Architects' Notes.

BENJAMIN LINPORT is building a frame, stone and shingle house for Mrs. Dixon, at Marion Station, 70 feet front by 40 feet deep.

PLANS have been prepared by Architect McArthur for the extension of the office of the Receiver of Taxes, and several rooms for the Director of Public Safety. The Survey Department will occupy the rooms directly over those now in use by them. The Mayor will use their vacated quarters. Contracts have just been let to Hoff & Fontaine, 1102 N. Third street, for the heating of the western half of the building. Amount of contract was $11,580. Contracts have also been let to Cape Ann Granite Company, for $160,000, for two stairways on corner pavilions on the north side of the building.

WM. E. DOHRINS, Tenth and Chestnut streets, has drawn the plans, and is building two houses near Jenkintown Station; one is to be of stone, 36x55, the other of stone, 36x40. The houses will be of wood, and all modern improvements, which includes electric bells, gas machine, open grates and electric alarm, and a large number of closets.

Chas. A. Meurer, who expects to shortly build a stable on the premises. The second is for Theo. Glentworth. The same architect is also about to build a 2-story stone house at Harboro, for Mr. J. Garner. The house will be very complete when finished. Mr. Dohrins has just completed several houses at Ashbourne Station, ranging in price from five to ten thousand dollars. All are sold but one. He will also build at same place, in a little time, three stone frame houses, finished in hardwood; and stained glass, gas machines, electric bells, etc.

ADDITION HUTTON, 400 Chestnut street, has just completed plans for a very handsome building at Atlantic City, which will be known as the Real Estate and Law Building. The situation will be on Atlantic avenue, between 14th and 15th streets. Philadelphia, is the owner. The building will be 45 feet front by 100 feet deep and 50 feet high, and will contain four stories. The materials to be used in construction are stone, with ornamental brick trimmings, the base being of Wyoming Valley bluestone. The interior will be of marble. The roof will be of woodwork is to be cherry, ash and white pine. The entrance hall, corridors, and toilet-rooms on all the floors will be of marble. The roof will be also a spiral cast-iron stairway, beside that built of ash. The roof is to be very complete, the metal work on valleys, conductors, etc., when needed, being 18-oz. copper. The building will be heated by steam. All the flues are to be of tin. The glass used will be No. 1, American, double sash. The roof will also be partially of glass. A fire-pipe is to run the entire height of the building, with a hose in each story. The adjacent building will also be heated by same plant. Bidders will please make separate estimates for heating each building.

In a conversation with Mr. Lodge, a prominent real estate dealer, he said, "Real estate has never been better than at present for ten years. Many people say that this boom will not last, and that the bottom will fall out. In my opinion this is not so.
People have nowhere else to put their money, or if they had, real estate is the best place for it. The class of houses now being erected are entirely of a different order of a few years ago, and are getting better every year." In conclusion, that gentleman paid the REAL ESTATE RECORD a high compliment by saying that the lower section of the city was greatly benefitted by its efforts.

[ENTERED AT THE PHILADELPHIA POST OFFICE AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

VOL. II.—No. 23.

PRICE 15 CENTS.

The Outlook.

The foundation of the great industrial activities which have come and gone periodically in the United States for the past eighty years, were laid in low prices of labor and material. These periods of exceptional activity were each in time terminated by high prices of labor, material, real estate absorption of unavailable money of the country, and advancing rates of interest growing out of such absorption. What has been true in the past will probably be true in the future, although many sanguine writers and long headed practical men think otherwise. That ought to be because there is no economic necessity for these ever recurring ups and downs which have in one half decade swept a wave of prosperity over the country, only to be followed by a period of distress and bankruptcy and final recuperation after the disease had run its course. There should be no room for over-production as long as the masses had less than three square meals a day, a decent house to live in, and decent clothes to wear. But true as this is in the abstract, it seems famine and depression can not be avoided, and that we must prepare for a season of great activity by a system of semi-starvation resulting from disemployment assisted by the sheriff, who sweeps in the wrecks of honest manufacturers and business men who failed they scarcely knew how.

We are getting towards the danger line through higher priced labor, material and real estate. When the cost of these factors aggregate to the purchasing power of the masses, enterprise halts and balks because there is no longer any reward for it.

A builder will not put $50,000 and $100,000 into a block of houses if he discovers the rentals will not yield the customary return. If, for instance, a given block of houses could be built for $50,000, with labor at $2 to $3.50, bricks at $6.50, and lumber at $11 to $13, yielding him an annual return of say $5,000, he is not likely to build a block the following year when labor and material has advanced say 10 or 15 per cent., and when his returns would drop to say $4,000 or less. Of course as long as he can put the increased cost into rent he is safe, and yet not safe because of the probability of a future depression which would depress rents.

We are now travelling in this direction. Labor is demanding more and more; brick is much higher than last year, and builders' hardware has advanced; lumber is stiffer; real estate in many sections of the country is higher. With the increase of wages, labor is able to stand the advance in rents. Yet the tendency is in the wrong direction. The inducements to invest are still flattering. How long will they continue so?

Certainly this year will see no interruption to activity. Possibly and probably next year will be as prosperous. What the occasion for a shutting down none can tell, but we can to-day as clearly comprehend what the cause will be as we will know it when the halt will be made.

The extraordinary expansion in our producing capacity will no doubt continue for months to come. Railroad building is the basis of existing high prices and active demand. The rail mills have closed contracts this year for 1,700,000 tons. Sufficient to lay 18,000 miles of track. Their unsold capacity, amounting to 2,000 miles at least, will soon be under contract. Rails have advanced within two weeks $1.00 per ton. For the first time within two years the merchant bar mills of the State had to check up. Our rail capacity is such that in nine months enough rails can be made to last twelve months.

The lumber market is strong and active. The arrivals from Michigan are heavy, and white pine holds its own in spite of a little cutting of prices by over-anxious salesmen from the Northwest. The freshest in Maine has destroyed the demand and the lumber supply has been cut off from that quarter. Spruce lath are scarcely to be had, and bring $2.85. Cypress shingles are in active demand. The receipts of yellow pine for Southern ports are heavy and prices are firm. Sap pine from Virginia, kiln dried, is received with much favor. Hemlock is very scarce, but dealers have made no attempt to advance prices, as the new cut will soon be in, and it is large. The hardwood market is active, and wholesalers have been endeavoring to stock up for the next six months heavy demands; one single transaction alone last week was closed for $15,000 worth of cherry. Walnut holds popular favor, and prices range from $35 for culls to $100 for No. 1. The furniture manufacturers have been quite busy and are liberal purchasers, although ash and poplar constitute the bulk of their supplies. Mahogany is being much more largely bought.

Dealers in artificial stone are bidding for municipal favor. The various compositions are competing very closely. The facilities for supplying both compositions and quarried stone have been largely increased. The slate manufacturers report heavy sales so far.

The sash, door and blind factories are, and have been, running several weeks full time; most of them have season contracts with builders. Material is low in price. The interior mills near lumber sources are prospering best.

Bricks are easier. The yards are crowding work through as rapidly as possible. Extensions of capacity for the coming season are already talked of and will no doubt be made.

It would be wisdom on the part of the Master Builders' Exchange to keep the results of its special meetings involving the question of strikes, etc., from the daily press. It is well enough for the Exchange to settle upon a course of action in case of a strike, but the idea of hawking its resolutions about the public streets, is so stupid that there is no apology for it. Difficulties and dissensions between workmen and employers are frequently caused by aggressive and defensive measures which, when prematurely divulged, and not thoroughly understood, become insulting and aggravating. There is little sense in starting a riot now when every workman is needed and there is so much building to be done. Speech is silver, but at this time of the year silence is more than gold.

THE contemplated new Church edifice for the Grace Baptist church at the northeast corner of Broad and Berks streets, and for which plans have been accepted, is to be 140 feet deep by 170 feet front. The Broad and Berks streets fronts will be of brown stone, and the side walls of brick. The front will be ornamented with two small towers. The seating will be arranged with opera chairs, and the auditorium will be constructed like an amphitheatre. The seating capacity of the new church will be about 5,000; estimated cost, $100,000. The new building will be started as soon as the congregation can dispose of their present location at Berks and Mervine streets.

J. E. & A. L. PENNOCK are building a dwelling Walnut lane and Wayne ave. It is to be constructed of Indiana limestone, and finished in hard woods throughout. The house will be three stories in height, 35 feet front and 80 feet deep, cost about $50,000, Mr. Mahlon Bryant is the owner.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JUNE 13, 1887.

WE WERE somewhat delayed with the present number of the REAL ESTATE RECORD owing to our change of dress. The accumulation of valuable matter, together with the natural increase of conveyances, building permits and other important data has necessitated the change; our form of make-up has not been changed but in order that we might obtain increased room in our columns we have reduced the size of our type. This will relieve us of the necessity of using nonpareil type as heretofore in our building notes and will certainly improve the appearance of the paper.

OPINIONS on this Elevated Railroad System are abundant and cheap. Bounties offers of a quarter million dollars or a half million dollars and $10,000 a mile are all very good in their way. What the city wants is a percentage every year of the gross or net returns from the roads. It is entitled to it. Such an annual income would allow of a reduced tax rate. The city should part with no more franchises at any cost but share in the income of the one or more systems of road that may be built. This should have been done when our street car lines were built. Instead of allowing a few individuals to profit by the immense patronage necessarily bestowed on these lines, a certain percentage should have been received by the city. This grand opportunity for securing revenue should not be permitted to slip by.

THE tearing-up process, from which our street pavements have suffered for many years, is simply ridiculous, in fact it is a sure way of perpetuating, for an indefinite period, our city's already well-earned reputation for having the most paved streets of any large city in the world. It is only a short time since the cast iron conduits for electrical wires were first laid on Chestnut street, the Belgian blocks covering them have been torn up several times since, and now the conduit sections are being replaced with new ones, and the street is torn up again. The Highway Department is entirely too careless in granting its permits, or some corporations possess entirely too much influence for the good of the city, or the benefit of its citizens.

THE stand taken by the Trade Unions against the employment of non union labor, in view of the present great demand for labor of all kinds, and the extraordinary opportunities afforded to capital and enterprise, is unwise, unjust, unprincipled and unmanly in the extreme. It is inimical to our Republican form of Government, and assails the constitutional prerogative of every citizen. It is equivalent to the medieval demand, "Believe in my religion, or go to the stake." Believe as I do, or starve, is the modernized version.

Capital is now rushing by the millions from its rusty vaults into the channels of production and trade, and an era of wonderful prosperity in this country is even now seriously threatened by the folly and outrageously unjust demands of the trade unionists.

The right of every man to work is no less sacred than his right to worship, and that dogma which impeaches his manhood in one case is no less pernicious in both theory and practice when it seeks to ostracize him personally, or questions his right to earn a living by whatever legal method he chooses. The present assault upon non-union labor at this time—although never justified—expresses an extremely narrow policy, and a wicked indifference to the great loss it must cause, besides being un-Christian and cowardly, as a principle it strikes at the Government by the people, and for the people, and is without reason or justice.

If wages were low and declining, if work was scarce and a million mechanics were compelled to take to the high-ways in quest of employment, this might be advanced as an excuse for the present aggressive measures; but while there is work for all, and workmen sadly needed all over the country, not even this flimsy excuse can be offered in justification. The fact is, this ostracism has already gone too far. It must be stopped, for if not stopped, it must end in violence. Our boasted freedom is already threatened, for where every man is not allowed to work and worship as he pleases, no man is free.

Editor of "Real Estate Record and Builders' Guide,"

DEAR SIR,—As you take great interest in public improvements, I send this article on Broad Street to your notice. Broad street so paved would not only be a great improvement but would be some pleasure to drive upon Yours truly

J. M. H.

The article referred to by our correspondent appeared as an editorial in the "Evening Bulletin" of June 4th, instant and contained the following abstract from the presentment made by the Grand Jury for the May term: "We recommend to city councils the advisability, utility and economy of paving Broad street with an improved concrete or asphaltum pavement, and using the Belgian blocks now on Broad street to repave the side, main streets leading into Broad street that are not used by the Passenger Railway Companies." There is a heap of common sense in this suggestion, and the REAL ESTATE RECORD heartily endorses the proposition. The fact is Belgian block pavement does not fill the bill in every particular; it is of course, a great improvement upon cobble stones, but it is only suitable for streets on which heavily loaded vehicles must travel, it is much more difficult and expensive to clean and keep in repair than asphalt and from what can be seen of the wearing qualities of the asphalt pavement around the public building, it is an open question as to which will last the longer; asphalt does not wear out even as much as the granite block for while the latter is slow to wear yet it can be entirely worn away while asphalt pavement can be remedied and relaid as good as new, besides being indestructable except by fire.

The fact is there is not a leading street except Broad street above Columbia avenue that is fit to drive upon, yet there are hundreds of gentlemen of means in the central and southern part of the city who own fine driving horses and who in order that they may take an hour's spin in the Park must either consume much valuable time and save their horses' feet by not driving faster than a walk or suffer an excruciating shake up and run the chances of serious injury to their horses even by driving at a jog trot. The sooner the suggested improvement is made the better.

Some Sanitary Considerations.

Few things, if any, are more important in a dwelling house, than a suitable supply of water. And, next to the abundance planned for, is the importance of its proper introduction and distribution. It is a fortunate circumstance when the principal supply of water is so soft that it is equally good for all purposes. When the supply comes from springs in limestone districts, where the water is hard; although favorable to the growth of large frames in animals, it necessitates some provision for soft water besides.

It is difficult to provide at once for "hot and cold," and "hard and soft" water, though it is often done.

It is urged by some writers that water pipes should all be exposed to view for convenient access in case of needed repairs, but the esthetics will hardly consent to this; and with a proper system of casing with doors where they will be most needed, and a good architect's drawing of the plan of piping, to be fastened into a book for ready reference, that disfigurement of the different rooms in a dwelling will hardly be adopted generally.

After the condition that pipes shall be extended from the beginning of the supply to all the various points where water is needed, with the least needless expense, should be the requirement that every pipe be so placed that it will drain itself when not needed; this will prevent freezing and bursting of pipes.

Lead horizontal pipes should rest on a continuous support, to prevent sagging between points of attachment; otherwise every dip in its course will form a trap that cannot be drained.

With the precaution that all branches shall drain back into their mains, a perfect drainage is easily secured.

Frequent annoyance and great damage may be avoided by carefully protecting every portion of the piping from frost. Where pipes must be carried into exposed situations they should be held a little distance from the wall, and if possible, covered with some non-conducting substance. And where every other precaution is impossible, keep the pipes drained, the water shut off during exceptionally cold periods, which in this latitude do not last long.

It is very desirable, but not so easy of attainment, that if all the faucets in the house should be opened at once, the water would flow uninterruptedly through them all.

It is much easier to frame rules than to observe them. Hence one writer says: "I could easier tell twenty what 'twere well to do, than to be one of the twenty to follow mine own teachings!"

The following have been found by experience to be quite necessary, if the water service in a dwelling is to be at all satisfactory: 1st. Draw drinking and cooking water from the main supply-pipe. This avoids all effects of corrosion. 2nd. All other supplies may be taken from down pipes as it tends to clean them. 3rd. The comparative size of the pipe on each floor must regulate the flow of water, having reference to the possible flow at the same time on all the different floors. 4th. Place the supply-tank above all points to be served by the piping. 5th. Water-closets should be supplied by cisterns of their own, filled directly from the tank.

If the water is supplied by a city or company, it will be brought into the house through a pipe of limited size. But with that limitation, the quantity to be obtained in the building will depend, to a great extent, on the size of the system of piping, the larger the system the greater the supply. This results from two causes: first, the more rapidly the fluid is conducted away, the greater the velocity within certain limits with which it will flow through the supply-pipe; and second, when the pipe of the system is large, it serves as a reservoir into which, if necessary, the supply pipe may be pouring its contents perpetually; the flow, in point of time, diminishing with the size of the system.

Summary for Week Ending May 30th.

For the week ending June 6th hantnttir ee were reported in columns of the REAL ESTATE RECORD, three hundred and thirty-three transfers of Philadelphia properties representing a cash consideration of $1,193,440.67, also including a mortgage consideration of $197,583. BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Mr. John Milligan, the florist, of this city, is building a residence at Tacony.

The cost of St. Marks school at Bristol, previously reported, will be $25,000.

The Hancock Street Methodist Church contemplates erecting a Primary department to their Sunday School room.

Louis J. Burill has bought nineteen building lots at Northwest corner Thirtieth and Stiles for $30,500, which he will improve.

Edward H. Hannum, 55 Mill street, Germantown, is improving the Young Men's Christian Association at that place.

Extensive alterations and improvements will be made in a short time to the Baptist Memorial Church, Broad and Master.

Chas. W. Fetter has started a double frame house for Lizzie C. Smith, on Cambridge street, Holmesburg. The pair will cost $2,500.

A Rolling Mill for H. Diston & Sons at Tacony, Twenty-third Ward is partly under way. S. T. Williams in the employ of the firm will manage the operation.

The French Church will build a very handsome edifice and parsonage at the corner of Delancey Place and Twenty-second street. Plans are not yet fully developed.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church have sold the property at Southwest corner of Twelfth and Lombard for $12,000, which will be used for building lots.

Mr. Robert Steel, Pittville, Twenty-third Ward, is remodelling his house. Messrs. Hazlehurst & Huckle, architects. G. W. Hopkins, 1432 Vine street, is the contractor.

M. S. Travers, of Holmesburg City, has purchased 43 acres of land from Mr. W. F. Snyder, at Collegeville, Phila. Mr. Travers will erect a house some time this summer.

The Tacony Land Association are making arrangements with several large corporations to erect plants at that place. As negotiations are not completed nothing more definite can yet be given.

The president of the Paoli Land Association together with his sister, Miss Rebecca Headley, have written several able works on Phrenology. Miss Headley's latest being "The Mark of the Beast."

John S. Serrill, 1413 North Broad street, will soon commence fifty-seven houses on Third, Bodine and York streets, twenty-one will be two stories high, the balance three stories. There will also be one store.

The lot of ground on Columbia ave., east of the Southeast corner of Broad has been purchased by the Tenth National Bank, who will remove the buildings now standing and erect in their place a handsome new banking house.

The rumor that the Third National Bank intends to make extensive alterations is without foundation. The Directors contemplate in some future time to remove the vaults which are now located in an unsatisfactory position.

The German Society will erect a new building some time in the future at or near Seventh and Spring Garden streets. They have sold their building on Seventh street near Jayne, to the Master Builders Association for $75,000.

Mr. William Hunter will build four more new houses on Ridge street, Frankford, and Mr. Wenzelberger, builder, is erecting two more Queen Anne Cottages on Edmunds street above Fitter's, near Wissinoming, for Mr. Thomas C. Foster, the insurance broker.

A new building will be erected at Eleventh and Cherry for the Lying in Charity at a cost of $60,000. Dr. Ellwood Wilson, 1517 Walnut street, Dr. Daniel Longaker, 515 Green street, among others are on the building committee; neither plans nor specifications have been prepared.

J. E. & A. L. Pennock, are building at Media three semi-detached houses of twelve rooms each. To be built of brick with stone base, slate roof, size of houses 22x44 feet. They will be finished with modern conveniences and Waring's system of plumbing. They have also completed six for F. M. & H. Brooke, the construction is somewhat similar.

Samuel Travis is having the cellar dug for a single frame house on Sylvan avenue, other houses are also being put up in the same locality, the cellars are also being dug for a pair of frame houses, same street, the cost of the above will be about $2500 each, Mr. Banes of Bustleton is the builder. Charles W. Fitter is the owner and builder of a single frame cottage now under roof on Mill street east of Delaware avenue, and Edward Paxon is building a single frame house for Thomas Corson, S. W. cor. Delaware and Sylvan avenues. Other properties will be erected during the coming Summer.

Mr. S. B. Chambers, of the firm of Chambers Brothers, Fifty-second street and Lancaster Pike, has underway a large Queen Anne Villa at Fifty-second street and Columbia avenue. The building will be of pressed brick, ornamented with Ohio sand stone, Akron tile and slate, and will be finished in hard wood, with all modern improvements. It will cost about $12,000. This building adjoins that of Mr. A. J. Reach, erected by Mr. Wilson Milnor, the contractor for Mr. Chambers' new house.

The properties 416 and 418 Walnut street, were purchased March 30th last by Jos. S. Patterson for $17,500, since which time Mr. Patterson has purchased property 420 Walnut street adjoining the above. It is reported that the old buildings will be torn down as soon as the premises are vacated by the present tenants and after January next a new eight or nine story building with a frontage of fifty-six feet on Walnut will be erected for office purposes.

The Thirteenth Street Methodist Episcopal Church had intended to build a $40,000 structure at Thirteenth and Vine streets, but owing to the projected course of the elevated road they will let matters rest for the present. The plans are by Messrs. Hazlehurst & Huckel. The church when built will be of stone, two stories in height, open timber roof, with a large stone tower to the north side, and will be sixty feet front by ninety feet deep.

The Pennsylvania Club, 1220 Chestnut street, had intended making elaborate alterations and improvements, the plans were finished, and contracts signed, when the owner of the building would not agree to stipulated terms to which he had previously given his consent. As a consequence the Club is now looking for other quarters which they can use for the same purpose.

Architects' Notes.

Mr. JOHN LUCAS will build two cottages at Gibbsboro, N. J., to cost about $2,500 each. Messrs. Brien & Godwin architects.

JAMES H. WINDRAM, 132 South Third, has just finished plans for a store and dwelling at 2226 Frankfort av. for Mr. J. F. Wittman.

The Board of City Trusts, of Cincinnati, Ohio, wish architects to send in plans for a new City Hall. Designs must be in by July 15th. The Board will furnish any necessary information.

Mr. JOHN VANSANT has just commenced the erection of a stone and frame house at Lansdowne. Mr. FRANK WATSON, 518 Walnut street, is the architect. Messrs. Nesbit & Sons of Locust street, are the contractors.

ROMULO VASQUEZ, of Holmesburg, has submitted sketches for three houses for Mr. Blakiston at Pennypack Station, P. R. R. Same architect has plans in embryo for six houses which will shortly be erected at Tacony.

ADDISON HUTTON, 400 Chestnut st., will make the drawings for a stone addition which will be built to the Training School for Feeble Minded Children at Media. The improvement will cost in the neighborhood of fifty thousand dollars.

HARRISON ALBRIGHT, 509 Walnut street, has drawn the plans and will superintend the construction of two stone and frame cottages at Oak Lane N. P. R. R., for Mr. J. W. Earle and Mr. Frank Williams. Lewis W. Kitzelman contractor for both houses.

MESSRS. BRIEN & GODWIN, 1413 Filbert street, are the architects for a foundry to be located at the Northeast corner of Howard and Huntingdon streets for Mr. George Rickards. The building will be twenty-six feet front by ninety feet in depth. The roof will be entirely of 4-inch ribbed glass. The doors will be 20 feet high and so arranged as to admit of a crane being swung to the curb, other cranes will be placed so as to remove heavy weights the entire depth. McCarty & Oler are the contractors, 3355 East Dauphin street. The same architects have also drawn plans for a frame cottage for Mr. John Freeze, at Pittsburg, Pa. Size, 20x30 feet.

MR. THOS. P. LONSDALE, 429 Walnut street, has completed the drawings for the Orphanage of the Methodist Episcopal Church to be located on the lot bounded by Forty-third, Monument, Edgely and Drexel streets. This building will be one of the handsomest of its kind. The administration building will be erected from Avondale stone, which will have a central space 60 x 100 feet in which will be the dining room, chapel kitchen, laundry, bakery, study rooms and dormitories. The entire width and depth being 160x100 feet. The inside finish will be of white pine and natural woods. The floor construction being fire proof. The building will be covered with a slate roof and be surmounted by a belfry and clock tower. The entire structure will be heated by steam. There will also be erected two stone cottages, two stories and an attic 40x50 feet to be used for studies, dormitories and room for the help. All of the departments will be fitted up with necessary appliances.

Mr. T. P. CHANDLER, 302 Walnut street, has completed plans for the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, southeast corner Fifteenth and Mount Vernon streets, which will be built of blue marble, as will also the terrace wall. The trimmings of the church will be of Ohio stone. The columns supporting the roof will also be of this same material. The building to be covered with a slate roof, which will be supported by open timber work. A tower, a hundred feet in height, with belfry, is to be a notable feature. The interior finish will consist of oak. Length of chapel and new building, one hundred and fifty-six feet. This church will be an example of pure Gothic architecture, of the decorative period. No method for lighting has yet been decided upon, it will probably be by electricity. The Committee has determined to heat the building by steam. Bids for stone work were closed on Saturday, the 11th inst. As there was a rumor that the building would not be erected until the course of the elevated railroad was decided upon, a member of the Committee said, "State it emphatically that there will be no delay. We will go on at once."

MESSRS. HAZLEHURST & HUCKEL, 410 Walnut street, have completed the drawings for the Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank, at Woodbury, New Jersey. The new building will stand on the site now occupied by Kissel's grocery store, contiguous to one of the County buildings on the main street. The structure will be erected from Indiana Limestone, one story front, and two in the rear. The architecture will be Romanesque. The inside finish, which will be of cherry will be very handsome. Several new safes will be purchased. The same firm is also drawing plans for an office building and drug store, to be located at the corner of Main street and Delaware ave., same place. G. G. Green is the owner. Brick and stone will be used for the construction, with a tower feature on the corner. Contracts are not yet let. Mr. Green will also build two large brick stores on Broad street, same place, each three stories high, and six on Delaware avenue, same place, each two stories high in front. The third floor to be used as a lodge room. Building will be heated by steam. The contracts have not been let. By the same architects, a brown stone residence for Mr. Cramp, Twentieth and Green streets, Philadelphia, and a large double house at Wilmington, Delaware. To be built of stone and brick, inside finish of hard wood, incandescent electric lights, electric calls, and all modern improvements. L. C. Van Kleeck, owner.

A three-story stone house at Olney, for Mr. Bickley, and the Executive Mansion at Harrisburg. These contracts are not yet let.

Camden and Vicinity.

The Y. M. C. A., of Bridgeton, will erect a building in the near future.

W. Harrison Livermore will erect upon the lot on North Broad street, North of Red Bank Road, Woodbury, a number of two-story brick houses; the lot is 80x175.

G. G. Green, of Woodbury, will build at the corner of Broad and Cooper, a handsome dwelling and drug store. Messrs. Hazlehurst & Huckel are the architects.

Plainfield, N. J., will have a Machine and Tool Company, who will erect a factory large enough to employ over five hundred hands. J. R. Maxwell is the President.

Stewart McCoy, 727 Park street, Phila., will build on lot 50x100 at Chiselhurst. Miss Ella Simpson is also building. Subscriptions are being taken for a large school house and public hall. A Methodist and Presbyterian Church will also be erected.

Clement Remington, 1514 Arch street, Phila., has had his drawings accepted by the Camden National Bank, who will build their new structure at Second and Kaighn's av. The hotel that stands on this site will be torn down. According to the plans now before the directors of the bank, the building will occupy a space of 60 feet front by 120 feet deep and will be one story high on the front and two stories on the rear. It will be built of brick, brownstone and terra-cotta. The entrance to the building will be through a large arch which will be protected by heavy oaken doors, ornamented with barfoot hinges. The entrance from the vestibule will be separated by a large plate-glass screen. A hand-some tiled floor will also be placed on the floor of the vestibule. The inside finish will be cherry, desks and furniture being al-o of that wood; handsome plate glass screen covered with ornamented brass work will be used to separate the desks. The main floor will contain Banking, Directors', Cashier and President's rooms, toilet and Watchman's apartments are also to be on this floor. A large vault twenty-two feet long, eighteen feet wide and eight feet high with a gallery around it and containing smaller vaults which will be protected by the most approved methods known. An ornamental iron gate will separate the Cashier's room from the Main Banking room. The room to be used by the Directors will be fitted up very handsomely with an oak mantel, open, tiled grate, hand-some wood work, gas fixtures, etc. All of the gas fixtures will be of burnished brass.

The entire building will be heated by two furnaces placed in the cellar. It is estimated that when completed the building will cost $15,000. Mr. Remington deserves credit for the thoroughness which characterizes the construction of this building.

Camden Building Permits.

In consequence of a writ having been issued against the Surveyor, City Solicitor and Collector of Delinquent Taxes no permits were issued last week.

The suit which was brought by three citizens is to decide who shall receive money from collection of delinquent taxes. As soon as the Supreme Court at Trenton decides the matter at issue the business of the offices will be resumed; at present it is in statu quo.

Trade Conditions.

LAST week's bank clearings in thirty-eight cities was slightly in excess of $1,000,000,000, or two per cent. greater than the preceding week, and eleven per cent. greater than for the same week last year. The reports of the earnings of one hundred and one railroads for May were fifteen per cent. greater than May, 1886, and for five months sixteen and one half per cent. greater than the first five months last year.

We might go no farther in the review of trade conditions. These two facts are, or ought to be, sufficient to satisfy every man that the country is on the safe road. In fact the country does not need any figures to assure it of this fact. The people feel confidence, and know things are forging ahead. Business is steadily, not rapidly, expanding. The characteristic of the season is, that only legitimate requirements are being filled, that nothing of a speculative character is undermining our business structure, that consumption is expanding, and production is held in check.

There will be no speculation, no over production, no financial squeeze, no breaking loose of a thousand sheriffs thirsty for legal plunder after many years of starvation and non employment. The country is on a stronger foundation than ever before. It will average from thirty to forty miles of railroad construction for the week. When the Chicago wheat ghouls undertook to squeeze fortunes out of consumers the farmers dropped the locks from their crammed granaries and lo! twenty-five firms fell before the wheat avalanche.

The manufacturing capacity is equal to all requirements. Enterprise rests securely in the knowledge that there is a mighty abundance. Labor is well employed. Capital sizes hold of whatever it finds to do. Corporations are obedient to the laws and their old time arrogance has departed. The common people, the men of small means, should have better opportunities than ever.

THERE is an unusual amount of alterations in progress in this city. A review of the permit column shows the fronts and rears are going down and up, old time residences are putting on new appearances, residences are disappearing and stores are appearing.

Such streets as Chestnut and Walnut, west of Broad are being transformed into business streets, Columbia ave. far up is assuming a business like look. Even old Spring Garden street is feeling the elbowing of the tradesmen and the old timers are consulting their pocket books by removing to quieter localities. A year or two ago, a good many Front and Second street properties were offered very low. Within a few months prices have advanced. The B. & O. improvements, the probabilities of improvements in the harbor, the prospects of rapid transit in which the section of the city along the water front will especially profit, all enter into the causes which are going to make property on those and some by-streets more profitable. The builder will soon begin to tear down the old time rookeries and supplant them with elegant and commodious business structures.

Congress cannot be permitted to let the improvements of our Delaware river go without attention and money. The day is not far distant when our relations with foreign countries will be more intimate than they now are, and we must prepare for that by making our harbor inviting, then will the value of the real estate along the river front wake from its Rip Van Winkle sleep.

Our large trust concerns look upon investments in house building operations in this city as eminently safe and proper. This is true for more reasons than one. If the purchasers on time payment fail to pay they foreclose and buy in at practically their own figure, wipe out the mortgage if there is any to be wiped out, and become the possessor of good properties at considerably less than cost. That a depression will come is a strong probability, that sweeping foreclosures in the future will take place is as true as that they have taken place in the past. It is a question whether the moneyed institutions would be as ready to loan, but for this possible emergency of foreclosure; enticing opportunities for investment, however, are few. There may be ups and downs, but taking the good with the bad it is quite safe to say that investments in small houses renting from $12 to $30 per month will continue for a long time to come to be a safe and desirable investment, not only of trust funds, but of the funds of individual investors. That this is true, is evident from the fact that our wisely conducted financial concerns readily loan money from one to five years at 5 per cent. Their preferences are to loan for one year with the open handed assurance that they will not want the money for years to come. This prudential foresight is indulged in lest for some unforeseen cause, there should be a financial stringency which would render collections suddenly and imperatively necessary.

But the events of the past few years have demonstrated the fact that this form of investment is safe. The wage working class has never been properly housed; manufacturers and employers in many branches of industry are investing money in houses for the use of their workmen. They find the investment a paying one whether they sell or rent them. This interest in the proper housing of employees is far from being a selfish one. If a workman undertakes to buy a house he becomes a conservative. The outrages of "capital," the "tyranny of employers" begin to fade, and he discovers that he can get along without strikes about as well as with them, better in fact, for every week's work throws another row of bricks on his house into his pocket. Scores of employers have recently diverted capital into this channel. Thousands of employees are now endeavoring to own the house they live in. This tendency will grow and it will be one of the newly arising factors in the labor problems that will assist in the peaceable solution of the relation between employers and employed. The peace and prosperity of this country demands that landlordism be abolished, but this great end will be accomplished, when it is, not through the beautiful, but visionary schemes of Henry George, but the development of the sterling qualities of manhood, industry and thrift.

THE Wilmington Trust, Safe Deposit and Insurance Company has just been organized at Wilmington, Delaware, with a capital of $500,000; in addition to trusts it intends doing a money deposit, title insurance, real estate and mortgage business. No corporation having authority to do business in these branches having an existence in that State. The stockholders have an assurance of large dividends. William Jenks Fell, Esq., of 430 Walnut St., has been elected Vice-President.

Refers with permission to William M. Singler,
Proprietor of Phila. "Record."

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JUNE 20, 1887.

THERE is no real opposition to an elevated road in itself. Philadelphians are sufficiently progressive to appreciate the necessity for rapid transit, they are also sufficiently observing to have noticed that our present surface roads are neither rapid enough nor capacious enough to meet the requirements of travel during the hours and days of extraordinary pressure.

That there is opposition there is no question but nearly all of it rises either from selfish interest or from a fear of business or property injury; this is but natural yet all such opposition would be removed upon an assurance that all damages of such a nature would be as they should be fully compensated. It matters very little to the general public what system is adopted; that which would cause the least inconvenience or injury to property would be the most acceptable. It is folly to expect any relief from an underground road for there is not the remotest chance of one ever being built in Philadelphia; its constructive cost would be so great that the original investors would almost to a dead certainty be frozen out, and even then the possibility of its proving a paying investment to the stockholders would be extremely slight.

An underground would be infinitely preferable, but to extend it over the city to afford the needed relief would cost more money than could be raised to build it.

If President Cleveland had consulted Frances she could have told him that his proposition to surrender the confederate flags captured during the war, was sure to stir up a hornet's nest, and render him very unpopular. His attempt to make the transfer was an assumption of a privilege that does not belong to him even as President of the United States.

There is no power short of an act of congress that could legalize such a transaction.

Mr. Cleveland could with the self-same consistency give away a national war vessel, the Treasury Building at Washington, or the National Capitol itself, and still add greater zest to his munificent liberality by throwing in the White House.

There is no southern man who did his duty to his cause whose feelings are in the least lacerated at the sight of these old relics of national glory, and it's but a cheap bribe for southern popularity for either Democrat or Republican to advocate their return. No northern man would ask for the return of a union flag that had been fairly won through southern bravery; neither could he feel hurt because it was religiously cherished. There is no sentiment in it. These flags are the people's property, the nation's scars, the country's glory, and as such they must stay just where they are.

A FOURTH OF JULY without the old time fire-cracker is certainly far from being an old time Fourth of July, notwithstanding the Times futile attempt to make a boom of it. The halcyon days when the boys nourished their pennies for months beforehand with a zest which a love for the day could only engender will soon be forgotten, and national patriotism must suffer accordingly, unless a more liberal view is taken, and the doors are again opened reasonably wide to young America for an old time Fourth with all that the words imply. The boys can thank the toy pistol for the present rigorous restrictions, but the restrictions are on the wrong end; it was the manufacturers of that deadly weapon who needed suppressing and not the boys. All things come to him who waits! Boys wait.

AMONG the many just decisions of Judge Allison is the one rendered in the case of Wilson vs. Maires. Mr. Maires was held on May 27th, in the sum of $800 bail upon the charge of embezzlement as trustee. The suit was brought by Mrs. E. L. Wilson, of Camden, who charged the defendant with keeping from her rents due from 1884 to 1887. It was clearly proven that Mrs. Wilson never owned the properties upon which she claimed the rents and therefore not entitled to receive them. Cases of this kind are too frequent, and it is no enviable position for a man to be posed before the profession and the community at large as a purloiner of property belonging to others, and those who thus handle lightly the good name of their fellow-citizens, should be made to suffer as far as the law goes, and there would be fewer cases of this nature recorded upon the dockets of our courts.

THE French Flat system is now receiving some consideration from capitalists, and it's even possible that an effort will be made to give the principle a trial on a limited scale. What we want is a system that will give the man who is only able to expend a rental of from twenty to thirty dollars per month, a chance to live nearer to his business. Higher priced flats would prove a failure.

The suburbs are growing, because horse-car facilities are entirely too slow, and the chances for a seat is one in a thousand. If men of small means must go to a distance to find cheap rents, it is only natural that they should prefer a luxurious seat in a steam car to hanging on the tail end of a horse car.

IN spite of repeated failures efforts are still being made to utilize petroleum for making steam. A company has been formed in New York State, with a capital of $3,000,000, for accomplishing this result by means of an invention consisting of an apparatus for the production of a fixed gas from the union of decomposed oil and water. It is claimed that it can be applied to boilers of any kind, and that the flame which it produces is intense, steady, and easily controlled.

THERE seems to be very little use laying Belgian blocks, or even the heavier granite block street pavements under the present method. The fact is, sufficient care is not taken in the preparation of the foundation on which these pavements are laid. It is positively a sad waste of money, and shows a want of competency.

Summary for Week Beginning June 7th.

For the week ending June 13th, the columns of the REAL ESTATE RECORD reported 331 conveyances of Philadelphia property which is a decrease of two from previous week, while the cash consideration was $1,341,504, being an increase of $148,064. While the mortgage consideration was $191,665, a decrease of $5,918. At auction forty-six properties were sold, they aggregated to the sum of $106,967 which is a nominal decrease of $1,428. All of the properties thus sold were unencumbered with mortgages.

ERRATA—in issue of June 13th, in summary, the word "ending" should have been "beginning" and should read Summary for Week beginning May 30th.

A lot of ground on Allen street, northwest of Franklin, Frankford, Philadelphia, has been purchased by Mrs. E. H. Bartholomew, widow of the late Dr. Bartholomew, for $800.

Dr. J. M. Wallis, of Lehigh avenue and Thompson street, Philadelphia, has closed a contract for a Queen Ann cottage, nine rooms, corner Morris and Atlantic avenue, Atlantic City, N. J.

Six double two-story houses have just been started at Wissinoming by Walter Hood, of the firm of Castor & Hood. The contractor is Lynford Castor. When finished the houses will probably cost $2,500 each.

The People's Passenger Railroad Company propose to erect a waiting-room at Fortieth street and Elm avenue. The Chief Engineer and Chairman of the Committee are holding the application under advisement.

A new elevator will be placed in the Continental Hotel in a short time. The proprietors also contemplate building a room for ladies on the Ninth street side. A new tiled floor is also to be placed in the first floor corridor.

Changes have been ordered to be made in the fire escapes at following school-houses: Eleventh and Cherry, Danphin and Mascher, Thompson and Mulberry, Twelfth and Columbia ave., York and Memphis, Seventh and Dickinson.

A boat house is being built at Tacony, at the foot of Monroe street. Horace and Jacob Disston are the owners. The cost of the building will be about $500. These gentlemen have built the house in order to establish a boat club in Tacony.

The new house that J. W. Kennedy is building at the corner of Mount Pleasant and Germantown avenues, Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, will be one of the handsomest residences in suburban Philadelphia.

The triangular lot bounded by Noble, Eleventh street and Ridge avenue, has been purchased by John Y. Huber from W. Middleton. It will be occupied by a book manufacturing concern—the Miller, Megee Co.

J. Jacob Shannon & Co., builders' hardware, have been compelled, through the want of more extensive facilities, to remove to 1744 Market street. Their store closes at 3 P. M. on Saturdays during June, July and August.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have commenced the construction of a foot bridge over their Kensington depot, at Front and Berks streets, running from Berks to Vienna streets, a distance of about 400 feet. It will prove a great convenience when completed.

John T. Morris, living at 826 Pine street, president of the J. P. Morris Company, will build a very elegant stone country seat on Meadow Brook Lane, southwest of Stenton avenue, Germantown. Mr. Morris purchased this property from J. Lowber Welsh for $28,500.

Up in the Twenty-third Ward a large amount of building is about to be done. In a few days a large brick addition will be made to the works of Henry Wolstencroft & Sons, felt manufacturers, which will cover ground 200 by 45 feet on Charles, near Bridge street, Frankford.

Messrs. H. Diston & Sons, of Tacony, have purchased the Franklin Window Glass Works at that place for $100,000. The same firm also expects to purchase the Lardner property, consisting of 67 acres, adjoining that of the glass works, the largest portion of which will be used for building purposes. $100,000 is the price offered.

The growth of water works in this country in the last five years is something phenomenal. Up to the year 1880 the total number of water works in cities and towns in the United States was 556; from that time to the end of 1886 there were 628 new works built and put in operation, being 67 in excess of all built previously, and they are being built this year faster than ever.

Mr. George Lodge, Third and Federal streets, expected by this time to have had his new Broad street residence well under way, but, owing to sickness in the family, he has been obliged to postpone operations until a more suitable time, which he hopes will be in about two weeks. The readers of the REAL ESTATE RECORD will remember that we described Mr. Lodge's house fully in our columns several weeks ago.

The Messrs. Childs & Drexel estate at Wayne, Pa., has this season been under the management of Mr. Frank Smith. So active has this gentleman been, and the improvements in Wayne have, under his supervision, been so marked, that the citizens of that place gave him a reception on Thursday evening last, at the Opera House, to show that they appreciated his efforts in behalf of the town.

St. Luke's School, at Bustleton, Twenty-third Ward, are making large additions to their already extensive school. The buildings, which are now under way, are school and class room, which will be fitted up with all the modern school appliances. The second floor of this building will be used principally for dormitories. Size of building, 32x40. A new gymnasium will be started this summer, which will be very complete in all its appointments.

The Reform Congregation of the Keneseth Israel Church, Sixth and Locust streets, will renovate and beautify their church this summer at an expenditure of about $4,000. The seating capacity will be increased, and, besides painting outside, new handsome stained glass windows will be erected, and new water power added to the organ. The building committee consists of David Klein, president, 918 Market street; M. Simon, 820 N. Fifth street; Jacob May, 909 Franklin; L. Hecht, 824 N. Fifth. No contracts let.

Hugh McNeil is erecting a number of houses in the neighborhood of Sixth and Mifflin streets, the greater number being on both sides of Siegel street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. They are pressed brick fronts, two stories high, with white marble trimmings, inside finish being of natural wood. Size of houses, 14 feet front by 38 feet deep. The same builder is also erecting three-story dwellings on Sixth street, east side, near Siegel street. They will contain twelve rooms, and are similar in construction to the Siegel street houses. Two are 16 1/2 feet front by 50 feet deep. The other is 22x50. Mr. McNeil is also building smaller houses on Mercer street and Snyder avenue.

Samuel H. Brown will commence to build in a few days eight two-story houses of six rooms, at Frankford, Twenty-third Ward, on a lot situated at Cherry street, corner of Meadow. Size of houses, 12x28.

St. Simon's Mission, at the corner of Ninth and Lehigh avenue, will have a new church edifice. Subscriptions are being received by Rev. Edward Cope 1732 N. Fifteenth street. Many prominent men of the denomination will aid the project liberally, not only on account of the need of such a building, but it was a work specially guarded by the late Bishop Stevens. The church will be called Bishop Stevens' Memorial Church of St. Simon.

J. W. Boughton is rebuilding his factory, 1211 to 1223 Noble street, which was recently destroyed by fire. The building will be used for the manufacture of wood carpet and window screens, and will be entirely refurnished with the latest and improved machinery. It will be four stories in height and 126 feet front by 78 feet deep. A 125 horsepower engine will be introduced, also two elevators. The building will be heated by hot blast. Mr. Boughton will move in about August.

Mr. Samuel Goodman, of 619 Chestnut street, has purchased from J. Lowber Welch the White estate for $57,500. The old White estate, which has been reduced to fifteen acres, is located on the south side of the Germantown and Perkiomen Turnpike, west of Rex avenue, Chestnut hill. The mansion house will be left intact, and will be altered and improved for his own personal use. Mr. Goodman intends cutting the remaining portion of the ground into building lots. Streets will be cut through and other necessary improvement will be made.

Architects' Notes.

Miss Martha Brown is putting up two very desirable houses at Radnor station. Builder Tounson is managing the operation.

The Girard Life Insurance Company, 420 Walnut street, have employed Mr. Arthur Truscott to make drawings for their new building, previously reported, nothing will be done, however, until next fall, and just what will be done then has not been decided upon.

Edwin F. Bertolette, 20 S. Broad street, is working on the plans for a very handsome borough government building at Phoenixville, Pa. The structure will be three stories high, built of pressed brick, with ornamental brick trimmings. Suitable rooms will be provided for Tax Receiver, Treasurer, Borough Council and Police headquarters, to which will be attached ten cells, Survey and Water Departments. The entire building will be finished in hard wood, and the offices will be fire-proof. Steam will probably be used for heating. Size of building, 40 feet front by 60 feet deep. No contracts have yet been made. The building will be started in about a month.

Willis G. Hale, architect, "Record" Building, has completed the plans for the new building of the Keystone National Bank, to be located at Chestnut and Juniper streets. Jacob Myers is the contractor. Granite and Indiana limestone will be used in the construction of this seven-story building, which will be entirely fire-proof. One of the principal features is that no wood or metal partitions will be used. They will be made of hollow terra cotta pipes. Two very handsome elevators will be used, one front and the other at the rear end of the store. The inside finish will be of hard wood. The floors of the corridors will be tiled with black and white marble, and the wainscoting will be inlaid with various colored marbles. Large vaults will be placed on the first floor, and several safes will be purchased.

Camden and Vicinity.

Messrs. Robertson & Kohn, the Camden builders, will erect about seventy-five houses during the course of the present summer. The exact location has not yet been decided upon, but the general locality will be the neighborhood of the City Hall and Trenton avenue. The style and finish will be the same as the majority of their operations, namely two-story pressed brick fronts, with white marble trimmings, as these houses are more readily disposed of than larger buildings. The demand is still increasing for houses of moderate cost.

Improvements are moving towards the eastern section of the town, property having increased in value during the last five years from 75 to 100 per cent., while rents have advanced over twenty-five and in some instances have reached to fifty per cent. Numerous land companies have been formed and have purchased large tracts on the outskirts of Camden, and, while making handsome profits on their investments, have yet placed good building sites within the reach of men of moderate means, who have taken advantage of the easy terms to secure for themselves comfortable homes. Delair, Collingwood, Chiselhurst and Liberty Park are all becoming populated to a more or less extent, and houses costing from $1,200 to $6,000 have been and will continue to be erected there. The railroads running out of Camden in a great measure have issued their commutation tickets at a very reasonable figure, which is more than many other roads have done. These corporations would do well to remember that a high rate of fare is one of the surest methods of hindering the growth of suburban towns, which depend upon the patronage of men who count their income by the hundreds and not thousands of dollars.

The chapel of the First Baptist Church will be built. At a special meeting the committee, consisting of the pastor and others, were instructed to erect the chapel at Grant and Homer avenues, North Cramer Hill. The plans and specifications were considered.

Keen & Frazer have commenced four new houses on High street, Camden. These, when finished, will complete the eight which was their intention to erect.

"The demand for attractive cottages exceeds the supply at the City," says the Sea? So says the Atlantic Times. Houses renting from $300 to $500 are required.

J. C. Escher will build an attractive frame cottage on Atlantic avenue, Collingwood.

The contract for the new 48 inch stroke pump for Camden was awarded to the Blake Manufacturing Company. $35,000 is the amount.

VOL. II.—No. 25.

PRICE 15 CENTS.

From the Los Angeles Times, June 6, 1887.

AN EPISTLE.

NOT TO THE GALATIANS BUT TO THE PHILADELPHIANS.

The following eloquent letter, written by a present prominent business man of Los Angeles, who is recently of Philadelphia, to a friend in the City of Brotherly Love, is good reading for the many readers of The Times in the effete East:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 26. — Dear Cousin Martin: Your welcome letter of the 17th ult. came duly to hand. You ask what in the world has induced me to leave the City of Brotherly Love, with all its modern improvements and conveniences, to come to this wild country—how many "grizzlies" I have killed, how many beer traps I have set, etc.

Your letter found me loaded to the water's edge with business, health, pleasure and glory. Shakespeare says, "To live or not to live, that is the question." Shakespeare is behind the age, if he thinks that is the question.

To live in Los Angeles, where there are no hurricanes, no tornadoes, no cyclones, no blizzards, no snow, no frost, no mad dogs, no bedbugs, with but one season in the year—eternal spring—cool, refreshing nights, where you find ripe fruit and blossoms on the trees the year round, the air filled with rich fragrance, the home of flowers and orange blossoms, to live in such a country, instead of eking out a miserable existence in the East, with heavy quilts drawn over the heads in the winter nights to prevent Jack Frost from biting your ears and nose; while in summer nights you toss from side to side to accomplish the double purpose of turning up fresh spots for the mosquitoes to bite and, if possible, to cool them a little—That is the question. I never knew how pleasant and grand it was to exist until I came here. A man, with but half of a soul in his body, cannot help shouting "glory, glory!"

Old men come out here to sprout a new set of teeth. You speak of the modern improvements of New York and Philadelphia, and ask me how I can dispense with them. Holy smoke! Make a list of all you have in those cities, including cable roads, electric roads, electric lights, and poles 200 feet high, with 2000 candle power, and add 15 per cent. to the aggregate, and you have Los Angeles as it is. Why do you stay in that land of mummies, when eight days' travel will bring you to California—the land of milk and honey (the latter article costs but three cents per pound). If your fruitful brain can invent a plausible reason for remaining where you are, let me hear it and oblige.

Yours fraternally, —————

A WRITER of prominence in discussing on the use and value of building stone says that the act of freezing is equivalent to the blow of a ten ton hammer on every square inch of surface. Stones which have begun to decompose absorb a larger quantity of water than those which have not. In many cases decomposition goes in eight or ten inches without showing any trace of decomposition on the outside. The rapid decay of brownstone, brickwork, marble, mortar joints, etc., in New York is accounted for by the fact that about 80,000 tons of sulphuric acid is discharged into the air every year from the oxidation of the sulphur of the coal burned, which is estimated at 4,500,000 tons.

Stones which endure in one climate will not endure in another. Every shower of rain removes a very minute amount of binding material from the outside. Many sandstones, after having been exposed to the weather for a few years will absorb anywhere from 3 to 15 per cent. of water in twenty-four hours.

The question with which architects are now more personally interested is, how to retard decay, which all authorities say can be done. Whatever application is used must be able to penetrate, and also be able to resist gases and prevent absorption of water from the outside. Water-proofing alone does not answer, according to some authorities, while others declare it is sufficient. Water-proofing processes, however, are in use which commend themselves to the good judgment of some very thoroughly experienced architects and builders.

THE manufacturers of small engines and boilers are particularly fortunate this year; never before has as much motive power been contracted for in any half year as the one closing. The character of the work going into our new stores, warehouses, mills and factories is decidedly better than a few years ago when economy was too unwisely studied.

THE capacity of mortar to resist a force tending to tear it asunder, ranges all the way from 10 to 100 pounds. Defective mortar, or mortar of small adhesive or cohesive nature, is the frequent cause of a fall of buildings otherwise secure enough and sufficiently well built. Other factors besides those of dead weight have to be considered in the selection of mortar. The walls have frequently to resist a strong force from the rafters, which test the strength of mortar. Then the floor timbers often sag, and thus tend to draw the walls in, thus creating two opposing forces which react on every square inch of mortar. Another factor is the action of the wind, bearing sometimes on the whole surface of the wall. The other strain comes from the contents of the building. The use of sand with cement is not always to be condemned, because it helps to prevent the cracking that is liable to take place on account of the cement drying unequally. Sand should be perfectly free from earth. Burnt clay ground up very fine is the best substitute where sand cannot be had.

Mortar should be made day by day where hydraulic lime or cement are used, but weekly when inferior white lime is employed, so that it can be thoroughly slaked. Thick mortar joints are always dangerous. Thin mortar joints help to prevent unequal settlements.

IRON ceilings are coming in for stores, warehouses, offices and churches. Wood shrinks and opens at the joints and make a dust resort. Corrugated iron ceilings twenty years old show no change. An iron ceiling nailed to asbestos helps to impede burning. These ceilings can be attached to T beams by nailing them to terra-cotta blocks. The iron used is warranted $\frac{3}{8}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ inch deep and is 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches wide. In putting it up sheets should be laid across joists.

THERE is often inexcusable neglect in the purchase of rods where nothing is known as to quality and strain. In some exceptional cases a strain of 20,000 pounds per square inch has been brought to bear by wind and snow on rods not able to stand a tithe of that force. Roof construction is now becoming a much more important matter than ever, and the subject will stand closer study than it has received at large.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JUNE 27, 1887.

THERE are very few evidences of a real estate boom in Philadelphia. Unlike New York, we have unlimited opportunities for expansion on both sides of the Schuylkill and both sides of the Delaware. The projected elevated railway system will bring into market and within easy access a vast amount of real estate now practically beyond reach. This fact perhaps as much as any other accounts for the timidity displayed in the Real Estate Exchange and elsewhere. Every one knows that forty or fifty miles of elevated railway will transform this city from a provincial to a metropolitan centre. Rural properties will appear in the market. Farm land will suddenly masquerade as city lots. Meadows will become beautiful building sites. Barren hilltops will become elegant sites for 50,000 residences. The rural land owner will look up his worn out tools and await serenely for the city purchaser to pounce down with a wallet of crisp greenbacks for his worn out farm.

There are certainly grand opportunities for improvement. Desirable building sites along the P. R. R., the P. W. & B., the B. & O., and the N. P. and B. B. roads are scarce and will be scarcer. Society has fastened itself along these lines. New associations have been built up and nothing can weaken the hold of the denizens along these lines upon their homes. There are as abundant opportunities in the future as in the past. Thousands of business men have discovered and demonstrated to themselves that they can live five to ten miles out of town as well as within the business limits with an elevated railway system. Philadelphia can do on a large scale what has been done on a small scale on the steam roads. But the growth will be gradual. It is, as a rule, only those whose time is their own and whose incomes are above a certain narrow limit that can afford, or at least that can be induced to go outside of the jingle of the street car bell. Where one now lives outside the city, five no doubt would if the necessary facilities were afforded. Philadelphia will not tolerate the flat, therefore more space must be had for small houses which can be easily reached and at small cost. The testimony of many of our large builders on this point is that the elevated roads will give an impetus to building operations, especially if the land owners have the good sense to not attempt to place extravagant values on the land.

There are indications of trouble among the employers and workmen in the building trades. Both sides are organizing. Bitterness is increasing. Rules are established by each which the other can not tolerate. The gulf is being widened by the Chicago strike, in which the workmen seem to be gaining advantages through the concessions of those who feel obliged to resume operations. The employers have issued a long feverish address to their brother employers throughout the United States, calling upon them to share in the feeling of bitterness, and fright which the strike there has generated—forgetting that employers elsewhere do not feel as embittered or as frightened as they.

While city, State and national organization is desirable in all trades and crafts, it is to be doubted whether this virtual proclamation of war from Chicago building employers is wise. It is more doubtful whether there will be a serious and hearty response to it from outside—much as outside employers might desire to see some mutually protective organization established. It is better to allay excitement rather than increase it. The workmen will hold a convention in that city at an early day—partly in the spirit of defiance. The Master Plumbers' National Association at their convention there last week endorsed the position taken by the National Association of Builders in relation to the employment of non-union labor, and the rules established regarding apprentices. The iron workers who control nearly every rolling mill in the United States, live in peace and harmony with their employers—yet they have a compact organization, and enforce seemingly arbitrary rules. A non-union iron worker can not find employment in a mill under their jurisdiction, and yet the iron and steel workers are prosperous and happy. It is hardly wise to make a fight on the employment of non-union labor, but it is argued the workmen are forcing it. The latter are using the employers' opposition to unionism to draw in all non-union labor, and the progress they are making shows that they will be better able to enforce this non-union rule than in the past.

HARRISON street, Frankford, has very recently been paved with broken stone. On Wednesday morning a solitary wagon track fully four inches deep eloquently commended the high character of the work of the contractor and the general efficiency of our city government. It is this luxury of poor work that makes abasement in public improvements a much slower process than it ought to be. It would bankrupt any but our thrifty people. It's one step forward and two backward, for such work requires more money to keep it in repair than its original cost, and if good work cannot be obtained under our present system of giving out contracts, the sooner the city adopts a better system the sooner will we be able to solve this problem of city improvements. No man nor body of men would tolerate these abuses in private work and why our city government permits such reckless indifference on the part of contractors as to their obligations is an enigma that those most interested might be able to answer.

Now that Philadelphia has entered upon the era of high office and warehouse building it would be well to remind architects and builders of the necessity of looking after the greater security of roofs. We have no disastrous accidents to moralise upon. Our builders are careful and have thus far done their work well. Besides, we here in the East are free from cyclones which unroof the best built houses. Defects are here and there allowed to creep into construction. Sufficient attention is not always given to the effects of temperature upon roofs of wood and iron combined; unequal strains are frequently exerted upon material from this cause. It is desirable sometimes to make special computations for roof trusses where accumulated forces from wind and snow are likely to be exerted.

RECENT real estate transactions show that the rate of increase in and about this city is gradual. Real estate purchases are largely made for cash. Relatively, the number of mortgages and ground rents are decreasing. The purchase of houses on the instalment plan is steadily increasing, and in view of the extremely favorable terms offered, the practice will become more and more general. To persons of moderate means and pretensions there never was a more favorable opportunity to become the owner of a small house. Rates of interest are low, taxes moderate, employment uninterrupted.

We enter upon the last half of the year under unusually favorable conditions. The great fact that the distribution of wealth is gradually becoming more uniform is the strongest assurance we could have that the activity and prosperity we are enjoying possesses some element of permanence. The business of the country is on a solid foundation. The volume of money is equal to the demand. The great mass of business men are able to pay their debts. The manufacturing interest are not over-doing. Over-production is unknown, at least to all outward appearances. Mills, shops, and factories are turning out only what is wanted; accumulated stocks do not threaten steadiness of prices. Everywhere we see evidences of expansion in capacity and an increase of production, but fortunately markets are readily found for all productions. The railroad builders have the busiest half year before them they have ever had. The car, ship, boat, locomotive and bridge builders are all crowded with orders. The smaller industries are prospering. The threatened supremacy of the dictatorial spirit of organized labor has been checked, and organized labor itself has become more conservative under defeats. Wages have been advanced in some branches of industry; hours of labor have been reduced in a few, but taking the labor question all through the employers have held their own, and at present occupy the vantage ground. They seek only to prevent the perpetration of injustice on themselves, and in their policy of self-protecting resistance have the co-operation of no inconsiderable element of labor itself.

The situation in the industries can be briefly summarized. Stocks are low and orders are being held back until after the mid-summer holidays, because consumers, big and little, know there is sufficient capacity to pretty promptly fill all orders. Retailers do not believe any permanent or even spasmodic advances in prices is probable. Hence business has come down to the level of providing for visible and assured requirements.

The railroad earnings exhibit for May, 1887, an increase of 8.6 per cent. over May last year; and for five months an increase of 7.7 over the first five months of 1886.

The total bank clearings at thirty-eight cities show a loss of 9 per cent. the last week, as against the previous week, but a gain of 2½ per cent. over the same week last year. Less business is done late in June and early in July than usual, and no fault is to be found with the return.

The volume of business for the next six months will be exceptionally large. The permits and real estate operations in all the large cities show up favorably. House building will be prosecuted with all possible vigor, both East and West. Lumber is being carried forward to the extent of railroad facilities, and at two or three points railroad companies have been obliged to insist on more prompt removal of stocks.

The outlook is certainly encouraging to the sellers of iron, steel, lumber, hardware, stone, slate, paint, gas fixtures, plumbing supplies, and the endless supplies that enter directly and indirectly into house, shop and mill building. The representatives of these interests are full of confidence in a future steady demand at strong prices; compared to a year ago, prices are steadier, and margins wider.

Collections are characterized as "easy" by the commercial agencies. Individuals and firms are anxious to keep out of debt.

The industrial interests at large are free of debt than they have ever been, and money can be had more easily, and at lower rates of interest than in former periods of great industrial activity.

Some writers are again warning the public against the, to them, certainty of a disaster because of our exceptional and phenomenal growth. Rapid growth does not involve disaster, but the ignoring of the laws of sound dealing does. So far the country has made no mistake that ordinary prudence could avoid. The occasional collapse of a bank shows the strength rather than the weakness of the system.

Nails are very even, but builders should keep an eye on the attempts being very quietly made to form a national combination of all nail makers, the object of which is to curtail production one half and advance prices 10 per cent. Builders' hardware will be preserved at present prices through the different trade combinations.

For the first five months of this year the estimated value of projected building operations in Philadelphia was $20,000,000, as against $18,000,000 for the same time last year. The values of the real estate transfers for the same period were respectively $25,500,000 and $20,000,000. The percentage of building to real estate transfers was as 80 to 90.

The totals for twenty-six cities, beginning at New York and ending at Bismarck, Dakota, show that for the first five months the value of buildings projected was $95,871,957, against $78,903,188 for the same time last year.

The value of the real estate transfers in these cities for the same times was respectively $392,138,994 and $274,226,691.

Philadelphia has gained $2,000,000 in value of buildings. New York has reached $40,000,000 this year, as against $30,759,113 up to June, last year. Brooklyn stands $8,595,508 against $7,931,887 for the first five months last year. Chicago reached $7,700,000, when the strike arrested her progress, while last year at June 1st her building bill footed up $8,000,000. Kansas city has nearly doubled her last year's building record.

These figures show that in these twenty-six cities, among which are enumerated Terre Haute, Mobile, El Paso, Wichita, San Francisco, and St. Paul, there has been $4.00 spent in real estate operations for $1.00 spent in building. In Philadelphia, for $1.00 put in building, $1.25 was put in real estate. In New York it was 1 to 3, in some Western towns it was 1 to 10.

The rapid use in real estate has its good as well as its bad points.

When the great area of the East Park Reservoir is considered, together with the gravelly nature of the soil that composes its banks and bottom, is it reasonable to suppose that a lining, consisting of three inches of concrete and five-eighths of an inch of asphalt, will possess sufficient strength to resist the great pressure it will receive when the reservoir is filled with water? It is claimed that asphalt has no affinity for concrete and will not stick. If this is so it would be better to abandon the asphalt altogether and increase the resisting power of the concrete by making it thicker. $25,000 is a considerable sum to fool away just now on experiments, and the city cannot afford it.

Down about the "Neck," a real estate improvement has set in which promises to extend that end of Philadelphia far down into that much-derided locality within a year or two. It is found that the objections that have impeded progress in that direction have been largely fanciful. Land is appreciating in value. The large land owners at the extreme lower end of South Broad St. have given an impetus to building all along that end of the city. Some day an elevated railroad extension will complete the work that has been so well begun.

NEGOTIATORS of loans on mortgage have been doing a lively business for several weeks. Rates are five per cent., and there is an abundance of money at the price. Those engaged in negotiating loans on Western mortgages report a little stringency, which they attribute to the home demand. Trusts keep their money at home from choice and legal necessity, but individuals are inclined to take a good risk in the West at more inviting rates.

NEWSPAPERS are giving much attention to the question of immigration. The question will be a much more important one ten or twenty years hence, when there will be no land for the rising young American farmers who are now at school or in their cradles, to go to. It will have all been taken up by foreigners.

ARCH STREET is threatened with an attack from store and shopkeepers. Numerous inquiries have been recently made on Arch Street, west of Broad, as to what properties could be had for. Market Street is undergoing a transformation, and next year a number of large structures will be erected—between 16th and 23rd sts.

COPPER manufacturers, whose mines in Lake Superior are idle for want of a market, are being advised in some quarters to push copper into the market for roofing purposes. Copper roofing in England is common. One ton of copper will do as much roofing as five or six tons of lead.

REPAIRING was never as general in Philadelphia as at present. It does not make much of a show, but it improves the value of property considerably, and enables owners to utilize their possessions to much better advantage.

THE lumbermen are making ample preparation for the fall demand for lumber. Immense quantities of white and yellow pine, and hemlock as well as spruce lath are arriving. Lath have dropped to their old level.

GLASS floors are becoming very common in Paris banks and public buildings. They are laid in a strong iron frame, and in the cellars beneath them is light enough to get along in day time without gas.

A GREAT deal of hardwood has been contracted for to be used in interior furnishing of houses. The wall paper makers say the demand is strong enough to keep all their works fairly busy.

THE brick makers have had a year of crowding orders. This week's reports from a dozen large manufacturers are to the effect that the actual needs of builders are now being filled.

BUSINESS among building material men has been active all through June. Supplies are large in manufacturers' hands and in supply houses.

ONE of the things which young and old architects should learn is the different kinds of lumber.

Summary for Week Beginning June 13th.

For the week ending June 20th, the columns of the REAL ESTATE RECORD reported 107 building permits issued which include 232 improvements of various classes, the majority being two and three-story brick houses.

The conveyances of property were 344 against 331 the week ending June 13th. The amount of cash involved was $1,207,843.96, which is $133,060.84 less than the previous week. A mortgage consideration of $246,432 is attached to this, which is $44,767 above the week before.

The auction sales made quite an advance as the reports show. Properties to the number of 60 were disposed of in this manner. The sales aggregated $128,944. The mortgages were $19,450. The large increase of $821,997 is due to the sale of the lots on Prospect Hill.

—The luck that follows some men is astonishing. Mr. Badger sold a farm at Jenkintown, Pa., to John Wannaker, Esq., of this city, for a small round price per acre, and bought a lot adjoining a Mr. Parker at that place for $450. Parker wanted the lot and has just bought it from Badger for $1,050. Badger clearing six hundred by the operation.

—T. V. Neekert, a Philadelphia builder, is erecting a fine residence for Joseph Fairlamb, the ticket agent at Glendon Station, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, at Lianwelyn Station, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; it will have hardwood finish, and other improvements, and, at same place, Thomas Bonnell, ensign at the Navy Yard, and George K. Crop, are, also, building fine residences, and, at the same place, the Marshall Estate, of five acres, has been bought by E. J. Ridgeway, who is selling it out in building lots.

—The Visiting Committee of the State Board of Charities, consisting of Drs. E. M. Corson, H. H. Whitcomb, J. O. Knipe, Miss Bella Shaw, Miss Hugh McInnes and Brooke Evans, last week, paid a visit of inspection to the Montgomery County almshouse, and reported that the almshouse itself was cleanly kept, and was in as good a condition as the steward, with the means at his disposal, could make it. They strongly condemned the hospital, however, and say it is in a dilapidated condition, and a disgrace to the county. They earnestly recommend the immediate erection of a new hospital, with modern conveniences, for the care of the sick, and helpless poor.

—Nearly the whole amount of the capital stock, $50,000, of the Land Improvement Company, of Phoenixville, Pennsylvania, has been subscribed. It is the intention of the company to build a row of houses on West High Street, opposite the Phoenix Iron Company's new mill. The latter company have offered to lease all the houses, forty or fifty in number, built by the Improvement Company, and allow them nine per cent. interest, less the taxes and repairs, which it is thought will net the Improvement Company at least seven per cent. on their investment. The location selected for these houses is a very fair one. It has a commanding view of the surrounding country, and, besides, the drainage is all that could be desired.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

The city of Philadelphia has in round numbers 200,000 buildings.

Waters & Bro. are building six 2½-story houses on Melrose street below Tucker street, Frankford.

Over $5,000 have been subscribed by the Baptist people of Nicetown for a new church.

Thomas Rush will build four two-story brick houses on Mulberry street, Frankford.

August Schlemmer is building a brewery at Twenty-seventh and Columbia avenue. It is now under roof.

Stearne & Son, real estate agents and conveyancers, are building some twenty houses on Mulberry street, above Orthodox street, Frankford.

The Deau of the Divinity School will have a new house, as the amount requested by the late Bishop Stevens has been raised.

Work has begun on the building on Eleventh & 4, between Walnut and Sansom. It is intended for artists' supplies, and also to be used for a show room. To be built of brick, four stories high, with a depth of 85 ft.

The Art Club, 220 South Broad, will greatly improve their new quarters by handsome interior decorations and additions. The club expects to occupy the building about September first.

The brothers J. Bayard and Charles W. Henry, have each contracted to put up dwellings on the Amos K. Little property, Germantown. Hancock street has been cut through the premises.

The property on the corner of Franklin and Wood streets will shortly be offered for sale. The First Moravian Church is the owner. They will probably build at Fairmount avenue and Seventh street.

Thos. P. Cope, Esq., who lives at Germantown, and who recently purchased the coconery property at Germantown, will erect a double house on Herman street and a row of double houses on Morton street, Germantown.

S. C. Pursell, ticket agent at Kensington Station, P. R. R., has bought a property from A. V. Gentry on Decatur street, Holmesburg, for $1,500. The size of the lot is 100x172. Mr. Pursell expects to build this summer.

Messrs. Jacob Reeds' Sons, 918 and 922 Chestnut street, are about to make extensive improvements and additions to their already large establishment. They will use the building 919 Sansom street, which is 25x114 feet. The floor space of the firm will then be considerably over fifteen thousand feet. An immense skylight will be inserted in the ceiling and a large ornamental window placed in the rear. The firm will occupy their new quarters about the middle of September.

Mr. George Holland will have his long talked of theatre at last as plans are now in the architect's hands and are near completion. Mr. Holland expects to have the building finished by the first of the coming year. It is very probable that the theatre will be located on Twenty-first street above Chestnut. The stage will be 50x50 and the auditorium will be 50x75. The parquet will be used for balls and will be constructed so as to be easily floored over. The building will only be used for amateurs.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the supervising architect, W. E. Bell, of the U. S. Treas., Washington, D. C., until 2 P. M., July 15, for carpentry, etc., for the Court House at Albany. Also at same place, until 2 P. M., July 25th, for iron stairs for Post Office, etc., at Baltimore, Md. Also at same place, until 2 P. M., July 15th for carpentry and flooring work, etc., for the Court House, Post Office, etc., building at Lynchburg, Va. Samples, circulars, catalogues of building material are requested by St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba R. R. Address the architect for that Company at St. Paul, Minn.

The new rolling mill for Henry Disston & Sons, at Tacony, will be 110 by 145 feet and will be constructed entirely of iron. The foundations are laid and it is expected to be ready for the machinery early in July. Two sets of rolls for the manufacture of bar steel for files and bar iron will be placed in the new mill, together with others for the rolling of sheet steel for saws, largely increasing the capacity of the work in that respect.

There is no truth in the reports in the dailies that the Penn Life Insurance Company is going to build very soon. It is true that they own the adjoining property, and it is also true that plans have been submitted, but for that matter a plan has been submitted for almost every month in the year, as almost every trustee of the company has submitted a plan. The matter of a new building has assumed no definite shape, and is not likely to this year, at least.

W. C. Harpur, of 407 Chestnut Street, has sold his property, which has a frontage of ten and one-half feet on Chestnut Street, and running back about seventy-five feet. Fifty thousand dollars was the price paid, and Mr. Harpur is already regretting that he sold. Barton G. Lester is the man to whom the conveyance was made, but it is boldly asserted on the street that the purchase was made in the interest of the Provident Life and Trust Company, 409 Chestnut street.

No. 46 North Fourth Street has also been purchased at a cost of $40,000, and several persons have approached Mr. Amelia Brady, of 1941 Vine Street, who owns the north-west corner property, and values it at $50,000. The frontage is sixteen feet and two inches on Chestnut Street, a third thirty-four feet and eight inches on Fourth Street. She has had various offers, none higher, however, than $70,000. The Provident owns the balance of the property on the west side of Fourth Street—excepting that on the corner of the first alley-way, below Chestnut Street, and the buildings on Fourth street owned by George Eakens.

The property sold by W. C. Harpur, 407 Chestnut, being but 104 feet front on Chestnut and extending in depth 75 feet, represents a greater price, when the depth is considered, per front foot than Chestnut street property has ever been sold.

Architects' Notes.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, 921 and 923 Chestnut st., are unable to obtain the lease for the premises adjoining until January 1, 1889, several years since they had plans made by several architects, but none have been accepted. They will undoubtedly build in the near future.

Walter H. Geissinger, N. E. cor. Fifth and Chestnut, has drawn the plans for a factory, the property of K. F. Solomon & Sons to be located on Garnet st., south of Somerset. The Garnet street front will be built with the best dark stretcher brick, the other sides to be of hand made brick. The contracts have not been let.

Benjamin D. Price, No. 1026 Arch Street, has drawn the plans for the following gentlemen, who will erect church properties.

Frame church, 28x50, cost about $1,800. Rev. Emmitt Hunt, Fayette, Ohio.

Frame church, 28x37, room for one hundred and fifty full seats. Cost, $2,000. Rev. John Flynn, Lynden, Washington Ter.

Frame church, 30x50, contains two hundred and twenty five full seats. Cost, $1,500 to $2,000.

James McGuire, Cedar Bluff, Virginia.

Mr. Frank Naylor, of Alma, Arkansas, will erect one of similar construction.

Brick church, 35x60, contains three hundred and ten full seats. Cost about $5,000.

J. O. Burlank, Bloomfield, Ind.

Charles Atkinson will build similar to Rev. Emmitt Hunt's church.

Leroy G. Archer, Vineland, N. J., is the architect for the church, parsonage, school house and childrens boarding house upon the land given by Chas. K. Landis of which we gave an account some weeks back. The location is on the west side of Union Road, between pierenza and Chestnut avenues work will begin at once.

Wilson Eyre, Jr., 506 Walnut street, is the architect for City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Company, who will locate at 927 Chestnut street. The building will be seven stories high, eight including the basement. It will be built of Forest city blue stone with the base of marble. The lower part of the building will be replete with hand-some carvings. The architecture will be a compound of the Romanesque and the Gothic.

The entrance to the bank is to be on the right, on the left a flight of stone steps leading to mezzanine floor where the elevator is taken for the various offices, of which there will be twenty-six divided among the several floors. The front windows will be of plate glass, and the third and fourth stories will have a hand-some bay feature. The floor and ceiling of the bank is to be constructed of fire proof arches carrying wrought iron beams. In the front part of the basement will be located the boiler rooms, the rear portion the safe deposit vaults. Finished in oak, ornamented wrought iron work and tiling will make the bank offices among the hand-somest in the city.

The whole building will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity, which will also be used for call bells.

All of the stairways, excepting the one leading to the mezzanine floor will be built of light dove colored marble on wrought iron horses. A necessary appliances for protection, health and convenience will be introduced, and when finished will be entirely suitable for the purpose it was built.

The value of school property in Philadelphia is $7,305,000, which is distributed among three hundred and fifteen school-houses, irrespective of those now in course of erection, which number twelve, and represent an aggregate cost of $300,000. From information furnished by J. D. Austin, the architect, we give the following:

The school house at Eleventh and Moore streets, First Ward, which will be finished about the first of December, at a cost of $39,000. To be erected of brick, with brownstone trimmings, two story, and contain twelve divisions.

The school at Fourth and Dauphin streets to be finished about the same time, to be built of brick, and brownstone trimmings, two stories high, containing fourteen divisions. Cost, $4,200. Also, one in Twenty-first ward, Ridge avenue and Kalos street, two stories, containing six rooms, to be built of Avondale stone, costing $21,000.

Two for the Twenty-second ward, the first, Adams and Lafayette streets, the other at Coulter and Morris streets, both of Germantown stone. The Adams-street school will cost $20,000—the Coulter-street school $14,000. To be finished in September.

In the Twenty-fourth ward—at the corner of Forty-third and Ogden streets—there will be built a three-story—twenty-one division brick building. To be completed in December, at a cost of $60,000.

A twenty-five thousand-dollar school property is being built in the Twenty-fifth ward, at Marshall and Somerset streets. This will be built of brick, two stories high, and contain eight divisions, to be finished in September.

This list completes the list of the school houses to be built this year, as the money furnished by Councils has been expended, and no further appropriation has been made. Many of the buildings are in shocking order, and immediate steps should be taken to furnish better schools, with more comfortable quarters for the scholars.

P. A. Welsh, No. 429 Walnut Street has finished the plans for the new building of the Independent, of Germantown, which will be located at the corner of Green and Chelton Avenue. Brick with elaborate trimmings of brownstone will be used in the construction of the building which will contain three stories on the front—the first is intended for the editorial rooms; the composing room will be back on the ground floor—this room is one story high. The second floor will be used for offices. The architect has not only used great judgment as regards the utility of the construction, but has had a just appreciation for the beautiful. An artistic balcony will extend over the main entrance, and in front of each of the three windows on the second floor of the round tower, which is to be placed at the corner. Size of the building will be forty-eight feet front by seventy-two feet deep. The whole to be surmounted by a slate roof.

Will H. Decker, 1407 1/2 and 1409 Chestnut street, has drawn the plans for a saloon and dwelling house at Twenty eighth and Diamond streets, for Rudolph Klagholz, which will cost when completed, $8,500. Also a saloon and dwelling at the corner of Nineteenth street and Columbia avenue for Patrick O'Neill. This building will cost $10,000. Both of these properties are just being commenced. The same architect has also finished the plans for the Standard Iron Foundry at Thirtieth and Noble streets. This building was demolished by the fall of the walls of Boughton's wood carpet factory this spring. The company will erect a four-story brick foundry of an L shape, 60 feet on Thirtieth street and 160 feet on Noble street. An immense skylight will cover the buildings. The contractors have not been given out. Mr. Decker is now at work on a set of plans for four houses at Media, Pa., to cost $12,000 for the four. They will be built in pairs. Brick with stone trimmings will be used in the construction. The roofs will be slated. These houses will have handsomely finished interiors and all the conveniences of electric lights and calls, electroliners, speaking tubes, etc., will be introduced.

Camden and Vicinity.

Jno. F. Craig, sugar broker, Front and Walnut streets, Phila., will erect two cottages on Park avenue, between Dayton and Lees avenues, Collingswood. The houses will be of frame construction and $2500 apiece will be the cost.

Mr. Jno. Bailey, 106 Market street, Camden, will also build a very hand-some house this fall at Collingswood.

Was the day our lease expired, but, owing to the unfortunate position about our new store, we have prevailed on the landlords to allow us to remain another month, and in this month we are going to make a still greater reduction—such a reduction that will be remembered. Our stock comprises so many different kinds that it is impossible to enumerate prices, but, if you will take the trouble to look in our windows as you pass, you will find such goods as you want, viz.:

FANS, LEATHER GOODS,
MIRRORS, STATIONERY,
PICTURES, FRAMES,
TRAVELING REQUISITES,
BRIC-A-BRAC, ETC.,

Marked at the reduced prices. Bear it in mind that all the stock is to be sold.

Recent Decisions.

Recent decisions in relation to Commercial and Real Estate matters, by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court:

Adverse Possession.—Title gained by adverse possession cannot be devested by parol declarations.

A verbal statement by one whose title by adverse possession is complete, to the owner of the paper title, that the former "recollected that there was a claim taken up for the property," and if the latter "believed that he was entitled to it, to go ahead and take it, and he would make no objections" is ineffectual to devest the title in possession. —Byers vs. Shepler, decided Oct. 4, 1886.

Cloud on Title.—A recorded deed under a tax sale of land is a cloud upon the title if it be regular upon its face although the sale was invalid, and the owner of the lands who is in possession of the same can file a bill to remove such cloud upon his title.

The defendant here asserted his deed but brought no action upon it; the plaintiff was in possession and could bring no action of ejectment; his evidence to prove the invalidity of defendant's deed rested in parol and might therefore be lost, and the deed used vexatiously and injuriously to plaintiff's disadvantage.

The plaintiff was therefore entitled to relief by having the deed delivered up to be cancelled. —Dull vs. McDowell, Oct. 4, 1886.

Deed.—Where a deed has passed from the dominion of the grantor, its delivery will be presumed; but if it remain with the grantor the onus of proving delivery rests with the party claiming under it. In ejectment the burden of proving the delivery of a deed under which defendant claims title, is upon him and not upon plaintiff who claims by title paramount. —Miller vs. Eselman, Oct. 4, 1886.

Devise.—A will was as follows:

I direct that my real estate (describing it) shall be equally divided share and share alike, between my lawful children and their heirs, which are as follows: S. M. Jr., and his children (naming other of testator's children in same manner). Held, that naming the devisees showed that testator intended the word "heirs" in the limited sense of "heirs of the body," which at common law would create a fee tail, but under the Pennsylvania Statute, a fee simple, and that the effect of the will was to devise an estate in fee simple to each of testator's children. —Knoderer vs. Merriman, Nov. 9, 1886.

Landlord and Tenant.—Where an action is brought to recover the first quarter's rent on an alleged parol lease and defeated on the ground that no such lease has been made, the judgment is a bar to a subsequent action for the second quarter's rent on the same alleged lease. —Orr vs. Ins. Co., Nov. 1, 1886.

Mortgage.—Where for the purpose of making partition of lands of a decedent among his heirs, the portion thereof allotted to one of the heirs was with his consent and procurement deeded to his wife, to defraud his creditors, a terre tenant under the subsequent assignee in bankruptcy of the husband has no standing to defend against a mortgage given by the wife thereon. The mortgage was good for the wife's interest, whatever that may be; and so far as this case is concerned her title is perfect, not having been impeached by her husband's creditors. —Swartz vs. Kleaer, Nov. 15, 1886.

All of above cases can be found in 5 Cent. Rep.

THE last half of 1887 opens with very few unfavorable influences at work to terminate the wonderful activity that set in ten months ago. The main point for business men in every channel of activity to keep in mind is to keep out of debt practically. Those who are driven to borrow are simply putting themselves in training for bankruptcy. This advice does not have reference to those large business operations which could not be undertaken and prosecuted but for capital, but to that running into debt which is indulged in by thousands and tens of thousands, simply to prolong a useless struggle, or to gain some vantage ground over competitors.

The commercial failures run from 140 to 160 a week. These failures represent small business men for the most part, who lived on borrowed money. The season is encouraging for manufacturers, jobbers, merchants, builders, contractors, and business men big and little in all avenues of activity. Investments of all kinds are paying, none of them extravagantly, but there is a sufficient surplus to encourage enterprise and stimulate legitimate competition. It would be a happy condition if the present relations of supply and demand could continue. The country is absorbing all that is produced. Warehouses are not overstocked. Mills are nearly everywhere working on orders. Business men find customers running after them. Collections are good. Failures relatively few. The railroads are making money, even with the dull season before us traffic is increasing. Thousands of manufacturers are apprehensive that prices may advance. As a measure of safety and prudence they are buying ahead, not in one or two but in a dozen or more channels. All this makes confidence, firmness in prices, and helps to broaden the foundation on which business rests. The latest clearing house returns make a good exhibit. Both Western and Southern railroads have all the freight they can comfortably haul. The Reading, the Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad companies have crowded every car shop in three states full of car orders, and lumber men corroborate the statement.

The railroad tie makers are ransacking the oak forests of Virginia for timber. The saw mill men are working farther into the interior of South Carolina and Georgia for yellow pine, and much lumber is now coming by rail. Northern lumbermen are buying up yellow pine tracts in the Gulf states at a rate which will impart a speculative value to Southern pine lands in a very few years. But it is not only in iron, steel, lumber, and coal that consumption is increasing and manufacturing capacity expanding, but in many other directions. The machinery establishments, the boiler and engine and tool and wagon shops of the country were never busier than at this time. At South Bend, Pullman, Detroit, Moline, and nearer home, at Harrisburg, Reading, York, Wilmington, and Trenton, the numerous minor industries of those thriving cities are all crowded and start in with several weeks' good business.

Building activity is so general that comment is unnecessary. What the builders want to know is, will it last one, two, three or more years? Manufacturers are building houses for their workmen in small towns and cities to sell them on easy payments. From the number of instances of this kind it would seem that employers would find means to build comfortable homes for their employees on a large scale. It ought to be done.

Two thirds of the Eastern nail machines are idle, and nails are down to $2.05-2.20. Bar iron is selling at 2 cents.

A New Kind of Coal.

A twenty-three foot vein of what promises to be a valuable kind of fuel has been discovered at Elsinore, Cal., and it is thought that the whole valley is underlain with it. It is described by the News of that place as quite soft, and easily worked when in the mine, but it gets hard when exposed to the air. It resembles slate somewhat in appearance, although of a somewhat lighter color. It is clean, leaves no marks or stains on the hand, does not slack or crumble in the air, can be split like mica into very thin fibres, burns freely, and needs only to be ignited with a match, smells like burning rubber when being consumed, and leaves behind a jet black ash resembling lampblack in all its properties. It is said to be worth $15 per ton for making gas.

Refers with permission to William M. Singerly,
Proprietor of Phila. "Record."

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JULY 4, 1887.

THERE is one thing that ought to be controlled in some way, and that is the immense new issues of stocks by railroad corporations. Perhaps the new issues are right, and based on real values, perhaps they are not. This inflation ought to be guarded in the interests of the great body of producers.

THE Canadian Government wants to induce as many of its people as possible who have entered the shops and factories of the New England States to return. The German Government looks with a jealous eye on the outgoing hordes. The right way to do is to treat the people well, and they will stay.

THERE is a general falling off in business in all large and small business centres, but it is only for a few days. The people are earning more money than ever, and are expending it wisely. Even the great body of wage workers are taking the sensible advice of their leaders, and are throwing less money in the rum maelstrom.

As we understand it, the incorporators of the scheme for an Underground Rail Road are fully empowered to go ahead. The recent meeting at the Academy, if it expressed anything, certainly showed that a large number of our best citizens prefer that method of rapid transit. In the face of the very warm expressions in its favor, uttered at the Academy meeting, there should be no trouble in obtaining heavy subscriptions for its stock. An effort at least should be made by the incorporators to take the initiative towards its construction. The backers of the North Eastern scheme for an Elevated Rail Road made a serious mistake in accepting the proposition to consolidate with what was known as the Traction Company's scheme, for there was very little opposition to the former, as its route would not materially interfere with property interests. The consolidated project was a different matter entirely, and it was against that proposition the opposition was raised. The North Eastern road should be revived at once, it is badly needed and would prove of lasting benefit to thousands of our citizens.

THE senseless and in some cases scurrilous attack upon John Wanamaker, because of his advocacy of and identification with the Elevated Rail Road proposition, recently before councils, was, to say the least, a stupid and uncalled for piece of journalistic barbarism, which fell far short of its intended purpose.

As a monopolist, Mr. Wanamaker has certainly proved a decided success, and if monopoly means brains and pluck and tireless energy, it is a sad pity that these monopolistic tendencies do not seize upon some of our old foggy barnacles who oppose progress, innovation, and expansion on general principles.

The trouble with John Wanamaker is that he is too far advanced in his ideas, he is too progressive. He should take fast hold of himself and wait for a great many old timers to catch up. Fremont, while commanding the Western department during the early stage of the rebellion, sounded the death-knell of the Confederacy when he declared the Negro contraband of war, yet he was immediately sat upon by the administration, and a large part of the North derided his proclamation, and the "Path Finder" was ingloriously retired, in other words, he paid the penalty for his acute perception, but had the gratification of witnessing the subsequent adoption of the very theory of war which he was the first to promulgate.

As to Wanamaker wanting the earth, as one distinguished Sunday luminary intimated, there is no tangible evidence to the contrary, but there is one thing certain: if some of our present old timed fossilism is not changed to a sentiment of enterprise and progression, Mr. Wanamaker stands a fair chance to capture the whole of Philadelphia, while many thousands of his fellow citizens are indulging in their characteristic Rip-Van-Winkleism.

If the East Park Reservoir can be made of any practical use by the expenditure of a reasonable sum of money to make it watertight, the necessary work should be done and well done, but it's all nonsense to suppose that a smattering of concrete of no greater thickness than would be necessary to make a cellar floor, will possess sufficient strength to resist the immense water pressure, and stand the frosts of winter which in many places will attack the banks.

It is well known that asphalt laid upon concrete has no adhesiveness, in fact it is as easily peeled from concrete as the thin skin is from an orange, and yet our city wiseacres have expressed the opinion that a sheeting of asphalt, five eighths of an inch in thickness, placed over a lining of concrete three inches thick, would possess sufficient strength and resisting force to make the big reservoir water-tight.

It is just such nonsense as this that keeps this city poor. We are constantly tinkering and patching inferior work enough now, without entering into any arrangement that will give us more of it to do. What we need is first class work, which can only be had at fair prices, and the man who would undertake the job of making the East Park Reservoir water-tight for $25,000, is either a knave or a fool, and if either, the city should have nothing to do with him.

The city has no money to fool away, and until it can afford to pay for having the East Park Reservoir finished as it should be, the whole subject should be let alone. The fact is, nothing cheaper than a rubble lining grouted in with hydraulic cement, would give the least assurance of stability, and all cheaper propositions seem to us like playing into the hands of contractors.

OUR trades unions keep American youths out of trades, but their leaders have nothing to say against the hundreds of thousands of foreign youths and men who are crowding in to divide their bread and butter. The American boys ought to have had better luck than to have been born and reared in America. The American eagle should stop her screeching over virtue, liberty, and independence, and flop its wings together and let some other bird take its place. American fathers and mothers should know by this time that their sons have no rights which foreign workmen in America are bound to respect. They should know that this country is for foreigners, that the industries of this country are to be controlled by them, and that they must look elsewhere for employment, behind counters, on street cars, anywhere, except behind the bench. Our trades unions, dominated as they are by foreigners, are not to be blamed exactly for all this. They want all the chances themselves, and so debar the sons of America who want to have their chances with them, but whose ideas have been broadened out by their teachings and surroundings and the influences which have grown up around about them since the foundation of the government.

Where and what is the remedy? American employers and American youth could get along very well, if they had their own way, but they have not, and cannot have it. So put into practice, the republican and democratic teaching of this government is to subject themselves to the cry of "scab," to be boycotted. They must fall into line. But the boys can't, unless they vow obedience to unrepublican trades-unionism.

Combinations to protect wages are right. Employers combine, manufacturers combine, our government is a combination, society is a combination, our progress in all directions is the fruit of combination.

But—what sort of combination? The poor boot and shoe makers of Massachusetts found they struck the wrong sort of combination. So have the workmen in scores of places found to their cost. A combination which proposes to establish a petty tyranny is a combination which the American spirit cannot tolerate.

The story of the farmer who took in the frozen reptile and warned it with life applies in part to our treatment of the European wage workers. They have been blunted into industrial thralldom, their senses blunted, their aspirations destroyed. They rush to the open arms of America, where liberty is in the air, and they retaliate by trade combinations which practically shut out the youth of America and compel the fathers and mothers of America to see their willing sons grow up in enforced idleness, or driven by the lash of foreign ignorance and selfishness into demeaning occupations.

If this thing keeps on as it is likely to, it will result in the American fathers taking up the question. They have solved a good many difficulties before, and they will not quail before this. They tore the word "nigger" out of the American dictionary, at a mighty sacrifice of dollars and blood, and the same inextinguishable spirit will tear the words "scab" and "boycott" out of the modern slang dictionary, which foreign ingratitude and insolence has endeavored to put in our mouths. Honest American boys who want to toil as their fathers toiled before them, are not scabs, and their fathers will not let the name be used against them.

The way out is not hard to see or seek. The gates which last year let in 800,000 foreigners, and which in 1887 will let in 1,000,000 more, may be shut against them.

WE notice that our exchanges are often filled with matter taken direct from our columns. While we are delighted to have both our ideas and items widely circulated—yet it is only just that we should be accredited for what costs us both time, money and laborious work to obtain.

We recognize the fact that there is a class of news which is common property, but when we have our statistical and special work bodily copied without even the grace extended of rewriting, it is time that our plea for recognition was heeded.

Summary of Our Last Issue.

The columns of the REAL ESTATE RECORD, of June 27, contained a list of 56 building permits that had been issued, during the week ending Saturday, June 25; they represented 161 improvements, and showed a falling off of fifty-one permits and one hundred and seventy-one improvements compared with the previous week. The auction sales of property for that week were very light, as at sixteen city properties were sold for $74,071.35, of which amount $18,534, represented the cash consideration paid, and $55,537.35 the mortgage consideration, to which must be added one yearly ground rent incumbrance of $119.00. This is a heavy showing of incumbrances, when compared with the previous week.

There were 308 conveyances reported in our last issue against 344 for the previous report. The 308 transfers represented a total value in round figures of $1,086,236.83, divided as follows:—$788,011.83 cash consideration against $1,207,843.66 in last report, making a falling off of the enormous sum of $419,831.83. The mortgage consideration amounted to $148,225 against $246,432 in our previous weekly report, to which must be added yearly ground rents reported in the conveyances amounting to $9,218 which represent, taking six per cent. as a basis, a further incumbrance of, in round numbers, $150,000 more.

Through the State and Elsewhere.

—Henry C. Bevon will build in Lower Merion.
—O. H. Loomis will build in Meshoppen, Pennsylvania.

—State building news this week is not so plenty as usual.

—Murray Rush, of Radnor, will do extensive building.

—Frank Bitting, of Quakertown, Bucks county, will build.

—G. W. Stanton will build in Factoryville, Pennsylvania.

—Francis T. Bruce, of Philadelphia, will build at Sharon Hill.

The Dime Museum, which will be closed until September 1st, will be renovated, and the seating capacity greatly enlarged. The Arch at Theatre is also undergoing extensive repairs.

Christopher Snyder, Collegeville, Twenty third ward, Phila., is digging an artesian well on part of his property, nearly opposite Maple ave, same place. Mr. Snyder will probably build this summer.

The new building for the Germantown Independent, when completed, will be one of the handsomest newspaper premises in the State. We congratulate the Independent for this very tangible evidence of its prosperity.

The difficultly experienced in securing bids for the new glass roof on Horticultural Hall will oblige the Park Committee on Plans and Improvements to re-advertise. The trouble was among the contracting parties.

A reduction of $20,000 will have to be made in the contracts for the Real Estate and Law Building which is to be erected at Atlantic City, N. J. Addison Hutton, 400 Chestnut street, is the architect. $40,000 is the limit.

$11,000 was the price paid for the property at Eighteenth and Westmorland streets, which is 200 feet front by 200 deep. Mr. George V. Cresson the purchaser will erect several large buildings to be used as a manufactory of shafting.

A three-story store and dwelling house will be erected at 1012 North Second street, and a two-story back building addition. Mr. L. Schwab, 940 North Sixth, who is the builder, will commence in about two weeks.

St. Michael and All Angels expect soon to erect a building. The locality has not been decided upon, as six of the ten thousand dollars have yet to be raised. The institution is for the instruction of colored youth and also for surgical treatment.

Mrs. Amelia Brady, 1941 Vine street, has sold the property at the north-east corner of Fourth and Chestnut streets, for $85,000. The lot is 16 feet 2 inches front by 34 feet 8 inches on Fourth street. This is the largest price paid in Philadelphia for any property of the same size.

Chief Clerk Butler, of the Building Inspectors' office, sent to the controller on Saturday, 26th of July, an estimate for next year's expenses necessary to conduct the business for next year. The receipts are $16,000, and expenses amount to $11,000, leaving the city a net gain of $5,000.

Stevens & Cooper have the contract for the carving of the stone work of the National Bank of Atlantic City, which will be finished in a month or two. Models are being made by the same firm for the carved stone work at the Western Saving Fund 10th and Walnut. The inside decoration finish will be of elaborate composition work.

J. M. Look, Jr., 629 Walnut street, has sold a tract of land situated at Whitland station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, belonging to Mr. Broylan, to Dallas Sanders, Esq., Attorney at Law, 739 Walnut street. Mr. Look has also sold, through his attorney, Abram S. Ashbridge, Jr., 416 Walnut street, the O'Brien property, situated at Kirkland station, on the West Chester and Frazar branch of the Pennsylvania railroad, to John D. Baker, Attorney-at-Law, Philadelphia.

This company, although but recently has been organized, now employs 300 men and operates four quarries each 100 feet square and run forty-five (45) gangs of saws and are now putting up a twenty five gang mill with engines and boilers for double that number. They are working night and day to keep ahead with their orders which are being shipped all over the United States.

Stephens, Leach & Conklin, 1341 Cuthbert street, are furnishing the terra cotta for five houses, three-story brick houses, which are now being erected at 21st and Locust streets. The buildings are among the handsomest in the city, the corner property having a large turret feature which is entirely original in its designs. R. G. Kennedy is the architect. The same firm has completed a terra cotta panel seventeen feet long for the West Chester Hose Company. T. Roney Williamson, 26 Merchant's Exchange, is the designer.

A gentleman residing at Germantown, who attended the sale of building lots recently held at Chelton and Stenton avenues, Germantown, by Messrs. Thomas & Sons, is responsible for the statement that the report of the results of that sale are radically wrong, as he claims that but seventeen lots were sold and the highest price brought was $150. When the sale was stopped by the owner, who also refused to recognise the sale of three of the lots sold, as the buyer tendered for deposit to secure the purchase, a check on a savings institution of this city which he declined to receive. A warm legal contest will probably be the result.

The Rowlandville School, Germantown, is in such bad condition that a new school house is talked of. The roof of the Centre-Street School, same place, will probably be replaced with a new one, at a cost of about $500. The new grist mill of John T. Walker & Son, at same place, will be completed about September 1st, next. The firm will build a new two-story hay-house, thirty by sixty feet, and a stable to accommodate twelve horses. The school house in course of erection at Coulter and Norris Streets, Germantown, is nearing completion.

A 5-story building has just been placed under contract. Mr. James C. Johnson, of Wilmington, Del., is the owner. The building will be used for store purposes, and will be built of brick, with granite, blue-stone and terra-cotta trimmings. Other work of importance is being pushed rapidly ahead.

E. W. Thorne, 14 South Broad street, has had his plans adopted by the London Grove school board, at West Grove, Pa., which will cost $2000 and seat fifty pupils. The Board unanimously pronounced these drawings for the school to be the most complete and convenient of any in that section of the country.

Cope & Stewardson, 202 South Third street, are the architects for V. E. Sweetman, who is building a large brick building at Fifth and Adelphi streets. The structure will be five stories high and trimmed with Wyoming Valley blue stone. All the work, both inside and outside, will be of the very best, with all sanitary conveniences. A large skylight will be placed in the roof. The entire building will be heated by steam and will be fire-proof. A dumb waiter will be run from the first to the fourth story. The contracts will probably be let at once.

E. F. Bertolotto is working on the plans for a handsome 5-story brick bank and office building at Pottstown, Pa., which will contain fifty offices. The building will have a frontage of 60 feet on High and 141 feet on Hanover street. The Security Trust & Safe Deposit Company, of Pottstown, who are erecting the building intend to have every convenience, such as an elevator, electric bells and electric lights. The heat supplied will be that of steam. The inside of the banking offices will be finished in hard wood, handsome gas fixtures and ornamented brass work will help the appearance of these offices. The contracts have not been let. Mr. Bertolotto will also draw the plans for J. F. Reid, of Dunbar, Fayette county, Pa., who will build a 2½ story brick house at Uniontown, Pa. The cost will be $5,000.

Mr. Hazlehurst, of the firm of Hazlehurst & Huckle, 410 Walnut street, will make the designs for the refitting of the Art Club, of Philadelphia, located at Broad and Brighton streets. The refitting will consist principally of furniture and hangings, and other portable property, the club being yet undecided as to whether they will build or not, or merely alter. The property, which cost the club $100,000, may be entirely rebuilt, commencing with the art gallery.

Senator James McGrath, a well known architect, of St. Louis, Mo., has removed to this city and opened an office at 1017 Chestnut street, in rooms Nos 1 and 2. The Senator has built some of the handsomest buildings in the West. The Academy of the Christian Brothers, which cost $800,000 to build; the Emile building, which cost $160,000, and Sheehan & Soler's building, costing $100,000, are among the great number of this gentleman's designs. Mr. McGrath does not come to this city as a stranger, but has a host of friends who gladly welcome him to Philadelphia.

Camden and Vicinity.

A chapel will be erected at Vineland, N. J., under the auspices of the College of the Sacred Heart, at a cost of $25,000, which was given to the college. That building will also have about $20,000 spent upon its adornment.

—The Wilmington, Del., Board of Public Education have decided to purchase a lot on Ryde street and Woodland avenue, that city, as a site for a new school house. The proposed annex to school No. 7, of that place, to cost $7,500, has been laid over until the July meeting, also the proposition to purchase a lot on Minor street between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. The Board has also determined to advertise for proposals for the erection of school annex to school No. 16, of that place, to cost not over $7,000. Proposals are to be advertised for the repairs to the roof of school building No. 17.

—The old buildings on the site for the new congressional library at Washington, D. C., have been sold at auction and must be removed by July 17th, preparatory to the erection of the new library building.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JULY 11, 1887.

We are constantly hearing of a new composition for brick. The latest is a moist mixture of clay and paraffine distillate.

A CONTRACT was awarded a few days ago in Boston for five miles all-asbestos pipe covering, the largest single contract of the kind ever taken.

A NEW roofing paint consists of coal or gas tar, resin, tallow, sulphur, borax, ground iron ore, yellow ochre, water lime, plaster of paris and asbestos. It ought to be good.

GOVERNOR HILL, of New York, has just signed an act, making it a law, prohibiting the use of stoves or furnaces kept on the inside of passenger cars for heating purposes.

A BILL has just been signed by Governor Hill, of New York, which allows the gas companies to charge $1.60 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas in the annexed district of New York City.

A CHICAGO man has been using his leisure since the lockout started, to make a paving block that has a length equal to the width of the walk to be covered, and provided with a crowned upper surface which tapers slightly to the ends of the block.

WHETHER the name of John J. Ridgeway is to be even presented to the county convention for the nomination of Sheriff of Philadelphia is a question which the bosses must determine. Yet, if forced into retirement, Mr. Ridgeway will at least have the satisfaction of having justly earned the respect of every citizen who considers the induction of business into political positions a refreshing innovation worthy, at least, to be followed as an example of what is possible even in this age of political degeneration.

NEW YORK builders are taking out permits as fast as ever. Building operations are being crowded along in all near-by cities. The Western railroad companies are expending a good deal of money in depot and other terminal facilities in large cities. The Wisconsin Central has just taken out a permit for a $1,000,000 depot in Chicago. Levi P. Morton will erect a $300,000 residence in Washington. The Taunton locomotive works will have an addition of 3000 feet of floor space.

THE assessment rolls of New York City for 1887 show an immense increase over the preceding year. In every ward of the city the valuation of real estate was increased, $130,792 representing the lowest and $24,081,575 representing the highest amount of increase, the other wards ranging between these two extremes, the whole increase amounting in the aggregate to more than $86,000,000. These figures are amazing and certainly show a wonderful increase in real property in that city.

THE dozen or more dealers in artificial and natural stone have so far doubled this year's volume of business over last. Architects are much more generally using stone, and the taste of householders and investors is running strongly to the more generous use of stone. The rural sections show to what extent the departure is being made. There is sombreness and a venerableness about a compactly-built structure, largely of stone, that makes it attractive to hundreds who desire to escape from the worn-out uniformity that has characterized house building for generations.

THE citizens of Wilkesbarre, Pa., are not only in favor of public improvements, but in order that certain streets may be paved without depleting the city treasury and at the same time avoid the postponement of such work until the city is able to do it, a proposition was made to Councils that the property owners would liquidate the bill, including the city's half of the costs, provided the amounts should be refunded to them in taxes when the same should become due.

This plan avoids any increase of debt, and the necessary yearly interest besides, enabling the city to make extensive improvements at once, which could not be done were it not for this very sensible proposition. The plan might be tried in Philadelphia with many advantages on both sides.

NOTHING has arisen during the past six months to discourage building operators. Real estate operators report an active demand for real estate, at least so far as inquiry is concerned. Those who watch the real estate exchange sales, auction sales and forced sales, know that considering the amount of building done, there is less real estate sold in this city than perhaps any other. The reason is that all purchases are made for improvement. In other cities purchases are made on speculation.

Within a very short time a great interest has been developed in suburban properties and in property in the smaller towns throughout the state; our state notes show it. The lethargy which has existed throughout the state is disappearing and real estate is improving, lots are being bought up, farms are being cut up into lots, buyers are buying and building and a general stir is apparent. People who have been content to live in the same old house for a generation are tired of it and want something better. The younger people, perhaps, are behind this movement. They know something of city life and attractions and want to come as near to city surroundings as possible. Whatever be the cause, the result is showing itself in a spirit of improvement that is transforming the dull old-fashioned towns into lively and healthful cities. The spirit of enterprise will not stop. The farming and manufacturing communities throughout the east have been successful, are making money and are using it in the right way, to improve and beautify and make homes what they ought to be.

THE question of an Elevated Rail Road is a matter of time only, it must come and will come through force of necessity, and like other improvements for the public good, it will of course conflict with some interests and must necessarily inflict more or less business and property injury upon a considerable number of persons. Like all other improvements of great magnitude, it must wait until public sentiment demands it, and then, no matter who the sufferers may be, it will be built under the best possible terms the incorporators can obtain, and the sentimental side which received so much consideration at the Academy meeting, will be entirely ignored. Improvements of what ever nature, when demanded by the exigencies of the hour, and backed by public sentiment, have been heretofore and will always be pushed through regardless of who is hurt. Fairmount Park, with all its beauties and great benefit and usefulness to the public, caused many a bitter pang and regret, if not great pecuniary loss, to a host of families, who were compelled to give up their homes for the public weal.

THE various compendiums of statistics which are either directly or collaterally connected with fire insurance shows that there are many towns and villages of considerable size in every State which are inadequately protected against fire. Indeed, in many cases the only means of checking conflagrations is through wells and buckets, with an occasional recourse to a stream or brook. When a fire occurs in such localities the loss is usually very heavy. Indeed, the amount of property burned in such places every five years would furnish engines, hose, reservoirs or some system of water supply. The best thing that the insurance companies can do is either to refuse to insure property in such towns or to make the rate so high as to be practically prohibitory. This would bring property owners to their senses and they might set to work to devise some method by which the possibilities of fire-waste might be diminished.

It is singular how the law interpreting powers of States differ on direct questions of law, involving the rights of property owners, to recover from Elevated Rail Road Companies, for injury from the depreciation of rent and the value of property.

The action of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in setting aside the verdicts obtained by the property owners on Filbert street against the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company, for injury arising from the construction of, and running of trains on its elevated road to Broad street station, stands in strong contradiction to the decisions of the New York Court of Appeals, which held that the owners of abutting property are entitled to damages for the diminution of their light, air, and access generally, by reason of the elevated structure, and that evidence as to the quantity of cinders, ashes, and smoke coming from the elevated road is admissible.

These New York decisions mean that property owners in New York can sue and recover for all injury to their property by reason of lessened value and loss of comfort through elevated roads, while to the contrary the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has practically decided that property owners are without redress for injuries of that character. This is an apparent contradiction by the highest judicial tribunals of the two leading States in the Union.

It may be imagined by many that there is nothing to be learned by builders or architects, or householders on the subject of ventilation. Perhaps there is no subject coming under the head of house construction which is so little understood, and one which there is quicker need for enlightenment. Windows, doors and halls are built to suit the convenience of occupants, and these things are supposed to properly take care of ventilation. If not then the average builder thinks there is nothing else to do, and that nothing else can be done. It is only since large houses, built close together, and compactly tenanted or occupied, that the question of ventilation has arisen into its just importance. The literature on this point, as on some others is limited. Furnace heating has made ventilation of more importance than when stoves were exclusively used. Then each stove was the natural centre of ventilation—now all is changed. The economy of cast iron in the matter of radiation gives it a preference over wrought iron. Fewer joints are required in wrought iron, and many furnaces, therefore, have their upper part made with wrought iron or steel. Too often the mistake is made of having a furnace too small, and, therefore, a too small radiating surface. The furnace should be so constructed that the smoke should be made to give up its heat before reaching the smoke-stack.

THE old Boston harbor tea spirit is not dead yet. This nation has shut its gates against the products of foreign mills and workshops in order that Americans and all who desired to become Americans might enjoy the fruits of well-requited industry. The American protective system threw its shield over all who came, and enabled them to lift themselves out of poverty into comfort. Will this country and people who did this, who accomplished this mighty economic revolution, permit a band of foreigners to grasp all, and bar out our boys from the fruits and advantages of that system? Not much! Old Samson, perhaps, made a fool of himself but he is remembered to this day. The Americans are in no danger of harming themselves, or their country, but they will be found ready to act unless trades unionism modifies its arrogance, and remembers that this is America, and that it is ruled after all by Americans who have a country to defend, and a problem to solve, and a pathway to tread which looks out upon all humanity as a brotherhood, and all nations of people as friends.

THE wrought iron and steel furnace is gradually supplanting the cast iron furnace because of the fewer joints necessary. The difficulty of providing for an equality of heating throughout the house is one that is not always easily surmounted. The cellar should allow for pitching all pipes up from the furnace. Level pipes retard the heat. Furnaces should on account of the wind, and its effects, be built under the side of the house which the wind blows against. Every furnace should have an air pit which connects with outside air with a wooden or metal duct which should have an area of three hundred square inches for an ordinary house. The air supply ought to be taken from the outside. The hot air pipes ought to be large—from seven to ten inches. Hot water heating has some advantages over furnace heating, among which are equality of temperature and economy, in that less coal is needed to heat water than to heat air—no gases of combustion can enter the rooms to be heated, and the heat is more easily controlled.

SOME nine months ago Second Street, below Race Street, was opened by the workmen belonging to the Gas Department for the purpose of laying new feed pipes, and notwithstanding the fact that complaints, almost without number, have been made by the business men, and residents of the neighborhood, the street has not been repaired.

There is considerable travel at this point on Second Street, and why the city has not been involved in a dozen law suits for serious injury to horses is a conundrum.

There is very little judgment displayed in the management of our street pavements. There is scarcely a block of Belgian or even the heavy granite block pavement that approximates reasonable expectations. So little care is exercised in the preparation of the foundation on which this pavement is laid that in a few weeks it begins to show the slipshod manner in which the work has been done. Gravel or sand, even in the very limited quantities now used in the preparation of the foundation, is not suitable material to lay it upon. Where pavement of this nature is to be laid a solid foundation of concrete should first be prepared to receive it; this would render it safe from heavy rains, prevent soaking and would beyond a question keep the block up to the heaviest pressure placed upon it. Belgian or granite pavement is too expensive on the start and costs too much to keep in repair to be laid except in the best possible manner.

Latest Business Facts.

THE question which the building and manufacturing interests are asking is not will we have a good fall business, but how great will be the rush. Another question often discussed in banking and money-lending interests is, what is the extent of the force behind the present commercial activity? Bank clearings at thirty cities for six months show results to be $25,535,000,000, which is the greatest in our history for that time. June was the heaviest month, notwithstanding the fact that manufacturers and business men complained a great deal of a conservative feeling. New York did ten times as much business as Philadelphia, Boston one-and-a-half times as much, Chicago almost as much, and St. Louis about one fourth as much. The increase of business in these five cities this year over same time last year was 8 per cent. and in the thirty cities referred to 10 per cent., and in twenty-five smaller cities, 27 per cent. Taking it all through, the country did $115 worth of business this year for $100 worth last year. The record of the next six months will probably show an increase of 20 per cent. over the same time last year.

In Western cities the increase is much heavier. In eight selected cities between Louisville, Kansas City and St. Paul, the increase this year over last is 48 per cent. The west is making giant strides, and its prosperity is reflected on the east. Material, machinery and supplies of a thousand kinds are made here for western markets, and the orders in some lines run for six months ahead.

Our National book-keepers are also exhibiting a good condition of things which it will do us no harm to take a glance at as we pass. Uncle Sam owes $1,320,282,706. He has paid during the past fiscal year $109,707,646, which shows the old man is anxious to do his best to get out of debt. But he is a prudent old fellow, and keeps a good purse of ready change on hand. His gold pouch has, in round numbers, $278,000,000 in it. He has in his silver pouch $215,000,000 in round figures. He has out gold and silver certificates amounting to $233,000,000, an increase of $69,000,000 a year ago. He collected for the year $371,000,000, and spent on it $268,000,000, and has an excess of revenue amounting to $102,000,000. The old man is in no danger of the almshouse.

Building operations are being pushed forward with the usual earnestness, and in no locality, so far as can be learned, is there any evidence of decline.

The iron industries are thriving, except, perhaps, the rail makers, who are keeping production down until demand overtakes their restricted output. Builders' hardware is turned out fully as fast as it can be sold, but circular prices are generally adhered to. The lumber trade is particularly active, and in the west, last week, an effort was made to put up prices on white pine. All eastern distributing points are abundantly supplied with white and yellow pine and all the hard woods; but dry hickock continues scarce, at least that is the universal report. Builders are not buying lumber except as they need it, and dealers are carrying as large stocks as their yard facilities will allow. Shingles and lath are plenty, and sash, doors, etc., are all in full supply, at prices which manufacturers say they might as well stop, so far as profit goes—but they don't stop.

During the first week of July 6, 570 wage workers struck, so far as reports show, all over the country. This is practically nothing. The settlement of the Chicago strike, and the probable return to work of the Connellsville coke workers leaves us out of the woods. The numerous labor defeats and the increasing unanimity of employers are having the effect of preventing the increase of strikes.

Real estate transactions in local circles exhibit a slight decline in the aggregate.

In rural sections there is great activity. Country towns are feeling the stimulus of real estate and building activity. Farms are being cut up into lots, and building sites are being quickly picked up at good prices every where. Builders are encouraged, investors are realizing good returns, and the cotton keeps rolling.

Savings Deposits.

The savings banks' statistics for 1886 are an interesting study, as exhibiting the localities where wealth is concentrating in this country. The aggregate deposits are $1,141,530,000. But these are confined to fourteen states and the district of Columbia. As might be expected, the states are nearly all Eastern; there being but two Western states, Ohio and Minnesota; and one Southern state, Maryland, and the deposits in both these together, $47,000,000, being below those in the single small New England state of Rhode Island, $51,800,000. Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Nevada, and Missouri and all the Southern States, except Maryland, are omitted from the report, because, we presume, they have no saving deposits worth speaking of. Nine tenths of the $1,141,530,000 belong to the New England States, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the states whose interests are most protected by the higher tariff. New York shows deposits of $457,000,000; Massachusetts, $275,000,000; Connecticut, $92,481,000; Rhode Island, $51,816,000; California, $60,435,000; New Hampshire, $47,231,000; Pennsylvania, $37,530,000; Maine, $35,111,000; New Jersey, $25,335,000; Vermont, $11,723,000. The average to each depositor is $750 in California, $445 in Rhode Island, $389 in New Hampshire, $378 in New York, $361 in Connecticut, $320 in Maine, and $323 in Massachusetts. It has been asserted that the depositors in the Eastern savings banks are nearly all working-men and women; if the statement be true, the working classes of these states would appear to be too well off to need the protection they receive at the cost of Western and Southern farmers.—St. Louis Republican.

The South Booming.

The Manufacturers' Record in its semi-annual review of the industrial growth of the South, states that the number of new enterprises, organized or established for the first six months of 1887, were 1855, against 812 for the same time last year, or considerable more than double. Comparing these new enterprises by the character of business for the two periods there were:

	First six months of 1887.	1886.
Iron furnace companies.....	20	7
Machine shops and foundries.....	53	40
Agricultural implement factories.....	11	7

Summary of Our Last Issue.

The columns of the REAL ESTATE RECORD of July 4th, contained a list of 58 building permits for the week ending July 2nd. They represented 161 improvements which corresponds precisely with the number of improvements reported last week.

The auction sales of that week numbered 48, which sold for $163,989.75, of which $155,589.75 was the cash consideration while the mortgage consideration was but $8400, to which also is to be added a yearly ground rent of $749.25.

There were 279 conveyances of property reported in the issue of July 4th, being a decrease of 29 from the previous report. These 279 transfers represented a total value of $975,617.70, a decrease of $110,619.13 from last report, which is divided as follows:—cash consideration, $792,817.70 against $788,011.83 of last report; a mortgage consideration of $182,800 against $148,225 the previous issue. To the above must be added a ground rent encumbrance of $6,673.26, which, if estimated on a basis of 6 per cent, is a further encumbrance of $111,225.40.

M., July 22nd

Recent Decisions.

Recent decisions in relation to Real Estate and Commercial matters decided by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court:

Attachment.—An attaching creditor has a right to assert his claim on the fund realized by a sheriff's sale, without having first reduced it to judgment. Such a creditor has a right to present his claim and insist upon participating in the distribution by virtue of the lien of his attachment.—Scully & Appeal, Jan. 24, 1887.

Contracts in Restraint of Trade.—A contract restraining one of the parties thereto from the exercise of a trade within a limited locality, when there is a reasonable ground for the restriction is valid.

Inquiry will not be made into the adequacy of the consideration.

If it is reasonable, it is enough.

A covenant as to limit of the restriction, "in the county of Lehigh, or elsewhere," is devisable and valid as to the county.—Smith vs Fell, Oct. 4, 1886.

Covenant.—Want of title in the vendor is no defense to an action by him against the purchaser, for the purchase money, upon an agreement for the sale of his interest in land. In an agreement for the sale of the vendor's interest, without warranty expressed or implied as to quantity, in property described as known by a certain name, situate in a certain township, "and the same property conveyed" to the vendor by a certain deed, the reference to the deed is not a covenant that the quantity and boundaries shall be as therein set forth, but is merely for the purpose of identifying the land in which the vendor owns the interest which he is selling.—Holton vs. Walker, Nov. 1, 1886.

Deed.—A subsequent purchaser, with notice of an unrecorded title, is protected against such title by the equity of a former purchaser without notice.

A frame shop was built against the brick wall of a stable on adjoining premises, the rafters fastened to the wall with iron spikes; on the front of the wall from top to bottom, was nailed a four inch board, to which other boards were fastened, so that the building projected beyond the stable some two and a half feet. Held: that the structure was not of such a character as to put a vendee on notice that the wall was appurtenant to the shop.—Heinrich vs. Hartzell, Jan. 24, 1887.

Landlord and Tenant.—A judgment of a Justice of the Peace in favor of a lessor and against the tenant, that the latter deliver up possession of the demised premises to the former, in proceedings regularly instituted to recover the possession, is binding and conclusive between the parties unless reversed on appeal duly taken, and is a defense in an action for trespass against the lessor brought to recover damages suffered by the tenant's wife, from the legal execution of the writ of possession. The lessor is only liable in damages for whatever was by his direction, done illegally by the officer in executing the writ.—McClelland vs. Patterson, Nov. 15, 1886.

Mortgage.—The defense of usury is personal, and if the debtor does not choose to make it, one who is a stranger to the contract cannot.

A terre tenant of mortgaged premises, under warranty of title cannot avail himself of the defence of usury on scire facias to foreclose the mortgage on his land given by his grantor, and he cannot be permitted to become a party defendant to the record for the purpose of setting up such a defense.—Bonwell vs. Smith, Nov. 1, 1886.

Partnership.—An advertisement signed by an individual, wherein he announced that he would continue the business under his own name with the addition of " & Co.," admitting two parties named "to an interest," will not, it seems, warrant the inference that the latter were admitted as partners and operate as an estoppel to prevent them from denying partnership.

The acts of these parties, in signing the firm's name to letters, receipts and orders for goods, will not, it seems, operate as an estoppel to prevent them from denying the partnership relation.—Scull's Appeal, supra.

Meckert has secured the contract for a large new house on one of the above lots, he has just started a new house for A. B. Earle, at the corner of Oak Lane and Summit Street, above place.

—The Farmers Bank at Dover, Delaware, has instructed the Wilmington members of its board of directors to erect a new bank building in that city, if they deemed it necessary, the same to cost about $20,000. A three per cent. dividend was declared last Tuesday, and $17,000 added to the sinking fund, which now amounts to $179,000.

—Plans for a new parsonage for the Siloam M. E. Church, Paschal, near Day, Pa., are now being prepared by architect Edwin T. Willis. It will be built on the grounds adjoining the present church building. The same architect has in preparation drawings for a twin cottage, to be erected by Messrs. Puhl & Kershaw, on Grays avenue, east of the railroad crossing.

—The Young Men's Christian Association of Chester, Pa., want a building suitable for the uses of its organization. A committee of the board of managers have been soliciting subscriptions, with the view of purchasing the club house of the Chester Republican League, on Fifth street of that city, which can be easily altered to meet the association's requirements. A large part of the price, $17,000, for the premises has already been subscribed.

—Mrs. Warwick, owner, of Philadelphia, has started her two new houses near the station at Clifton, Delaware county, Pa. Mr. Burchell, of Fernwood, is the contractor. Mrs. Taylor Riggs, owner, at the same place, has also started a new 22-story brick house. George F. Connor, of Clifton, is the contractor.

—John Comfort and William Todd have contracted for the building of a stone wall around St. Joseph's proctorate in the Fifth ward Norristown, Pa. The wall will be 12 feet high, 9 feet of which will be above ground, and it will be a half-mile in length. At same place, a force of men are at work digging the foundations for the new house to be erected by George W. Rogers, Esq., at DeKalb and Foranance streets. The building which will be a handsome one, is to be 42 feet front.

—The contract for the new M. E. church to be built at Salisbury, Maryland, has been awarded. The auditorium will be fifty feet square, with a pulpit at one corner. The interior will be so constructed that all the rooms will open into the auditorium. The church when completed, it is claimed will be third in point of architectural beauty in the Conference. The stone work is to be completed about September 1st next. The parsonage for this church is rapidly nearing completion. Our correspondent says that the disastrous fire which so seriously affected the citizens of Salisbury and which nearly wiped out the entire business portion of the city, has changed the aspect of that section of the city almost entirely, and the old rattle traps which were but poor apologies for business houses have been succeeded by buildings devoted to business purposes that would not look out of place if built on the principal streets of a large city. Some of them are over 100 feet deep, three and four stories high, with beautiful fronts and plate glass windows. The new house for the presiding Elder of the M. E. Conference, is being built. The new school building is being pushed and will be large and commodious. The building boom has seized upon the city, and the streets are filled with brick, lumber, stone, teams, and workmen.

—Media, Delaware Co., Pa., is somewhat agitated over the proposed advent of a new branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to that city. Real estate in many cases has already realized considerable increase in value, and the tendency is still upward. Mr. S. C. Shortlidge, of the Media Boys School, has already sold some building lots at sixty dollars per foot front measure, and great speculation is being made as to future possibilities. The following persons have recently purchased building sites from Louis H. Richards, Esq.: Wesley C. Wilkins, lot 100 by 130 feet, in Village View, for $570. Thomas Houghton, lot 160 by 130 feet, in Village View, for $770. George Fisher, lot in Village View, 40 by 152 feet, for $480. Samuel Bryan, lot in South Media, price $200. Charles Leary, building lot in Folsom, 25 by 140 feet, for $125. Isaac Green, one lot in South Media, 30 by 140 feet, for $150. Isaac Durham, one lot in South Media, 30 by 140 feet, for $150. Emily Edwards, lot on South Orange street, Media, 50 by 275 feet, price $2,000. The above lots were all purchased for building improvements. Theodore P. Sanlinear has also bought for the purpose of erecting a handsome residence, a lot, 60 by 200 feet, on South Orange street, same place.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

The stone work of the Germantown Grammar School is completed.

—All Souls Guild of Deaf Mutes is to have a concert for the benefit of its church building fund on July 13th.

—Mrs Harry Ingersoll donated $5,000 for the University building fund, and the Misses Blanchard have contributed the sum of $3,000 for the same purpose.

The corner stone of the German Lutheran Church at the corner of Ninth and Lehigh ave., was laid on July 3d. The building will cost $40,000.

William Jones, of Frankford, will build two Queen Anne houses, on Penn street, of that place.

The three-story building number 207 North Third street, recently purchased by Francis Jordan, Jr., 209 North Third street, will be altered and improved in a short time.

—A fund is being raised for the purpose of making additions to the Pilgrim Baptist Church, Twenty-third and Christian, of which the Rev. G. A. Pelix, D.D., is pastor.

By next May, St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, on Twenty-second street, above Columbia ave., will move to another location as soon as money can be raised for that purpose.

A two-story addition will be made to the hall at the North East corner of Passyunk and Washington Avenues. Gillison, Christie, & Lockerbie, 1615 Catharine street, are the builders.

A college will be built at Gettysburg, Pa., under the auspices of the Lutheran church. $25,000 has been raised for that purpose. The building, which will consist of college, chapel and society rooms, will probably be built of brick. No architect has as yet been selected.

The contract for the erection of the new parochial residence of St. Vincent's church, Germantown, has been awarded to Mr. Dougherty, of Philadelphia. Work has been commenced on the building, and it is expected will be ready for occupancy about December 1st.

The Shovel works of B. Rowland & Co., situated at Rowlandville, near Frankford, have been closed indefinitely, and all of the hands have been discharged. This is a bad affair for real estate in that village as it was almost entirely dependent upon the shovel works for support.

A committee has been appointed by the Y. M. C. A. of Germantown to confer with a committee of the Germantown Choral Society with a view to raising funds to erect a large hall on the former's grounds that will be suitable for choral concerts and entertainments of a like character.

The properties numbering 1409, 1411 and 1413 Walnut street have been purchased by the Manufacturers Club for a site for their new club house. The property has a frontage of ninety feet and extends back to Moravian street. Each of these three properties were sold for $50,000, which aggregates to $150,000 for the entire building site.

The Building Committee of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Chestnut Hill have selected the old Gowan mansion, which will be altered and to which will be added dormitories, a library and study. About $25,000 will be expended for these improvements, besides which a professor's house, chapel and additional students' quarters will be added from time to time. An architect has not yet been decided upon, as the improvements will not be made, until the whole of the $25,000 has been collected. Several plans have been submitted, but none has been accepted. It is a fact worthy of note, that the Lutheran Church in making general contracts nearly always reserve the contracts for stained glass windows.

The Bethlehem Presbyterian Church, Broad and Diamond streets, will go on with the extension of their property, at a cost of about $40,000. Part of the church proper will be torn down and a new building, 60x100, of white marble, rock face finish, will be placed there. The church will have three entrances, one at the corner of Broad and Diamond, and one on each of these streets. Both choir and pulpit will be in the north-east end. A handsome and valuable organ will be placed in the church, the old one being transferred to the Sunday-school room. All of the interior wood work will be of cedar. Four large stained glass windows will help to beautify this church, two of them memorials, one by the widow of the late Charles Phillips, the other by Edward J. Karcher, 1606 Chestnut street. The building is to be well ventilated; open fireplaces will be used to assist in this. Steam heat will be supplied throughout. As yet the committee have not decided whether to place electric lights or use gas. The entire church will be refurbished, and the work is being pushed forward so as to be ready for dedication during the Centennial Session of the General Assembly.

Architects' Notes.

Aaron Jacoby, 2918 Richmond st, is about making alterations to his house from sketches by Brian & Godwin.

Thomas P. Lonsdale, 429 Walnut street, has had his plans accepted by the American Life Insurance Co., 4th and Walnut streets. The plans are not fully developed as yet. This building will help to swell the number of high office structures, as it will be eight stories in height. It is to be built of stone. Further particulars as the work progresses. Contracts not let.

Breian & Godwin, 1413 Filbert st, have drawn plans for a frame cottage at Absecon, N. J., for John J. Townsend, postmaster. The house will be 31x60 and cost $3400. By the same architects a frame cottage for J. C. Moore, at North East, Md. This property will be about the same dimensions as the first, and will cost $3000. Both of these houses are under contract, and operations have just commenced.

Hazlehurst & Huckel, architects, 410 Walnut street, report that plans are being prepared for a stone country house in Germantown for Miss Stout. The architecture will be in the colonial style with tower at the side. The inside finish will be of hard wood and all modern conveniences. Also a large hotel situated at Asheville, North Carolina, which is one and one-half miles from Battery Park Hotel, recently completed by the same architects. The hotel will be constructed of brick and frame, and the situation will be 2800 feet above tide water. Everything for the comfort and convenience of guests will be added, among which may be enumerated steam heat, electric lights and elevators. By the same architects a Presbyterian church at Lansdowne, Pa. The drawings are now in course of preparation. Stone will be used in the construction. The church will be built in the gothic style. A Sunday school building will be attached. The bank at Woodbury, N. J., before reported, will be renaissance in style, built of Indiana lime stone. The vault will be built by Farrell & Co. Also the West Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal church alteration on Diamond street, near Nineteenth, two stories of stone with tower feature, will sent in addition eight hundred, and is under the supervision of these gentlemen.

Camden and Vicinity.

Several lots have been purchased at Westville, N. J., from their owner, E. Smith. Purchasers are negotiating with builders for houses to be built during the coming summer at that place. A new house will be built on Railroad avenue, which will belong to Frederick Chapman. A store building will be erected at the corner of Elm and Folsom avenues.

William L. Steel & Son, 234-236 N. Front street, Philadelphia, have been awarded the contract for the new bank at Woodbury, before reported. The amount of the contract is $10,750. Hazlehurst & Huckel are the architects.

Improvements are being made to the Methodist Episcopal Church on Third street, Camden.

Two score of school houses were erected in New Jersey in the summer of 1889, and it is expected that fully that number will be erected this year in various sections of the state. Two properties of this description are now under contract and will be built in Camden at Fifth and York streets. The location of the second has not yet been determined upon. According to the terms of the bid a third school house may be included, the three costing $85,240.

THE PHILADELPHIA

AND

BUILDERS' GUIDE.

[ENTERED AT THE PHILADELPHIA POST OFFICE AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.]

VOL. II.—No. 28.

PRICE 15 CENTS.

The New Real Estate Investment Company.

The Real Estate Investment Company recently organized has purchased the two properties 721 and 723 Walnut Street, and is now making excavations on the rear of both lots with the view of erecting a two story addition for office purposes. The new organization is practically intended to be a Real Estate Broker with a capital of $250,000.

THE MONTH of July has developed a most active trade condition. The architects are as a rule busy. The builders are crowded with contracts. New work is waiting its turn. Alterations and improvements are being made everywhere and will no doubt continue through the winter. Building material is in abundant supply and low in price. Nails are in quite active demand, and some makers are selling at slightly stronger prices, but quotations can be repeated at 2.10 to 2.20. Bar iron is in exceptionally active demand, and mills are better supplied with orders than they have been for months. Roofing material is produced faster than building requirements are taking it, yet there is no weakness in prices. The slate manufacturers have large contracts which they are filling without interruption. The supply of stone from all the old and new sources of quarries is large and steady. Architects are recommending the more general use of stone, and builders and owners are disposed to encourage its farther use. Lumber of all kinds continues in abundant supply. The lake ports are well stocked, and several yards have an abundance of all kinds and sizes. The planing mills have been kept busy, and large orders have been entered for fall supplies during the past week or ten days.

The machinery makers, electric light interests and other interests connected with building are all doing well. Larger boilers are bought for the larger establishments going up. Engines of greater capacity are used; a great deal of old machinery is being taken out to give place to new. Machinery and engine makers have found quite a field for business in inducing steam users to tear out old plants and put in newer and better power. This should have been done years ago.

Our elevator builders are all busy on home and outside work. Hydraulic power is often preferred and greater speed is being sought. Philadelphia is not resting quietly, but is seeking work all over the South and West, and is obtaining its share.

Real estate operations are not attracting quite as much attention as usual. There is more real estate on the market or that could readily be put on the market now than there ever has been. Prices are fair, but many owners believe that in a year or two higher prices will be paid.

The retail trade of this city is at present not only extremely good, but on cool days with many of our stores it equals the best days of fall trade. This is something unusual, for as a rule trade generally ends with the Fourth of July, while this year it seems to have continued unabated except on the exceedingly hot days when prudence has kept the purchasers within doors. A very heavy fall trade is anticipated, and from present indications it will be realized.

THE Mexican Republic is only $150,000,000 in debt, and as it has 12,000,000 inhabitants, the debt amounts to less than $15 per capita.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JULY 18, 1887.

The annual yarn at Atlantic City, concerning an immense hotel that is to be built there, is on its legs again. This time it is J. S. Fish, "real estate agent and capitalist" who is going to build it. There's no good reason why an immense hotel there would not pay.

The manufacturers of Philadelphia are gradually adopting electric lighting in place of gas. The Baldwin Locomotive Works is the latest convert to the system. An electric plant of 2200 16 candle-power lamps and 200 150 candle power lamps, have been arranged for. Philadelphia has done credit to her conservative principles by holding on to gas so long, Western towns and even villages are far ahead of us in this matter.

SUFFICIENT attention is not paid to our culverts. In many instances they are not only choked with a mass of street washings, but owing to imperfect construction emit the most noisome smells frequently contaminating the atmosphere to the annoyance of residents in the vicinity. There is no reason why culverts should not be made as perfect traps to sewers as the most improved traps that are now used in houses of the best class. It is certainly no creditable condition of city affairs that so little effort is made towards securing the best possible protection against sewer gas. Imperfect protection in houses can be remedied by the individual, who is helpless in having an evil so general as the culvert nuisance corrected.

It is mere guess work to attempt to speak of real estate in the future. No one can foresee the cause which may swell the population of this city 30,000 to 40,000 a year. The climax may be reached and the great city come to a stand-still. This is not probable; it is attracting enterprise and capital and it is the home of a multitude of enterprisers that are developing themselves in the south and west. The safest opinion to entertain is that real estate will steadily appreciate in value.

The manufacturing interest are prosperous. The fall trade is opening up most promisingly. Orders are crowding in, margins are just narrow enough to prevent a wild rush into productive channels.

THE offices which are now scattered along a half-dozen streets, and along a half-dozen blocks in each street could be concentrated in a half-dozen immense office buildings such as they have in New York or Chicago. The business interests could be advantageously centralized, and to the saving of rent; that we will arrive there in a few years is evident. We are occupying the parlors, sitting rooms, dining rooms, kitchens and bed-chambers of our father's houses; office buildings would be cheaper, better lighted and in every way more desirable. The start has been made in the two big buildings on Fourth street and in the Drexel enterprise. A half-dozen other large office buildings will soon be under way. The Girard Trust has decided to follow and give Philadelphia a palatial structure at Broad and Chestnut streets, on a lot that cost $560,000; all this is right, the old houses with their cramped bed-room quarters must go. A little figuring will show the advantages of immense buildings over our old style, dingy, ill-ventilated and ill-lighted offices.

THE Water Department wants over $2,000,000 for pumping mains, supply mains, completing reservoirs, etc. It is a question whether this patching is, after all, the best one. Mr. Ogden says the present sources can be relied upon until the year 1910. He further says:

"The investigation of the sources for future supply, now under examination, should be continued, and our inquiry extended to other watersheds. When the stream or streams to be utilized are determined upon, their entire collecting areas should be purchased and be either transformed into a park or allowed to return to their primitive condition as a forest. The water would then be entirely free from objectionable contamination, and the best that could possibly be procured.

"It will not be difficult to show that 230,000-000 gallons can be brought to the city daily by gravity from streams comparatively near, at an elevation sufficient to permit the water to flow into the Belmont reservoir, and reduce to a minimum the quantity required to be raised for the use of Roxborough, Mount Airy and Chestnut Hill."

He recommends that the proposition made to erect an experimental filtering plant be accepted, and that the trial be made at Belmont.

The experiment of forcing air into the water under pressure, according to the report, "has been continued during the year at the Belmont station. The water is charged with 20 per cent. of the volume of air, and the result appears to be the almost complete disappearance of free ammonia and the diminution of nearly 50 per cent. of albuminoid ammonia. There is another result, however, which causes considerable annoyance, and that is the difficulty in preventing the mains from leaking. Joints that are perfectly tight while pumping in the usual way will leak badly when the pipes are charged with air, and when the compressors are stopped the joints resume their former good condition."

According to the report the receipts of the department from all sources were $1,908,733.39, an increase of $101,562.58 above the revenue of last year. The principal increase was in water rent—70,264.75. The expenditures for the year amounted to $565,423.39. The total amount of water pumped was 28,658,966,569 gallons, an increase of 3,493,946,497 over the preceding year. This result was "due to increased facilities for distribution, especially in the manufacturing districts."

The maximum pumpage for one day was in July, 102,202.857, and the minimum, in February, 49,187.598. The daily average for the year was 78,433.289, about 80 gallons per capita, estimating the population at 975,000.

From the Schuylkill there were taken 25,984,827.444 gallons; from the Delaware, 2,357,297.644 gallons, and from the springs of Chestnut Hill, 81,556,446. Twenty-five per cent. of the total pumpage was by water power and the remainder by steam. The total cost of the former, including all repairs, was $2.09 per million gallons raised 100 feet high, and the latter $4.48. The daily consumption per capita has increased, and is now 80 gallons, due, in a great measure, to the laying of additional mains to sections of the city having an inadequate supply.

BUILDERS of shops and factories in Philadelphia are very sensibly using an abundance of fire-proof material. Roofs are more or less fire-proof, floors are built with an eye to safety, walls are built of proper thickness, and in general more care is taken to make our manufacturing quarters what they ought to be. The insurance people say there is a decided improvement in this direction.

Roofing Tiles Made of Paper.

Paper seems to possess no limit to its usefulness. The latest discovery is its advantages as shingles or tiles for roofs. The tiles are made from compressed paper pulp, and are to be used as a substitute for slate. It is claimed that the weight of the paper tile, when compared with slate, is so considerably less that the necessity for the present weighty frame support is avoided, besides which the paper roof possesses a toughness and elasticity not possessed by slate. The paper tile can be as easily nailed to the frame as a wooden shingle; in fact they can be laid much closer than slate, thereby making a more compact and much finer roof. The process of manufacture is simple, yet complete. The mould is first prepared, into which the pulp is pressed, and allowed partially to dry. The crude tiles are then dipped into a solution to harden their fibres and render them water-proof. When thoroughly impregnated, they are dried by baking in an oven heated to a special temperature, then coated with an enameling mixture, upon which is sifted a thin coating of fine sand, colored according to the tint desired, to fire-proof them. They are subjected to heat a second time, and are then ready for use.

A New Method of Treating Coal Dust for Fuel.

A PATENT has recently been asked for a new process by which it is proposed to use the waste coal piles at the mouth of every coal mine, and convert the culm into a sort of gas that can be used as natural gas is used. The culm is to be broken up in pieces and run into a hopper. Out of the hopper it comes in particles, and is fed to an air blast. This blast is broken into different chambers, and in circulating around each chamber the particles of the culm rub against each other, until by the time the last chamber is reached they are reduced to a fine dust that floats around in the air current. When the last air chamber is reached the culm passes through a 1 to mesh and comes out in a dark cloud. It is then fed through pipes, like gas. The particles of coal float in the air, and combine with the oxygen of the air to make a hot fire. The inventor claims that this fuel will make no smoke, but will be all consumed before reaching the smoke stack, owing to its fineness. The invention can be used only on a large scale.

GUNNER'S RUN or the Aramingo Canal as a problem remains unsolved. It seems too hard a nut even for the present city government to crack. Nothing has been done to better its condition, which is even worse than last summer, it has lost none of its former prestige as a stench hole, filled with the vilest mass of fetid stuffs, and emitting the most sickening odors, endangering the health and lives of those who are compelled to breathe the vitiated atmosphere of that vicinity. On the ninth instant a reporter of the REAL ESTATE RECORD traversed the bank of the run from one end to the other. He found it in the worst possible condition. At Cedar and Somerset streets where the Hart Creek Sewer empties into the run, the worst forms of animal and vegetable decomposition as black as ink were visible, at this point the smell is simply unendurable, and disgusting in the extreme.

The canal is nothing more than an open sewer, that drains the filth of that entire section of the city. Our reporter counted the rotten carcasses of seven animals lying in the run between Lehigh avenue and York streets. The department of Public Safety ought to be equal to the necessities of this case, as the worst forms of typhoid and other low fevers must become epidemic in that neighborhood unless the evil is abated.

OLD MAIDS are an institution. Philadelphia has her quota. Some of them are taking revenge on the spirit of progress which is seeking to rehabilitate old Philadelphia. In one instance three old maids were offered a most handsome sum for a very valuable building site on Market street, but refused because they were satisfied with the rents accruing for the half-dozen old brick shanties their father had left them thirty years ago. The property in question could be made to afford four times its present rental.

This is only one instance. There are scores of cases where progress is obstructed by people who ought to be dead, and by the restrictive clauses or wills of people who had an eye single to the glory of their estate.

Market street on some parts of it ought to be ashamed of itself. Old rookeries with a Rip Van Winkleism about them stand year after year while business necessities almost squeeze them out of their place, yet they budge not. Fogysm sits in silence and sneers at progress that is huddling and tramping and twisting all about it for more room. How long O Lord, how long—will the old fogies last.

BAD FOR VERMONT LAWYERS.—The law business in the state of Vermont is reported to be extremely dull. The dockets for the courts of Rutland county, which twenty years ago usually contained from 400 to 500 cases, will not at the coming term show half that number. The Windsor County Court, adjourned recently without date, and the Orange County Court, which adjourned a fortnight ago, tried only four civil cases by jury.

The steel makers have a chance to do some business with Uncle Sam, who wants four cruisers and guns to suit. The old man is getting on his dignity and wants to have some protection for his sea coast cities in case some foreign fourth-class power should take a notion to insult him.

STREET car builders are wanted in Pullman, Illinois. The builders of cars of all kinds and of locomotives and of engines and machinery in general, have an abundance of work. Labor ought to rejoice at the exceptional conditions surrounding it. Wages advance by the pressure from below.

The public land is not all gone yet. There are still 9,000,000 acres in Colorado, 12,000,000 in Arizona, 30,000,000 in California, 49,000,000 in Dakota, 7,000,000 in Florida, 44,000,000 in Idaho, 7,000,000 in Minnesota, 41,000,000 in Utah, 20,000,000 in Washington, and millions of acres in other states and territories.

AN Exchange says: The life of an iron bridge is from 20 to 25 years. After that period crystallization of the iron particles seems to occur and makes its strength doubtful.

Summary of Last Issue.

The weeks preceding and following the Fourth of July were extremely dull ones, for the building and real estate interests towards the latter end of the week were assuming their accustomed aspect for this season of the year. The number of building permits reported in the RECORD of July 11th were 46, against 58 of the week previous, while the number of improvements represented by these 46 permits was 93, against 161 for the former week. None of the auction houses had sales of real estate excepting M. Thomas & Sons, and their sales were only four lots at Brigantine Beach, which sold at $96 each, and two irredeemable ground rents, one for $32 yearly, which sold for $655, and the other for $21 yearly; this one brought $420.

The number of conveyances of real estate was 238, which is a decrease of 41 from the previous report; the total value being $1,435,064.38, of which $275,083.61 represents the mortgage consideration and $1,159,980.77 the cash consideration; to which must be added a further incumbrance of $12,490.35 for ground rents, which, estimated at a 6 per cent. basis, is a further incumbrance of $209.849.

—At Bridgeport, Pa., opposite Norristown, Jas. McQuade is building a large three-story double brick house on Holstein street. Silas Knipe and Wm. P. Hughes are each building a three-story brick house on Bush street, and Frank Paul and John McBride are building two houses at the corner of Ford and Rambo streets.

—The question of a new bank building at Wilmington, Delaware, for the Farmers' Bank of Delaware, has not yet been settled. There will be no change of location, but the Directors are to decide whether a new bank building is to be erected or the old one improved and enlarged.

—Work on Dutton's mill, on the site of the old Forrestdale mills, near Morgan, Chester county, is being pushed along. The new walls are pretty well up and are much larger than before. The building is of stone and will be much more convenient than before.

—John Underwood, of Parkersville (P. O. town), Chester county, Pa., has the contract to build the new Joseph Martin barn, at Chadd's Ford. The barn is to be a very handsome one. Mr. Martin was formerly a member of Philadelphia City Council, and still resides in this city.

—The contract for building the Presbyterian manse, on Broad street, Doylestown, Pa., has been awarded to Abraham G. Overholt, carpenter and builder, of Doylestown township, for the sum of $6,387. Work is to be begun immediately and pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

—The Bryn Mawr Hotel is to be sold. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has resolved to quit the hotel business, as far as possible. It is said that President Roberts proposes hereafter to confine the company to its legitimate pursuits of transporting passengers and freight. The Bryn Mawr is a splendid property, and its sale will afford a rare opportunity for some first-class hotel man to continue the business.

—The buildings on the Harkins' farm, purchased last fall by Peter Caldwell, in Lancaster county, Pa., are undergoing a thorough overhauling. A new barn 60x90 feet has been built, hydraulic apparatus is to be introduced for forcing water up hill to house and barns, a new henry is to be built, and the mansion is to be repaired and painted, Frank Coleman of Kirk's Bridge (not a P. O. town), Lancaster county, Pa.

—The Grangers' picnic promises to have a larger attendance this year than during former years, and to provide for this, a large building, to be known as Assembly Hall, is now in course of erection at Williams' Grove, Carlisle, Cumberland county, Pa. It will have a seating capacity of 5,000 persons, and in case of rain, can be made to shelter at least ten times that number. The work is in charge of the C. V. R. R., and Boss Carpenter Shoemaker says that other improvements are in contemplation which will make the grounds almost complete.

—The firm of Reed & Lovatt, Paterson, N. J., silk manufacturers, of this city, have decided to leave Paterson and locate at Weatherly, Pa., a small town about twelve miles from Mauch Chunk. The town will build a mill for the firm 250x50 feet, of brick, three stories high, and will exempt the firm from taxation for a number of years, as a matter of encouragement for it to locate there. The new mill, which will be ready January 1, will run 5,000 spindles.

—At Chester, Pa., Col. Dyer's handsome residence at Thirteenth and Potter streets, is undergoing alterations and improvements. D. H. McCray has the contract, besides which Mr. McCray is making repairs and alterations to the Pennsylvania Military Academy, and the Rev. H. G. Weston, D. D., president of Crozer Seminary, is improving his commodious residence, situated on Seminary Hill, that place. The new foundry buildings for the Chester Foundry and Machine Company are rapidly advancing, as the brick work is finished, and it is claimed the new foundry will be in active operation before September 1st next.

—The Wilmington, Delaware, Board of Education have postponed the consideration of the question of building an annex to School No. 7, of that city, until the September meeting of the Board. Bids for the building of the annex to School No. 16 were opened, and were as follows: J. R. D. Seeds, $5,550; A. J. Peters, $6,666.66; J. M. Lenderman, $5,689; H. S. Christy, $5,119; W. G. Pierce, $6,048; F. C. Simpson, $5,980; A. S. Reed, $5,475. In these bids the heating was not included; the awarding of the contract was postponed for one week.

—A Building Committee has been appointed to supervise the improvements to be made to the Royersford M. E. Church. The committee consists of L. B. Latsham, B. R. Geissinger, Atmore Loomis, Harry Ayres, W. S. Cusick. Two class rooms, a vestibule and gallery will be added to the church. The interior will be painted and frescoed and new gas fixtures will be put in, new carpet and chairs will be added to the pulpit, new heating apparatus will be placed in the cellar, and concrete pavements will be laid on Church and Alley streets.

—The contract has been let for the building of the new stone school house at Eden, Middletown township, Bucks county, Pa., at the sum of $2,074.

—At Russellville, (P. O. town) Chester Co. Pa., William Hanna's fine double house is nearly completed. Frederick Bicking will build a new dwelling house. H. Clark Jackson has divided a large part of his farm into building lots and is finding ready sale for them.

—Some weeks ago the foundations for the Edward Welles block on Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., were completed, but after that—until yesterday—nothing more was done, except to haul brick and lumber. The delay was caused by the inability of the architect to furnish the working plans. Evidently the working plans for the first story are beginning to arrive, as a few men are at work laying brick. The dilatory architect was not a Wilkes-Barrean but a Scrantonian.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church, Twelfth and Lombard, talk of finding other quarters.

A carriage shed and other improvements are proposed for the Presbyterian Church at Darby. Bromiley & Burns, dyers, at the foot of Orchard Street, Frankford, are building an addition to their factory.

The Almshouse at Germantown previously reported, will probably be built this fall. Chas. Collom is managing the operation.

J. Jacob Shannon & Co., 1744 Market street, want proposals for suitable steam heating apparatus to heat their new store building at the above number and street.

Mt. Holly, N. J., is being agitated over the water supply question. Several offers have been made by prominent citizens to take stock, one man agrees to take at least half of it.

George Hearst, of School Lane, Germantown, is making alterations and a two-story stone and brick addition to a house on the north side of Walnut Lane between Wayne avenue and Green street.

The trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital have paid $40,000 for the lot of ground bounded by Broad, Thirteenth, Ritner and Shunk streets. The new building will be located there.

Nine acres of the Dodd estate located at Old York Road on Cheltenham avenue above the York Road Pike, have been sold to W. F. Snyder, who expects to build a handsome residence ready for occupancy by next spring.

The Vail homestead at Doylestown is being improved. Mr. Albert Vail has removed from Canada, where he was doing business, and will superintend the improvement of his farm, a brick addition will be added. William Heiss is the builder.

M. Dannenbaum of the firm of L. Dannenbaum & Son & Elliott, has purchased the three-story dwelling, 1020 Filbert street, from Bartley Molloy for $8,200. The purchaser proposed for speculation and will hold for the present.

The property located at 1426 Arch street, owned by Samuel Huey, has just been sold for $34,000. The transaction is not yet complete. It is thought that the purchaser will alter the house making it suitable for business purposes.

The new amateur theatre on Twenty-first street, above Chestnut, will be commenced in about a month. Very elegant decorations will be used to make this one of the handsomest theatres in the country. Angus S. Wade is the architect.

Chas. Thomas, living in Holmesburg, has purchased ten acres of land at Collegeville, 23d ward, located on the Bristol Pike opposite the Eleven Mile Road from W. F. Snyder. The price paid was four thousand dollars. Mr. Thomas intends to build in the course of a few months.

John M. Sharp, 1036 South College avenue, will commence to build eleven three-story brick houses between the 16th and 23d of July. Seven will be on the north side of Poplar street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth street and four on the East side of Sixteenth between Poplar and Girard ave. The size of the houses will be 17x69.

Duryea & Childs will build a two-story dwelling and store at Tulip and Unruh streets, Frankford. Wilson Milnor will build a two-story brick stable and shed, 45x90 feet on Margaretta street between Main and Cedar streets, same place. B. F. Erwin will build two-story dwelling on Second street pike below Fox Chase.

The New Market Square Church at Germantown, has been contracted for. John D. Caldwell obtained the contract, Thomas Young will do the stone work and will furnish all the chipped stone and material for the work. Indiana limestone will be used for the ground, work will be commenced as soon as the old building is demolished.

Vincent C. Sweatman has purchased the building located at the Southwest corner of Fifth and Adelphi streets, which belonged to St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal Church. A four-story warehouse and office building will take its place for the Reading Iron Works. $46,000 is the price paid.

The Academy of the Sacred Heart on Walnut street below Broad, have sold their building to Edward T. Steel, President of the Board of Education. The sum paid was $78,000. The Academy will give possession in a year. In the meantime they will erect a new building on the site of the property used as a marble yard at Chestnut and Eighteenth streets.

The Trustees and Building Committee of the Thirteenth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, will go on with their new building at Thirteenth and Vine streets, which was at a standstill until the elevated railroad project should be settled. The plans as drawn by Hazlehurst & Huckel, call for a stone building two stories in height, open timber roof and a large stone tower to the North side, the building will be sixty feet front, ninety feet deep, which will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

David J. Hunter, wood engraver, doing business at 705 Chestnut street, has purchased a lot from the fifty-acre tract at Oak Lane Station on the North Pennsylvania Rail Road. J. T. Jackson, 711 Walnut street, consummated the sale. Mr. Hunter intends building there, probably not until fall. No definite arrangements have yet been made as to the style of building to be put up, but the supposition is that the building will cost from five to ten thousand dollars. In buying land from this tract a stipulation is made in the deed that the cost of the property erected thereon shall not be less than three thousand dollars.

In our issue of May 23d, we stated that the Girard Life Insurance Annuity and Trust Company of 2020 Chestnut street, had purchased several properties on the north side of Chestnut street between Broad and the Mint. Since that time Frank K. Hipple, President of the Company, has been quietly buying up the other properties needed for the site of their proposed building. $270,000 was paid for the properties 1341-1347 Chestnut street, 1349 went for $65,000 and the property on the Northeast corner sold for even money $100,000. Nos. 9 and 11 South Broad sold for $125,000. This makes the building site, which is one hundred feet on each street, worth over five hundred and fifty thousand dollars. In a conversation with William N. Ely, the assistant treasurer of the company, he said the ground floor plans were only as yet made simply to find out how and where to lay out their vaults. The building will not be commenced for at least a year, it is supposed.

C. L. Goehring, 170 Sandusky street, Alleghany City, Pa., has invented a machine to make mouldings in various forms, wave lines, dart points, and in fact, every design can be made from patterns furnished, floor boards are also made in these various styles at a slight cost above the ordinary flooring. The patentee has not yet placed his goods on the market, but has been to several architects to get their opinion as to the likelihood of its being adopted by the trade. Our architects who are looking for something original would do well to write for information.

Architects' Notes.

Chas. W. Bolton, 1510 Chestnut street, has been extremely busy on church work. We give those buildings for which the plans are near completion.

Paul Brandner, 532 Walnut street, has furnished the plans for the alteration and addition to the house of C. Stapf, 4020 Girard avenue, contracts not yet let.

Moses & King, 226 Walnut Street, have completed the plans for the rectory of St. George's Church at the corner of Sixth-third and Haverford avenue. The cost of the building will be when completed, $20,000.

Theophilus P. Chandler is going to Paris to study the Bon Marche of that city. A party or parties will build a store somewhat similar in construction, which will be the largest of the kind in the United States or probably elsewhere.

Will H. Decker, 1407½ Chestnut street, the architect for the large foundry at Thirteenth and Noble, for Godfrey Rebmann & Co., reports that the cost of construction will be $39,600 instead of $30,000, which was contemplated. Henry C. Nichols, 917 Rodman street, is the contractor.

Edwin T. Willis is drawing the plans for Siloam M. E. Parsonage at Paschallville, 27th ward. Mr. Puhl will build on Gray's avenue. Mr. Kershaw will build on the same avenue east of the railroad crossing. Plans by the same architect.

P. A. Welsh, 429 Walnut street, has finished the plans which are now under contract for the Peoples' National Bank of Lancaster, who are about to have a brown stone front with granite trimmings. J. A. Burger is the contractor. The cost will be about $18,000.

Chas. F. Collom, 909 Walnut street, is making several plans for Senator Sutton, 907 Walnut street, who will erect a number of houses at Folsom. There are three houses now ready for the contractors to bid upon. The buildings will be frame and cost from twenty-two to thirty-two hundred dollars each. About fourteen hundred lots have been sold at Folsom out of the three thousand plotted; they range in price from $100 to $300 according to size and location. Mr. Collom also drew the plans for the two houses being erected at Jumbo Park by Friel & Simpson, on South Broad street. They will be built of brown stone with terra cotta trimmings, cost $8,000 each. The size will be 18x70.

The Reformed Episcopal Church at Milton, will be built of brick with brown stone trimmings and two stories high with slate roof. The size of the building will be 50x80. The interior finish will be of hard wood, the seating will be in a semi-circular form, and the capacity will be about six hundred. Handsome stained glass will be used in the windows: steam heat and electric lights are to be introduced. The building will be entirely refurnished. Building when completed will cost $12,000. Mr. Bolton is also building the Presbyterian Church at Duncannon, Pa. This building will be 60x80, to be built of brick with moulded brick trimmings. To the Church will be attached a Sunday-school and class rooms. The entrance will be through the tower at the corner, a porte-cochere will be at the rear. The interior of the building will be extremely handsome, an open timber roof, stained glass windows being some of the particular features. Hot air will be used for heating, and a thorough system of ventilation will be introduced. The church will be entirely refurnished. Mr. Bolton has also been awarded the construction of the Church at Centre Hall, Pa. This church will be of brick. The plans are not sufficiently under way to give further information. The Hope Presbyterian Church at Twenty-third and Wharton will erect a new church from plans by the same architect. Trenton brown stone with Indiana lime stone trimmings will be used. A tower will be placed at the corner while the pulpit will occupy the opposite one. The interior will be handsomely furnished and the heating will be with hot air, and the lighting will be probably gas. Estimated cost $25,000. Mr. Bolton has also had his plans accepted for a brick and frame church at Franklin Grove, Illinois, which will cost $6000.

Paul Brandner, 532 Walnut street, has drawn the plans for John Heller, owner, for a brick bakery and three-story house, at 605 south Sixth street. The property will cost $5,200. The same architect has also made drawings for several houses for P. J. Ritter, 2217 Frankford avenue. One of them is a three-story brick and Mills cost $6,000 the others will be in the same style of architecture, with the addition of stores, and will cost $7,000 each. Frederick Knapp is about to build a three-story furniture factory at 309 south Fifteenth street, under the same architect's plans.

Albert W. Dilkes, 1001 Chestnut Street, has just furnished a set of drawings for a house at Wynnewood, Pa., for Charles Dissel. The contracts have been partially let, but such work as the heating, lighting, mantels and electrical appliances will be attended to by the owner. The stone used in the construction will come from the adjacent Haverford Quarries, and will be rock face in finish and laid in broken range work. The trimmings will be of Wyoming Valley Blue stone and brick.

The roof of the main building will be of slate, but for the roof of the balcony over the dining room copper will be used.

The interior of the house is to be very handsome: tiled floors, hard wood finish, an oaken staircase, speaking tubes and all the sanitary appliances will make this house to be remarked among the already elegant buildings of that locality.

Angus S. Wade, formerly of Willis G. Hale's office, has located at 20 S. Broad street. Mr. Wade has had a number of years experience in his line of work, and has also acted in the capacity of instructor of architecture. As an associate, Mr. J. Harris Reed, formerly of Jackson & Reed, of 804 Walnut street, will work in conjunction with Mr. Wade, who has a large amount of work on hand and several very considerable operations.

A tremendous operation is now in progress in the northwestern section of the city. All of that land recently purchased by P. A. B. Widener and W. L. Elkins, bounded by Twenty-eighth street on the East, Stiles street on the South, Thirtieth street on the West and Master on the North, is to be built up solidly with houses of various designs of architecture by these gentlemen. The operation comprises eight hundred houses. Over two hundred and fifty are now in course of construction.

The size of the houses will range from four to ten rooms. The smaller houses, of course, will be built on the smaller streets. Each row will be different from the others, and no two corners will be alike. Brick, brown stone, and blue marble will be chiefly used, and hard wood will be used in finishing. Hard wood mantels for the parlors, dining and sitting rooms and wardrobes will be placed in the principal chambers, all of the latest and approved sanitary appliances will be used, electric call bells and electroliers are to be placed in the larger dwellings. The houses are being built to sell from $1,600 to $7,500 each.

At the corner of Broad and Stiles streets, Mr. Wm. L. Elkins intends to build a palatial residence which will cost $500,000. It will be built entirely of stone, but in just what form has not been as yet decided upon. There are three competitors who have submitted sketches and plans, Messrs. James H. Windram, Angus S. Wade and a New York firm.

Mr. Wade has furnished the plans for three three-story houses at Ninth and Dickinson streets for John Tunney. They will be of pressed brick, laid in red mortar and trimmed with brown stone. Each house will be 17x46 feet and will probably cost $3,500. The contracts have not been let.

Fifty-three houses are going to be put up at Twenty-fifth street and Ridge avenue for James H. Lyons. These buildings will be both two and three-story houses, and will be erected from brick, with brown stone and white marble as trimmings.

A pair of semi-detached houses at Lancaster for W. D. Rohrer, to cost $3,000 for the pair, brick and frame, will be constructed. The size will be 30x32 feet.

Twelve houses in Norristown are to be erected; these also will be semi-detached and will be built of brick, stone and frame. Their cost will be $600, for the pair.

W. A. Swayne is about to commence a four-story office building, at 34 S. Seventh street. Perth Amboy Pompeian brick will be used for the front, with trimmings of Indiana limestone. Antique oak will also be used for the trimmings; all window sills and the like will be of that material. This same wood will be used for the interior finish of the first floor. The building will be heated by steam and lighted, probably, by electricity. An elevator will also be introduced. The contracts have not been given out.

Mr. George Elkins is re-modeling his house on the west side of Broad street above Girard avenue at a cost of $15,000. Handsome frescoing and decorations combined with mahogany, cyprus, ebony and all of the fine woods will make the ornamentation among the handsomest in the city.

Peter A. B. Widener is making extensive alterations in his house at Chelton Hills purchased from Charles Richardson. A new dining room will be made, extension of the fourth story, addition of a new roof and porte cochere will be made, a laundry separate from the house is to be built, the plumbing is to have a thorough change, and new decorations and furnishings will be added. Operations have just commenced. All of the above mentioned improvements will be made from plans furnished by Mr. Wade.

James McGrath, 1017 Chestnut street, has started on the plans for St. Agatha's school house and parochial buildings.

Camden and Vicinity.

Moses & King, 226 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, have made the drawings for a very handsome dwelling house for Dr. A. E. Street, to be located at the south-east corner of Broadway and Stevens Streets, Camden. The house will cost $15,000.

The contract has been let for the new pier for the Lancaster Iron Works, near Newton Creek.

Thursday afternoon while workmen were engaged in making the alterations on the Third Street M. E. Church, between Bridge avenue and Mickle street, Camden, a heavy marble slab fell and was broken to pieces. Fortunately no one was injured.

Another new house will be built this summer at Collingswood, adjoining Mr. Stokes' property.

Two lots near the station at Delair have been purchased by Mrs. John Matlack, for building purposes.

A frame fire tower will be built at Haddonfield, at a cost of $300.

A high school is to be built at Elizabeth.

Woodbury's building operations are booming. Arthur Terry and Benjamin Thorp are to build on Delaware avenue, and Dr. Flagg is building on Maple avenue. A new residence is being built at the corner of Glover and Logan streets, by W. T. Morris, of Philadelphia. A syndicate is also being formed to construct a horse railway to extend the whole length of Broad street, and from the Court House at Cooper street, to the Griscom farm. Woodbury is becoming quite a city. Water works and electric lights have recently been introduced; a new court house has been built; a large bank is in course of erection, and numerous other valuable improvements have been made within the past year.

VOL. II.—No. 29.

PRICE 15 CENTS.

Huntington Park.

George N. Bell, civil and sanitary engineer, 427 Walnut street, has prepared a plan of improvement of lands lately purchased by Mr. John Wanamaker, lying within Abington township, between the Beneczet and Paul Brook stations, on the Philadelphia and Reading road, about thirteen miles from the depot at Ninth and Green streets.

Huntington Park is the name given to the property, which comprises an extent of land embracing a rolling country interspersed with wood lands, with high hills overlooking the magnificent Huntington Valley, and commanding as fine a view of cultivated landscape as is to be seen in the state of Pennsylvania.

The plan indicates proposed roads to traverse burn down and open up the land to form most desirable country seats. The plan of sub-division is designed to secure the largest advantage of scenery for each of a series of building sites and two or three of the sub-divisions may be desirably combined. With the natural attractions this country possesses, and buildings and garden works designed consistently with the circumstances and with special consideration of establishing no local conditions to contaminate the soil, Huntington Park will possess permanent advantages over the older villa districts outlying the city of Philadelphia.

A NOVELTY to use is a street pavement which has been adopted by the city of Wheeling, W. Va., and which is claimed by the Intelligencer of that city to be, under right conditions, the best yet devised. It is, they state, comparatively cheap, easily and cheaply kept in repair, affords easy hauling to heavy teams, produces no jolting, and will last indefinitely. But they acknowledge that it is of the highest importance that the conditions be right. The brick must be of good material, hard-burned, well laid on a substantial foundation, well coated with tar and gravel.

It is not enough to coat the brick once for all. The coating should be renewed as fast as it wears off, for the wear should be on the coating, not on the surface of the brick. The first consideration is that the brick shall be kept dry and closely bound into a solid mass. Water must be kept from contact with the face of the brick and from finding its way through the interstices into the foundation.

The pavement already laid is in good, almost unimpaired condition, where the coating is still intact. Where the coating is worn off the paving shows wear on the brick, and the longer the exposure the more rapid the wear.

It is suggested that the surface of brick pavement, and as far down between the bricks as the tar will reach, should be kept covered with tar and gravel. If the coating could be renewed so that the brick would never be exposed for any length of time to the weather, the Intelligencer considers the brick pavement would last almost forever.

The Prevention of Fire.

The importance of being always ready and on the watch for fire cannot be too forcibly impressed upon the minds of property-holders, as well as those officials whose duty it is to see to such matters, and it should not be allowed to overshadow the paramount importance of preventing fires. It is as well to be prepared to fight fires as it is plagues, but how much better to employ that caution and prudence which render the chance for such calamities a remote possibility. Take the case of cholera. Should we be satisfied with simply providing skilled physicians, hospitals, and other means for the treatment of the disease? Certainly not, but such a caution should not be overlooked; but to strike at the life of the plague we must endeavor to prevent its introduction into our midst. So with fire. Our first and chief effort should be to prevent its breaking out. To do this successfully not only requires legal and moral restraint, but care in the construction of buildings, the handling of fire, and a thousand other things that come only to the notice of those who preside over the households. The average property-owner has little regard for the safety of his tenants; his ambition is to put up his building with as little cost as possible, get the greatest amount of rent he can squeeze out of his tenants, and let them take their chances of roasting to death in their apartments. Speculative builders second the owner in his efforts, because they can make more money out of a "skin" job of building than they can out of an honest one.

So long as self-interests rule, private citizens have no rights that the average legislator is bound to respect. Add to this the political influence that must be consulted, and it is little wonder that our laws are faulty, or that some of them virtually offer a premium for recklessness and rascality.

Nearly one-third of all fires are caused by incendiarism. These may, at least, in a certain sense be considered unavoidable. All, or nearly all, remaining fires may be looked upon as preventable, being mainly caused by carelessness or by defective building constructions, or by defective heating or lighting arrangements.

Defective flues stand at the head of this list, a fact which I desire to emphasize, as such fires would obviously not occur, if the builder, the architect and the mason would pay proper attention to the construction of chimney flues, and see if all woodwork is kept at a safe distance from, or that no joists are built into the masonry of flues, or worse, left to project in them.

Take almost any block of buildings and we find its cellars and garrets used for purposes which endanger the safety of the whole of the buildings. Wooden pails and boxes filled with ashes, closets full of old paper and rags, and usually a liberal supply of coal oil, and generally a slimsy roof surmounting the whole, and most likely to facilitate the progress of fire.

Only a short time ago one of our prominent merchants informed me that his insurance had been canceled because of the dangerous condition in which the insurance inspector found things upon the upper floors. I would respectfully suggest that some competent person be appointed to look after such matters, and that as far as possible authority be given him to enforce such regulations as will prevent in future such occurrences as alluded to.—Chief Z. T. MERRILL in the Firemen's Herald.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, JULY 25, 1887.

THE supply of brick is sufficient to meet builders' requirements but there is no surplus. Every brick that can be made is sold. Prices are strong but not high. The yards sending their supplies to this city have contracts for their fullest production. Fancy makes are also sold up, and the brick machinery makers and brick makers supply houses are all busy.

THE agencies and dealers in artificial and natural stone doing business in this city have sold more material this year than during any former two years. Taking all the reports and statements received a sharp competition will assert itself next year, because of the large developments made and the facilities employed for increasing the outfit. The near-by quarries have been worked constantly, and labor saving devices have been increased to meet the heavier demands. Marble is also coming into use, but more for interior work than exterior.

THE Philadelphia architects are certainly keeping pace with their brothers East and West in suggesting elegant designs to patrons. They have broken away from too conservative ideas and methods and have entered upon a sort of sort-as-you-please order of architecture. Now let the builders shake off their grand fathers, ideas of primitive simplicity and wake up to the art and architectural and decorative requirements of this age. The architects have taken the right step, but they cannot build houses that will be models of architectural skill and taste, against the wishes of owners. Suburban homes show the departure we are making more pointedly than in the city, because it costs less and does not throw surrounding properties into the back-ground. There is no more reason why a row of house fronts should all be alike than that their owners should all wear side whiskers, or dye them to the same color.

SUBURBAN real estate has been improving, nominally at least, since the opening of the season. The northern section of the city has been greatly benefited. Buyers seem to be taking it for granted that elevated railroad facilities will soon be provided. Let us hope they will not be disappointed. The prejudice against the southern section of the city has disappeared, and whole squares below Federal and west of 19th are being covered. Farther south the builders are covering the wastes with substantial houses, and they are being tenanted about as rapidly as completed. The new villas on the lines of the railroads have done very well. Most of the lot purchasers have bought to build. High prices along the P. R. R. have driven prospective builders to other lines of road. The North Penn has not been forgotten, and dealers interested in real estate along that road are pleased with the past four months business.

REAL ESTATE brokers have been making efforts to purchase old residence properties on some of the streets between Race and Pine. The old city has not seen its best days by any means. The prices paid for several properties within three or four months show that real estate within the boundary of the old city is increasing faster than outside. In fact land is becoming, or rather has become so valuable that it is recognized as bad policy and bad business tact to let the present old structures stand. The recent inquiries made and offers submitted show that numerous transfers of ownership are probable in the next four months. Arch street properties are sought for and so are some Race street properties. On Walnut street below Third there is less room for enterprise, but between Dock and Second the spirit of enterprise could find room for exercise. Third street is at a stand-still, while Fourth street is moving ahead, Fifth street will next feel the crowding of the spirit of progress that is transforming Fourth street. Offices that have been vacant for months and in some cases for years on Walnut street are now occupied, and there is a demand for more.

THE possessors of capital are more confident than they have been for many years that their investments in railroads, manufacturing enterprises, in house building and in various channels of production are safer, and though not more remunerative perhaps, are in the long run more desirable. The era of rapid fortune making is disappearing, and that of legitimate yield to capital, skill and labor at hand. The era of panics and depression, may not have passed but their recurrence is not so imminent. There is a force in production and exchange which tends to equalize returns in proportion to the expenditure of effort; that is the workman, the builder, the architect, the manufacturer, the money lender, are now each securing more nearly what they actually earn than ever before. How to "make money," to "make a pile," to get well placed, to accumulate a fortune and retire are less absorbing topics now than they were a few years ago. The reason is, that productive capacity has been greatly expanded, and if there is not enough for all, it is not because there is not an abundance of productive agencies. This is not a theoretical or abstract question, but an eminently practical question. We have had prosperity in showers, between which hard times swept like a blighting blast. This crowding down of prices to bankruptcy and then ballooning them to the highest speculative limits has done untold damage. Five years of prosperity and five years of depression may suit the speculative element, who prosper in the misfortunes of the masses, but these ups and downs are unnatural. The business world has something to learn, and that is how to regulate supply and demand so that legitimate earnings may accrue to each producer.

REPORTS from many channels of trade show on the whole that business is improving even in midsummer. The returns from railroads show a marked increase over last year in gross and net earnings. Dividends paid show a sufficient improvement to encourage further investments. Less than the usual percentage of properties have gone into the hands of receivers. More railroad mileage than ever is earning fair dividends. In short, wherever we look we discover growing strength, and a disposition to push railroad construction. It would be nothing short of a disaster to the building and real estate interests if railroad construction should be suddenly restricted to four or five thousand miles per year. No such probability is in sight; in fact the published earnings are stimulating investments, especially in the western and southern states, and are stimulating house, shop and mill, besides bank and schoolhouse construction. The iron and steel makers tell the same story of progress. The production this year is not much in excess of last year, which speaks well for the conservative management in that industry. The lumber manufacturers and dealers have been meeting an enormous eastern and western demand at good prices, so good, in fact, that a speculative fever has broken out in the lumber interests for the possession of southern yellow pine lands. The coal producers are several million tons ahead of last year's output at this date. The makers of machinery are oversold and overcrowded, and could run on into the fall without another order, and yet prices are steady. Speculation is almost unknown. Producers feel they are safe, and manufacturing interests crowd ahead, well knowing there are markets ready to absorb every pound, yard, and quart they can produce. Let the gala days continue.

NEW YORK spent nearly $48,000,000 in house-building during the first half of the year. We cannot tell how much Philadelphia has spent, because of our primitive and incomplete legislation on building. Bradstreet's some time ago guessed $20,000,000, probably an overestimate. Western cities are forging ahead. Minneapolis is 20 per cent. ahead. Southern cities are exceeding last year's record, and it now looks as though the last half year would far exceed the first half. Nailmakers, hardware manufacturers and dealers, and lumber dealers are all pleased, and highly pleased, at what they have done, and are wondering if they can push prices up a peg or two. The world is not half properly housed. We are so accustomed to seeing human beings sardined between brick walls that we think it the normal condition of things. But it is not. It was a necessity when cities and towns had walls built around them to keep wandering butchers of human beings from "conquering" them. We live in another age. There is no excuse for this over-crowding. Our progress signifies but little if we cannot abolish this modern evil. Capitalists and builders begin to see there is room for unlimited highly remunerative investments in building houses for wage workers. In many new industrial centres houses are built for workmen, neat, roomy, and attractive. In old cities we cannot easily help things as they are, but in the newer sections the wage workers have houses built for them on terms that make residence there far more desirable than in the over-crowded East. The Architects who have helped to bring about this change by their plans of cheap houses are pushing their efforts earnestly in this direction, under the encouragement given by builders of and investors in small houses.

ATTORNEY AND CLIENT.—In an action of covenant to recover the purchase money of land from the purchaser, wheres the vendor the plaintiff, agreed to give a good title, Held, that the fact that when the plaintiff purchased the title he sustained the relation of attorney to the parties whose property was sold, so as to disqualify him from purchasing in his own right against their interests, renders his title so doubtful that the purchaser from him is not bound to receive it, but may refuse payment.

An attorney cannot buy in at a treasurer's sale, and hold as his own, the land of his client. Under such circumstances it is for the plaintiff to show good title in order to recover the purchase money.

ELLIOT vs. TYLER.

BAILMENT.—Where personal property is in the hands of a bailee, a transfer by bill of sale alone is good and valid, even as against the creditor of the vendor; so held in regard to whiskey in a bonded warehouse, and sold and delivered by certificate and bill of sale.

KEIL vs. HARRIS.
Nov. 15, 1886.

BILLS AND NOTES.—Persons who endorse a note merely for the accommodation of another are sureties for the latter, and any defense which would avail him is available to them when sued on the note.

A surety is allowed to stand upon the rights of his principal.

DEED.—In a deed of land, a reservation as follows: "Excepting the profits of one-half of all the stone, coal, and of all other kinds of mineral which may be discovered at any time hereafter," is a reservation of the corpus of all such coal and mineral in place.

WEAKLAND vs. CUNNINGHAM.
Nov. 1, 1886.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.—A tenant for years is the owner of an estate in the land, and is entitled to compensation for an injury done by a railroad company in the construction of its road. The advantages which the owner of any other estate in the land may derive from the road cannot be deducted from the claim of the tenant for years.

P. & R. R. Co. vs. GETZ.

Oct. 4, 1886.

MORTGAGE.—A purchase by a husband of real estate in which his wife had an interest as heir, with an agreement which is carried out, that the wife's share is to remain in the land and be applied as part of the purchase money, will establish a resulting trust in the wife. Notice of a resulting trust to an attorney examining a title for a party about to take a mortgage, is notice to the mortgagee, and notice at a sheriff's sale is notice to the purchaser, who will take subject to the resulting trust.

FRANK R. SHATTUCK,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 58 S. Third St., Philadelphia.

THE Chicago builders and workmen have created a joint committee to whom is given power to hear and determine all grievances of the members of one organization against members of the other, and of one organization against the other, to determine and fix all working rules governing employer and employee, such as:

1. The minimum rate of wages per hour.
2. The number of hours of work per day.
3. Uniform pay-day.
4. The time of starting and quitting work,
5. The rate to be paid for night and Sunday work, and questions of like nature.

This agreement, it is thought, will prevent the recurrence of strikes in the future.

Summary of Last Issue.

The number of building permits reported on our issue of July 18th was 73, which is 27 more than that of the previous week; the number of improvements represented by these 73 permits is 163 against 93 for the week before. As but one of the auction houses had sales during the week ending July 9th, the amount of sales for that period was merely nominal. The columns of the RECORD for the 18th show that 31 properties were disposed of in this manner, the total value being $169,895, of which $41,875 was mortgaged, and a ground rent consideration of $495, which, estimated at 6 per cent., is a further encumbrance of $8,250. There was an increase of 51 conveyances of property last week over the week previous. The total amount of money represented by these conveyances being $1,314,070.24, of which $559,011.50 was the mortgage consideration, and $3,124 for ground rents which, at a 6 per cent. basis, amounts to $52,066.66. The Real Estate Exchange and Davis & Harvey will have no sales until September.

WHITEWASH has many uses, political and moral (or immoral rather), as well as economic. But as a fire-extinguisher it has not been hitherto generally recognized here. "Do you know," said a scientific gentleman the other day, "that it is next to impossible to burn a whitewashed fence? And do you know further, that in France, to protect the frame and interior of other buildings from fire, the walls, beams, joists, and the underside of floorings are thickly coated with lime wash before they are placed in position? It is so, and if this course, which has prevailed abroad almost from time immemorial, were adopted here, it would save many a house, many a village from destruction." I do not mean to say that it will prevent the spread of a fire once under great headway, but from its un-inflammable character, it is a guard against the prime ignition that often leads to dire results." This little hint set the writer to making inquiry among competent authorities, and full confirmation of the doctor's words was the outcome.—American Analyst.

Papenfusz is building a new residence between Willow and Linden streets, same place.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

A new theatre is talked of in connection with the University of Pennsylvania.

The Parisian Café, on Arch street below Ninth, will undergo extensive repairs.

Mr. Fretz proposes to build a dwelling at Twelfth and Lchigh avenue at some future time.

Ellwood Allen has received a large contract to furnish lumber at the Frankford Arsenal, at Frankford.

William Walton, will erect two two-story brick houses on Mulberry street, above Harrison, Frankford.

Mrs. Eliza O'Brien will erect four two-story houses on Fillmore street, between Main and Willow streets, Frankford.

Broomley & Burns are making an addition to the building on Orchard below Tacony street. When finished it will be four stories in height.

A five-foot sewer is being constructed at Tacony by the Messrs. Disston. It will run through the whole town into the Delaware river.

William J. Ross, 2025 Oakford street, will build four two-story brick houses at the southeast corner of Twenty-first and Oakford streets.

The extensive car works of J. G. Brill & Co., Thirty-first street below Chestnut, will remove to Frankford. The site chosen is that at the Pennsylvania Railroad and Bridge street.

The property No. 926 Arch street is to be altered into a four-story store, with large show windows on the first and second floors. An iron front will also be added. The building is 20x30 feet.

C. F. Hare has bought the property on the north side of Market, 104 feet west of Eleventh street, from Rebecca Collins for $75,000. The size of the lot is 26 feet on Market street and runs to Hunter street, a depth of 180 feet.

William D. Gardner's carriage factory, at the northwest corner of Fifth and Adelpia streets, will have an addition made to it in the shape of a three-story brick building at the west end, which will be 22 feet front by 40 feet deep.

Alfred C. McKeon has purchased a tract of land from Wm. H. Haines, located on the east side of Seventeenth street north of Berks street. The price paid was $4,750. Mr. McKeon expects to commence building operations in a short time.

The Independent Church at Seventh and Dickinson streets has united with the Reformed Episcopal Church at Thirteenth and Tasker streets; their intention is to build a new church on the lot now occupied by the chapel of the Church of the Reconciliation.

Park Commissioner Charles W. Henry has secured a large piece of ground in the neighborhood of Germantown Junction, upon which it is proposed to erect some two or three hundred dwellings. About forty medium-sized dwellings have already been started, each 16x38 feet, on lots 16x60 feet.

A contract has been awarded to the Phoenix Iron Co., for the iron girders to be placed over the boilerhouse and vault in the southeast corner of the Public Buildings court yard. The amount of contract is 8,375.50. The excavations will be made at 94 cents per cubic yard by D. & P. McNichol.

Director Wagner stated before Council's Water Committee on Tuesday that he would re-advertise for bids for the East Park Reservoir. The bidders will be requested to bid first on the floor of the basement, which will have a concrete lining, and the slopes with bricks, and second for concrete to within twenty feet of the top, the balance of bricks.

Contracts were awarded on Friday last by the committee on property of the Board of Education, which amounted to one thousand dollars. These awards were chiefly for repairs to school houses. As the appropriation was less than the lowest bids for altering air ducts in the Warren school, it was decided to re-advertise. Bids for the lavatory of the school of practice were held under advisement.

The Master Builders' Exchange has purchased the German Society's property on Seventh street below Market for $75,000. It is the intention of the Exchange to strengthen the walls and add several stories, and it will be arranged and fitted up and will be connected with a Builders' Exchange National Bank. The leases of the German Society and the Gas Trust do not expire until July of next year.

The Frankford Herald of July 23d, says: The first step in opening up the West end of Frankford for building purposes has been taken. Now that the long and vexatious delay in opening Arrott street, from Leiper to the Asylum turnpike, is about over, we may look for extensive improvements in that portion of the town. A syndicate, composed of Messrs. Raynor Brothers, Albert Foulds, Wm. H. Rushworth and Edward F. Flood, has purchased that part of the Large estate, comprising between thirty and forty acres, lying between Arrott and Harrison streets and Horrocks street and Hartshorne's lane. This includes the woods property, so popular as a resort for Sunday school picnics. It is the intention of the purchasers to lay the land out in building lots and sell the same at reasonable rates. Foulkrod, Harrison, Arrott, Horrocks and other streets will be opened at an early day. This is a good move and will develop a section of country long unproductive.

Four houses will be built on the east side of Van Pelt street, between Berks and Norris; J. M. Pyle & Son are the builders. The size of the buildings will be 14x50. Fourteen, besides these, will be started in a short time.

Elmer Wetzel, 3546 N. Fifteenth street, has just started a Queen Anne cottage three stories high of frame construction. The house will be located at Lawnton, on the North Penn. Railroad; size 53x43.

The Nicetown Baptists will not alter their church and make the addition of Sunday school buildings as previously stated. After considerable discussion, it has been decided to erect an entirely new edifice. The old property has been sold for $14,000. Sketches have only been made for the proposed improvement.

This is only one of the many improvements to be made during the summer by religious bodies. The lot west of the Allegheny Avenue Baptist Church will be purchased by them, and a two-story stone addition will be made to the present chapel.

St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, Front and Norris streets, from plans by T. Frank Miller, is now ready for plastering.

The First German Baptist Church will have the lecture room floor lowered, and an extension will be made so as to use the main floor for a new pulpit platform, open baptistery, and robing rooms. Stained glass windows and circular pews will be introduced. These improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

The specifications for the main building of the Third Baptist Church, Germantown, have been placed in the contractors' hands for proposals.

Some time since Mrs. Gowan and family presented the Episcopal Church at Mount Airy a plot of ground for the erection of a building. The plans have been drawn, but the contracts had not been let on Monday last.

Improvements will be made to the chapel of the Memorial Baptist Church at a cost of $1,500. Alterations and improvements will be made to the Pilgrim Baptist Church.

Architects' Notes.

Stextus C. Pursell, of this city, will build a stone house at Sylvan and Decatur streets, Holmesburg, from plans furnished by Romulo Vasquez, architect residing at that place. This is the same house reported some time since, which was to be built of brick, but the plans have just been altered. The house will be 30 feet front by 60 feet deep. Stone balconies formed of arches in the wall will be a feature. Interior finish of natural wood. The house, when finished, will cost $5,000. Operations will begin next spring.

Dr. Irvin is building on Delaware avenue, Holmesburg. The building, which has just started, will be of frame construction. The doctor will practice in Holmesburg.

F. Frank Miller is finishing sketches for a new church at Germantown, to cost $25,000. The same architect is drawing the plans for two stone and frame cottages of original design at Washington, Pa. Interior finish of hardwood throughout, hot and cold water tank, artesian well, with force and lift pump, and all the city sanitary appliances will be used. Each of the houses will cost $8,000.

Nicholson & Michaelson, 3049 Lancaster avenue, have purchased the Garner carriage factory, Fortieth above Spring Garden street. This property has long been an eyesore to the neighborhood, and its removal will be appreciated by those living in the vicinity. As soon as the work of tearing down, which will be commenced next month, is completed, houses will be erected on Fortieth street and also on Spring Garden street. The lot is a triangular one, the other boundary being Warren street. It is expected that the houses will be the same as those building opposite, which are brick with brown stone trimmings. A drug store will be built at the apex of the triangle. A. F. Gurner is the architect.

Paul Brandner, 532 Walnut street, has drawn the plans for a house for Henry Sauermlich, 2513 Frankford avenue. Haibach & Aucher are the contractors. The same architect has drawn plans for two schoolhouses to be erected at Atlantic City, N. J., one at the corner of Pennsylvania and Arctic avenues, which will be of brick, with stone trimmings, and will cost $20,000. The first row of joists is ready to be laid. George W. Sherman, of Atlantic City, is the builder. The other is the Indiana school-house. This a frame building, and will be altered. Contracts have not been let.

P. A. Welsh, 429 Walnut street, is working on the following plans and pushing them rapidly towards their completion. Mr. Welsh is turning out a great amount of superior work, the office running both day and night.

The new Arcade building at Bellefonte, Pa., owned by the Bush Estate, will embrace eight stories. In the first story will be located the offices; the third floor will be used as lodge and society rooms and public halls. In the rear of the whole will be built the Arcade Opera House, with a seating capacity of one thousand and persons. The buildings will be constructed of brick, terra cotta and stone.

This new operation will occupy the site of the buildings destroyed by fire last winter at a loss of $150,000. A brick and stone house will be built at Williamsport, Pa., for Mr. Larkin, of the State Bank; also a brick and stone house on Water street, at Lock Haven, for Mr. Powers, and a stone and frame house at Upland, Pa., for Col. P. M. Washabaugh. The office for the Germantown Independent is in process of construction. Mr. Welsh is building a number of stores on Arch street near 3d. They will be built of brick and stone, five stories high, with a basement. They are being built for Darby & Sons.

St. Patrick's church will have a lavatory built of brick with cement floors, and all the latest sanitary appliances. The cost will probably reach $1,500. St. Agatha's school is to be built of brick, with brown stone trimmings, lighted by gas and heated with steam. The frontage will be 83 feet, and the depth 140 feet. Neither of these operations is under contract. James McGrath, 1017 Chestnut, is the architect.

The Land Title and Trust Company intend making their building one of the handsomest in the country. The building will be seven stories in height, of polished granite to the third floor, above which will be red terra cotta and brick. Two hydraulic elevators will be built, and a new feature in the way of a letter drop, by which letters may be placed in a box on the first floor from any of the stories. The building will be well supplied with electric lights and burglar alarms. The safe to be used will be manufactured by the Hall Safe & Lock Co. J. E. & A. L. Pennock are the builders, and Wilson Bros., 435 Chestnut street, the architects.

Harrison Albright, 508 Walnut street, has furnished the drawings for a cottage at Atlantic City, which Benjamin H. Shoemaker at 4th and Race streets, proposes either to erect this summer or in the early spring.

Mr. M. E. Bell, Supervising Architect of the Treasury, has resigned. W. A. Freret, of Louisiana, has been appointed in his place by Secretary Fairchild.

Frank Watson, 518 Walnut street, has drawn the plans for a two and a half story stone, frame and shingle Queen Anne cottage for John S. Graver, at Abington. Size 32x43 feet. Contracts not yet let. The same architect has finished the drawings for a Methodist Episcopal Church, Chapel and Parsonage, at Washington, D. C. The structure will be built of Maryland brown stone in Romanesque architecture. Specifications are in the hands of bidders. Also, the extension of a school-house for St. James' Lutheran Church at Third and Columbia ave. The building will be of brick, 40 feet front by 45 feet deep; George Doring is the contractor. Plans for the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary at Sixty-third and Callowhill, are now on the boards. Nothing can be said about these plans except that the church will be of brick, the architecture will be Romanesque. Size 71 feet front by 159 feet deep. Joseph Vanzant's house at Lansdowne, is now under roof. Oberlin Smith of Bridgeton, N. J., is making extensive alterations of stone and frame to his dwelling. Mr. Watson has also drawn the plans for the St. Saviour, generally known as the French Church, at Twenty-second and Delancey Place. The plans as drawn call for a building of brick laid in English bond, with brown stone base and trimmings. The inside will consist of a nave and chancel, organ and vestry rooms. Side walls to be plastered and ceilings to be wood-lined with rafters exposed. Walls to be wainscoted to window-sills. The basement will be used as a Sunday-School room. Hot air furnaces will be used for heating and gas for illuminating purposes.

T. Roney Williamson, 26 Merchants' Exchange, is the architect for the store at 1129 Arch street, for Thomas MacKellar. Rea & Riley are the contractors. The cost will be $28,000.

The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania are building a handsome office building of eight stories high. Brick and brown stone will be used in the construction.

J. A. Campbell is erecting a stone and brick cottage at Merion, Pa., at a cost of $9,000. R. Q. Gibbons, 1706 Delancey Place, is the contractor. The roof is now being put on. Mr. Campbell is also about to build a number of small houses at Ardmore, Pa., ranging in price from $3,500 to $5,000. Contracts not let. P. E. Jeffers, of West Chester, is the contractor for two houses in West Chester for H. F. Wyers. They will cost $3,500 each. F. O. Allen is ready to plaster his house at Chestnut Hill. This house when completed will cost $5,000. A public library building will be erected at West Chester. It will be brick with plaster finish. E. R. & W. H. Griffiths, of that town, are the contractors. $6,000 will be the cost. Wm. Harvey is about to build at Upsal Station a two and a half story stone house with shingle roof. Size 35x50. The contracts have not been let, neither has it been decided as to lighting and heating. A house costing $12,000 is to be built at Grand Rapids, Mich. Cobblestones will be used in the building, as other stones are very difficult to obtain. All of these improvements are from plans made by Mr. Williamson.

Charles Balderston, 212 S. Third street, has finished the drawings for seven three story brick houses with ornamental and Indiana lime stone trimming, for John Mundell, owner. Jno. Gibson, 1322 S. Juniper street, is the builder. Also a pair of frame cottages for Henry J. Scott at Llanwely, Delaware Co., Pa., and a single frame house for Mr. Scott's own residence. All will have latest modern improvements. Also by the same architect, a two and a half story frame house at Haddonfield, N. J., for Samuel A. Bacon. The finish will be of hard wood with latest improvements.

Cope & Stewardson, 212 S. Third street, are the architects for the building being erected at Fifth and Adelphia streets, previously reported. Geo. F. Payne & Co. are the contractors. A feature of the building is that each of the eight large pillars are capable of sustaining 6,000 tons. These same gentlemen are about finishing the plans for a laundry for John R. Fell, at "Camp Hill," near Fort Washington, Pa. The building will consist of a laundry, servants' bath-room, work-shop and man's room. Contracts have not been let.

A party of New York capitalists are starting a park at Buckway, N. J., which is ten miles from Norristown, on the Norris & Essex R. R., also Delaware, Lackawanna & Western R. R. Sixteen houses will be built there at once, from plans furnished by Hazlehurst and Huckel, 400 Walnut street, Philadelphia. No two of these houses will be alike; some will be of stone and others of frame. The contracts have not as yet been given out.

Workmen are busily engaged in moving the old White Horse Tavern, at Second and Kaighn's avenue, Camden. Upon this site will be built the Camden National Bank. Clement P. Remington, one of the gentlemen in the office of G. T. Pearson, 427 Walnut street, is the architect. The building will be 60 feet in the front by 120 feet deep. Brick, brown stone and terra cotta will be used in the construction. Estimated cost is $15,000.

Camden and Vicinity.

Several new houses will be built at Collingswood in a very short time on the land owned by Bailey & Nerrick, of Camden. Mr. Anthony, living on Berkley street above Seventh, Camden, has purchased three lots, and will build a five thousand dollar house immediately.

The selection of the site of the new Federal building in Camden will be delayed by the change made in the Supervising Architect of the Treasury.

Moses & King, 226 Walnut street, Philadelphia, have nearly completed the drawings for a stable for John S. Starr, of Camden. Built of brick with brick trimmings, two stories in height, and an inside finish of hard wood and all the modern appliances, the stable will reflect great credit upon the designers. Probably the cost will run over $5,000. No contracts have been let. The same architects have made the plans for a frame residence at Moorestown for Joseph C. Belton. The contracts have not yet been let. Cost, $3,500. The same gentlemen are at work on a set of plans for two frame cottages at Merchantville. These houses will cost about $5,000 each.

William McNew has the contract for Dr. E. A. Street's new house at Broadway and Stevens streets, which amounts to $12,000, exclusive of the steam heating and electric lighting, as these contracts have not been let.

Charles Sayre has the contract for building a school house at Fifth and York streets, Camden, and one at South and Viola streets, for $11,780 each.

The buildings and machinery of the Loving Sugar Refinery, 225 Church street, was withdrawn from M. Thomas & Sons' sale on Tuesday. $160,000 was the highest bid.

Mr. Thorp is building a frame house at Woodbury, N. J., on Delaware avenue opposite the Episcopal Church. The house will be three stories high with slate roof and heated by steam. Mr. Allen, of Woodbury, is the builder. Two houses at Newbold, N. J. These houses will be two and a half stories high, with all the modern conveniences. Mr. D'Armand, of Beverly, N. J., is making extensive alterations to his residence at that place. The alterations as per the plan will be in the colonial style of architecture. Franklin Reynolds, of Woodbury, is the contractor. Hazlehurst & Huckel, 410 Walnut street, Philadelphia, are the architects.

The Seasoning of Timber.

Timber, when freshly cut, contains from 37 to 48 per cent. of water, the kind, the age, and the season of vegetation governing the percentage. Older wood is generally heavier than young wood, and the weight of wood cut in the active season is greater than that cut in the dormant season. Water in wood is not chemically combined with the fiber, and when exposed to the atmosphere the moisture evaporates. The wood becomes lighter until a certain point is reached in the drying-out process, after which it gains or loses in weight according to the variations in the moisture and temperature of the atmosphere. Following is a table showing the percentage in weight of water in round woods from young trees at different lengths of time after cutting:

Kind of Wood.	6 mo.	12 mo.	18 mo.	24 mo.
Beech	30	23	18	19
Oak	32	26	23	20
Hornbeam	27	23	20	18
Birch	39	29	22	19
Poplar	40	26	17	17
Fir	33	16	15	18
Pine	41	18	15	17

According to these figures, taken from actual trials, there is nothing gained by keeping wood longer than eighteen months, so far as drying or seasoning is concerned. In the woods mentioned there appears to be an actual loss in some and only a slow gain in others after that length of time. The pine, fir and beech gained moisture, and the others in the list lost only very slightly after the eighteen months passed.—The Lumber World.

Recent Decisions in Relation to Matters Concerning Real Estate and Commercial Law.

DECIDED BY THE PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME COURT.

ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS.—A surviving partner may by confession of judgments which bind his individual real estate prefer the creditors of the firm to his individual creditors. Such a preference is not inconsistent with or impaired by his subsequent assignment of all his individual property, real and personal, and the real and personal property of the firm to a trustee for the benefit of creditors. The assignee takes his real estate subject to the lien of the judgments.

CONVERSION.—A will which peremptorily directs a sale of the testator's realty on the death of his wife, and a distribution of the proceeds among his children, for their use during life and subject to their disposal at death, works a conversion of the realty into personalty and vests it absolutely in the children; and where they agree amongst themselves to divide the realty and take it in lieu of the money and execute to each other deeds of their respective purports, they take as purchasers and are vested with the fee.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.—A trust created by deed "for the sale and separate use of A., wife of B., and her heirs" vests in A. an equitable estate in fee simple which becomes absolute at the death of B. The Court of Common Pleas has jurisdiction to decree the trust at an end to order a conveyance by the trustees.

CHADWICK'S APPEAL.
Nov. 15, 1886.

LIEN.—The lien obtained by a creditor who enters a judgment against a vendor after a contract of sale of land has been made to a third person, is analogous to the lien obtained by foreign attachment, or attachment in execution. In the first case the judgment creditor acquires and holds all the rights of the vendor to compel payment of and receive unpaid purchase money. In the last case the attachment creditor acquires and holds all rights of his debtor to compel payment of and receive the debt due him. In both cases the creditor steps into his debtor's place, and takes all his rights to his debt.

RIDDLE vs. BERG.
Nov. 1, 1886.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—Where the vendor on December 15th, 1876, by a written contract "to sell and deed in fee on or before the first day of April next, if purchase money be then paid in full, convey" to the vendee certain land, and by the same contract the vendee agreed "to pay the sum of $15,000 in the following manner: $10,000, in hand and $5,000 on or about the first day of April next, and for which a note of hand is to be given," and at the same time the vendee gave his check for $10,000 and his promissory note for $5,000, payable to the order of the vendor, due April 1st, 1877, and a receipt was written on the contract for a check for $10,000 and a note for $5,000. "when paid in full consideration hereof;" and on January 30th, 1877, the deed for the land was delivered to the vendee, and on February 21st, 1887, the note was endorsed and transferred to a bank for value, it not appearing that the bank had any notice or knowledge respecting the consideration of the note, or that the maker had any defense against a payment of it, and the note was paid at the time of its maturity, the maker having no actual knowledge or notice that the judgment had been entered against his vendor, held that the vendee upon payment of the note held the land free of any lien of the judgment.

Only fifty years ago, says Sir Spencer Wells, the average duration of human life in Great Britain was 30 years; to-day, according to statistics, it is 49 years. In this fifty years the population has increased by 8,000,000. At least two out of these 8,000,000 of increase may be put down as the fruit of improved sanitary and medical work, and of victory over preventable sickness.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 1, 1887.

THE one seaman of the steamship Santiago de Cuba, who very sensibly refused to submit his person to the pleasant process of vaccination, and who in consequence has been incarcerated in prison by the direction of the Board of Health, must have an extremely exalted opinion of American liberty. A stranger to our shores, a man in perfect health, with no doubt an opinion of his own as to vaccination and a still stronger regard for the sacredness of his person, is ordered to be imprisoned indefinitely and is placed on a plane with the worst type of criminals because he refuses to submit to a disgusting operation when there is not a shadow of reason for it. If an American was thus shamefully treated in a Spanish port the American press would howl with indignation, but the present outrage perpetrated in the very homes of American liberty has not even called forth a passing comment.

A MAN who cannot read and write, and who cannot divide 217 by 24, is not fit to hold a public office of any kind, notwithstanding Director Stokley's disposition to ridicule competitive examination under the requirements of the new charter. Some simple standard of superiority must be established, and it is all nonsense to argue that the man who can read and write—everything else being equal—is not better qualified for public position than the man whose mental calibre is so small that he has never been able to master even the science of letters.

That white male person who has shuffled through the world until he finds himself big enough and old enough to become a policeman without having experienced sufficient mental vigor to create within him a desire to learn to read and write, is not, no matter what else he may be fit for, entitled to preferment for political place while men of larger mental grasp are available.

THE new Supervising Architect, William A. Freret, comes to his position well recommended by Senators Gibson and Eustis, of Louisiana, and a number of eminent people in the same state. Mr. Freret, who was born at New Orleans in 1833, was educated in that city and Baton Rouge, and was a pupil of the well known civil engineer, John Communy. While still a young man, he established for himself a high reputation as an architect in his native city. Most of the iron-front stores on Canal street are from his designs, besides many fine buildings elsewhere, among which are the University building of Louisiana at Alexandria, destroyed during the war, and that of the Alabama University at Tuscaloosa, recently finished. The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "No man has contributed more to adorn and beautify his native city. Many of our handsomest churches and fifteen of the magnificent McDonogh school-houses, each a separate creation of his architectural art, bear witness to his taste and capacity as an architect. The Touro Synagogue, the Denegre Building, adjoining the Cotton Exchange, and many other of the handsome and imposing structures in this and the adjoining States, demonstrate his superior skill and talents, and by accomplished deeds guarantee his high qualifications for the important and responsible place of Supervising Architect.

A New Land Operation in the 23rd Ward.

It is seldom that a tract of land within easy access of the busy marts of a city is so richly endowed as the land now owned by the Pleasant Hill Land Association.

Nature has bestowed her full treasures on this spot, the combination of its natural advantages being such as is seldom seen.

The Delaware River is the boundary on the northeast, Bristol turnpike on the southwest, and the New Jersey Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad runs almost through its centre.

The entire tract contains about 195 acres, and by the way the railroad intersects it the most distant lot from the station will be only a few minutes walk.

All of the land lies high and there will not be a waste lot in the entire tract.

Pearson's Station is immediately at the property, and the numerous trains each way make it accessible at all reasonable hours. It can be reached either from the Broad Street Station or from Kensington (Broad and Norris), and is a ride of about thirty-five minutes. As the place was formerly an old country seat, shade forest trees are scattered over the land, which has a very gentle slope from the turnpike to the river shore, which is on a bluff about seven feet above the water line, thus creating a natural drain direct to the river.

The river boats now run to Torresdale landing, which is but a short walk from this property. Torresdale immediately adjoins it to the northeast, and Holmesburg lies to the southwest about one and a half miles.

The neighborhood is not a crude or a new one, but cultivated and improved with churches, schools and good stores, within easy walking distance. The entire locality is free from malarious or other obnoxious influences and is signally healthy.

In due time the Association will lay out the streets according to its plans, which are now being prepared.

Each lot will be accessible, and it is proposed to lay aside certain plots for public parks and make other contemplated improvements. Each lot will be 25x100 feet, and will be sold at the uniform rate of $105, and subscribers to more than one lot have the privilege of their lots being contiguous, if so desired, provided they do not elect to take more than four together. The reason for this will be obvious, as it is the intention of the Association that no partiality or preference be shown any subscriber, to the detriment of another.

The lots will all be drawn for by a committee selected by the subscribers. No premiums will be charged, and they pay $105 for each lot, $5.00 at the time of subscription and $4 per month until the remaining $100 is paid. In the meantime the Association pays the taxes.

IN ANOTHER column is given an account of the Ladies' Repository making a change in their place of business, and we are glad that they have the money to purchase a property of their own.

The Ladies' Repository cannot be called a charity, because it is merely a salesroom where persons can deposit the work of skillful hands, and where such deposits are bought and paid for at market value. This plan was put in operation to aid those who had been reduced in circumstances and yet retained a knowledge of making beautiful and useful articles of various descriptions, and which by selling them would prove a means of helping them solve the problem of living. It is a pity that an object of this kind should not be more liberally patronized, as it would relieve a number of men and women from putting their hands in their pockets and throwing a semblance of charity over what ought to be a commercial success.

WHEN workmen singly or collectively assume the right to dictate as to who shall or who shall not be allowed to work, they make a bold declaration in favor of the worst form of anarchy.

The present strike of the stone cutters of this city is based entirely upon this proposition; there is not even the shadow of a grievance, except that non-union men were employed in some of the yards contrary to the wishes of the seemingly all-powerful walking delegates. The men were receiving $3.50 per day of nine hours, and until the strike was ordered, they were not only contented, but were reaping a full harvest from the building boom, and were little interested as to whether their neighbor was a union man or not.

The abuse as well as the use of the power vested in the leaders of the trade union organizations of this country is really becoming a serious question. The principle of protection under which these organizations was started seems to have been succeeded by a ravenous spirit of aggression which intends personal ostracism and personal injury to all workmen who refuse to adopt the trade union methods of barbarous exclusion and starvation to non-unionists. The right to work is God-given, and any interference with this right should call forth the indignation of the people at all times, but in this case the greater harm falls upon the unionists themselves, as the non-union men have had uninterrupted work, while the former have been for weeks enjoying enforced idleness through a senseless strike ordered by a stupid walking delegate.

A Strong Letter from the Secretary of the Master Stone Cutters' Association.

OFFICE ATKINSON & MYHLERTZ,
22d St. below Market.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 27th, 1887.

To the Editor of the Real Estate Record,

DEAR SIR:—As Secretary of the Master Stone Cutters' Association, I desire to call attention to the condition of the stone trade in this city owing to senseless strikes. About eight weeks ago the Union known as the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union ordered all of their men out of the stone yards and gave as a reason that they were not to work with any men not members of their Union. The great majority of these men had no grievances and were perfectly satisfied with the wages they were getting, Union wages, $3.50 per day of nine (9) hours. These men are, as in almost every case, controlled by a few walking delegates, who draw full pay from the Union. The Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union are out simply to maintain a principle directly in opposition to that of this country—the right of the individual to work or not to work, when or where he pleases and with whom he pleases. The result of the strike is to stop building operations, and architects are forced to accept other building material, as shown in the Girard estate stores, Twelfth and Market streets, where more than $100,000 worth of stone was stricken out and terra cotta substituted.

In direct contrast to the Union already mentioned, the more intelligent and far-seeing men have organized The Progressive Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union, the principles of which are far more in accordance with equal rights. They favor arbitration, the yearly scale of wages, and a feeling of mutual interest with their employers. The Masters Stone Cutters' Association have endorsed the principles of the latter association, and are fully in accord with them. The Progressive Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union do not require that any man shall belong to their body. They recognize individual right and are willing to work side by side with any man. We also employ men, Union or Non-union, not asking the question.

We would be obliged if you would take some notice of this in your paper, and show the folly of the course the strikers are pursuing.

Yours respectfully,

FRED. F. MYHLERTZ.
Sec. Master Stone Cutters' Association.

THERE is something almost approaching absurdity in the thought that the much vaunted and glorious liberty of our country has shrunk to the little measure of allowing a portion of the community the privilege of drinking an unlimited quantity of beer on Sunday.

O, spirit of Thomas Jefferson! Was it for this you toiled? Is the Declaration of Independence an instrument having for its chief desideratum the right of man to do as he pleases? No! a thousand times no! and that is indeed a much warped and wholly illogical mind that cannot recognize the line of demarcation where liberty and freedom end, and license begins; between a wise enforcement of laws necessary for the moral health of the community, and a Pharisaical observance of the Sabbath day, that by its very restrictions engenders hypocrisy and leads to a re-action, just as inevitably as the profligacy of the times of Charles II. followed the austerity of the Protectorate; but the effort on the part of some to make our Sunday like that of Continental Europe, is a scheme that deserves to be nipped in the bud at once. Our form of government, the genius of our institutions, the disposition of our native-born population are all inimical to such an importation, and to those who enjoy and advocate a Continental Sunday under the specious guise of personal liberty, there belongs the undisputed privilege of seeking it where it belongs, and among those "to the manner born." It is safe to say, however, that not one of these ardent advocates of this "go as you please doctrine," would for a moment entertain the thought of becoming a citizen of any such country, or of subjecting his person and possessions to the rigid military and civil enactments of the governments under which such laxity in the observance of the Sabbath prevails. At this time the humblest citizen of Philadelphia has absolutely no tangible reason to complain of the curtailment of any of his privileges. With a park containing some thousands of acres, fairly accessible, and where all the necessary creature comforts may be obtained, with music, with boats on both rivers, with unsurpassed facilities as to speed and cheapness for reaching the sea shore, with art galleries, and many other privileges, that man must be beyond the power of pleasing who is not willing to forego his glass of beer one day in seven and substitute "honest water, which ne'er left man 't' the mire." That a paper with the prestige of the "Philadelphia Record," whose proprietor has no apparent political axe to grind, should become the champion of such a retrograde movement, is certainly unfortunate. Unfortunate because with its immense circulation it must necessarily reach a large class of people, who, having neither the time nor the inclination to think for themselves, depend wholly upon the utterances of the press. To this class the injury of such a course of reasoning as that employed by the Record is incalculable, inclining them to be dissatisfied, irritable, and disposed to resent even proper restrictions from an absurd notion that their personal liberty, their "certain unalienable rights," are being interfered with. The Record is lamentably blind to the fact that the honorable position our country occupies to-day is largely due to the so-called "dyspeptic purists." They may have turned a somewhat narrow furrow—compared with our ideas of to-day—but they ploughed deep, and what they planted contained the elements of growth and expansion, and to them and to their followers belongs more or less of the credit of making our country attractive to the very class that would now graft upon her customs that cannot fail to be injurious. As to "the itching individual who looks upon nature as dress when combined with the hum of happy voices," it is true that in every case there are a few extremists who believe it impossible to have too much of a good thing; but it is just as unreasonable to make these few fanatics represent the whole body of liberal, temperate, order-loving people, to subject them and their principles to senseless and illogical abuse, as it would be to maintain that there is no good money, because some arrant knave has passed its counterfeit. We would, however, respectfully suggest to one who believes that beer drinking in some occult manner, opens the eyes to the beauties of nature, or attunes the heart to the concord of sweet sounds, to drop his quill for a brief space of time, and to visit one or more of our public squares and there behold how beer "holds the mirror up to nature." The magnificent imagination of a Munchausen would never enable him to conceive that the book of nature is anything but a sealed volume to the bleary-eyed denizen of the saloon there found, or that the harmony of nature could ever penetrate the dull and sodden wall of flesh to reach the almost obliterated divinity within.

In our issue of the 18th instant appeared an editorial which has opened the door for a general discussion upon Aramingo creek. A reader sends us the following letter:

EDITOR OF RECORD AND GUIDE:

In looking over the article in your edition of July 18th, 1887, I see you make mention of Gunner's Run, or Aramingo Canal, as a problem yet unsolved. There is a rumor that this canal belongs to a private corporation. Is there any truth in this or does it belong to the city? No doubt this is the cause of its being unsolved, and if this was settled there would be some way of solving the question of it being a nuisance.

Yours respectfully,

G. M. R.

The writer of this letter is wrong in his surmise that the cause for the maintenance of this nuisance is its ownership by a company. About forty years ago a canal company was formed whose purpose it was to run from the Delaware river, following the line of the creek until it came to where the Richmond railway crosses Cedar street, in Kensington, and then on in a north-easterly direction until it ran into the Frankford creek. But this scheme died a natural death, as the cost would have been enormous; every street would have had to be bridged, together with other incidental expenditures.

A digest of the laws and ordinances relating to the city of Philadelphia, in force in 1868, says on page 383, "That so much of the Aramingo Canal as shall be made navigable by the owners bordering thereon, is hereby declared to be a public highway, subject to the construction and use thereof, to the control and regulation of the board of wardens under the ordinances of the city of Philadelphia. Provided, that property owners whose land borders on said creek shall be at all the expenses of digging out and wharfing the same, and that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to put the city of Philadelphia to any expense or outlay of money."

About six months ago Councils passed an ordinance stating that Aramingo creek, anciently called Gunner's Run, should be vacated as a canal and used as a street. As yet no money has been appropriated for this purpose, although the surveying department has been at work making plans, so as to be ready when the funds are forthcoming.

The creek as it now stands is a navigable canal, subject to the board of health and port wardens.

The project at present is to convert the creek into a public highway. But this is more difficult than one would imagine. The ground lying between Trenton avenue and Belgrade street is extremely low and is most generally covered with water. To remedy this a large sewer will be built starting at Frankford avenue and running into the river. This will help matters wonderfully, but will not entirely obviate the nuisance.

Before this can be done an entirely new system of sewerage must be introduced so as to carry the storm water off as rapidly as collected.

As the territory to be drained is about two miles in length and one in width, the cost to the city will be in round numbers one million dollars. Nor can the work be done all at once; this will take time, and can only be accomplished by patient effort.

Great is this problem that Councils have to grapple, but they must look it in the face squarely and they, and only they can solve it.

Boston had the same trouble with her low ground. Time and money placed her where she is to-day. Cohocksink creek was in the same condition as Aramingo creek is to-day. The city wished to make a street of it, but property owners on both sides of this stream refused to allow it to be closed until about three years ago the sewage and decaying matter becoming so unbearable, the city was allowed to turn it into a highway after a quarter of a century's delay. It is to be sincerely hoped that the Aramingo canal will not be subjected to the same delay.

It is often very important to prevent the deterioration of ropes used in erecting scaffolds which are to remain up some time, and especially in places where the atmosphere is more than usually liable to attack the hemp. It has been recommended to soak the very dry ropes in a bath containing ninety grains of sulphate of copper per gallon of water, allowing them to remain three or four days, afterward drying them. This treatment protects them as well against the attacks of insects. The copper may be fixed either by a coating of tar or by a solution of soap in water. For tarring the ropes, it is preferable to pass them through a bath of boiling tar, then draw them through a ring, which compresses them, to extract the excess of tar, afterward hanging them up to dry. In the other process the ropes are soaked in a solution of soap in water, containing 450 grains of soap to one gallon of water. The salt of copper which forms in the fibres preserves them better than the tar, the action of which is merely mechanical.

—Building.

Preservation of Wooden Poles.

A simple method of treating wood with preservative solutions is employed in Norway for telegraph poles. After the poles are set in place a man goes from one to another with an auger, with which he bores a hole in each post, beginning at a point about two feet above the ground, and boring obliquely downward, at as small an angle as possible with the axis of the post, until the point of the auger reaches the centre of the stick. The auger hole should be an inch in diameter, and, in telegraph poles of the ordinary size, will hold easily four to five ounces of sulphate of copper, which is put into it in the form of coarsely powdered crystals, and the opening then stopped with the plug, the end of which is left projecting as a handle, so that it can be pulled out and replaced. It is found that the crystals of copper sulphate disappear slowly, so that every three or four months the charge must be renewed; while the wood, both above and below the auger hole, even to the very top of the pole, gradually assumes the greenish tint due to the presence of copper in the pores.—American Merchant.

—After a delay first of several weeks for brick, and then for masons for a like period, work will be resumed on the proposed handsome house of Mr. John Jacobs, on Broad and Fourth streets, Lansdale, Pa.

—The new and extensive addition to Haverford college, designed as a preparatory department, is being pushed with the view of having it completed during the early fall. The addition will really be larger than the original college building.

—Emil Holl, of Media, Delaware Co., Pa., has bought forty feet of the Charter House lot, on the corner of State and Orange streets. The price paid was $5,000, and his intention is to build a large store in which to carry on his jewelry trade.

—The committee appointed to obtain a suitable location, on which to build a new market house in the southern section of the city of Lancaster, Pa., has selected the Lamb Hotel, Fourth Ward Hotel and the Brock properties. Work will be begun at an early date.

—Brown's Mills, the very favorably known health resort in Burlington Co., N. J., expects quite a building boom sometime in the near future. George G. Green, the Woodbury millionaire medicine man, is said to be the prime mover of a syndicate of gentlemen that has purchased the above-named resort, with the intention of building a railroad to the Mills, and also to erect a large hotel and a number of beautiful cottages.

—The Kent County (Md.) Agricultural Association will shortly begin the erection of a new exhibition hall on their fair grounds at Worton Station. The building will be 72x32 feet, two stories, with 10 foot ceiling to first story and 15 foot ceiling to second story.

—Emporium, Pa., has been selected by the Cameron Iron and Coal Company as the location for its furnaces. Contracts have been made for the work and material for the first furnace, which will be soon followed by three more. Rolling mills and other buildings are to be erected.

—A new school house for the St. Joseph's R. C. church is to be erected at Reading, Pa. John H. Rhoads, real estate agent at that place, has sold a tract of land east side of Mop street, between Robeson and Marion streets, 100 by 120 feet, to Father Coghlan for $1660, on which the school will be built.

—The Reading Artillerists, who purchased the old Metropolitan Rink on South Fifth street, Reading, Pa., for an armory, will commence improving the building at once. A new front will be put in, which will be two stories in height, and the quarters for the officers will be located in the front part of the building.

—The Moravian congregation of Bethlehem, Pa., has sold a tract of one hundred and eleven acres of land situated at South Bethlehem, within a few squares of the Bethlehem Iron Company's plant. The tract will be laid out in building lots. The purchasers are a syndicate composed of Ex-State Senator J. S. Hess, of Hellertown; State Senator P. S. Bachman, of Freemansburg; H. A. Doster and Robert Peyser, of Bethlehem, and H. E. Foster, a New York capitalist. The price paid was $12,000.

—The subject of erecting canneries at various points in the south is exciting considerable attention. A company has been formed at Mount Pleasant, opposite Charleston, a board of directors elected and J. H. Patjen, a leading grocer of the town, has been chosen president of the organization. There is also some talk of establishing a large oyster cannery at Bull's Bay, where the supply of oysters is said to be practically inexhaustible. Two canneries in Florida for canning fish, vegetables and oysters are expected to be in full operation by the coming winter.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

The Methodists have raised $1,000 for their proposed hospital at Bustleton, 23d Ward.

Amos Toy is building a frame house on Montague street, Holmesburg.

George W. Crans, Frankford, will build a lively stable on Thomas street, that place.

Mr. Main is about to build a frame house at "Cottagedale," Bustleton, Philadelphia. The contracts are let.

C. R. Truitt, Jr., real estate and mortgage broker, has removed his office from 418 to 419 Walnut street.

John Kramer, contractor, is putting up a three-story brewery, for Jos. Regar, at Cadwalader street above Columbia avenue.

Miss Ann Chew, of Germantown, will build a house on Morton street, that place, for her gardener. A. S. Tourison has been given the contract.

J. G. Stauffer, at Quakertown, Pa., is erecting a building to be used as a blacking factory. Mr. Stauffer is engaged in the printing business at that place.

Excavations for the new Market Square Church, at Germantown, are being pushed. It is expected that the corner stone will be laid in August.

Mr. Bartol, of Philadelphia, who owns the Wallace property at West Chester, Pa., has contracted with G. T. Guthrie, builder, to erect a new house, barn and sheep stables and to repair the old house.

The Rev. Thomas C. Pearson is building a brick and frame cottage at Bluegrass Station, on the Bustleton branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A frame stable is also being erected on the same lot.

On August 4th George Mander, of Oak Lane, will commence five two-story dwellings on the east side of Twelfth street between Somerset and Cambria streets. Four of them will be 14x48 and the other 15x48.

It has been estimated that the aggregate cost of the buildings that will be erected this year will be $700,000,000, and that there are 2,000,000 engaged in the building trades in the United States, and also that the conveyances of real property will amount to $200,000,000.

Chas. W. Henry will build from two to three hundred dwellings within a short time; the location is Germantown Junction. The houses will vary in size, some being two and three stories containing respectfully six and eight rooms.

Gibson, DeKoskeno & Co are contemplating the erection of a five-story factory on Hamilton street West of Eighteenth street. The building will have a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 115 feet. Plans are now in contractors' hands.

Shuman & Lynch have bought the property known as the Gillender Glass Works, at Tacony, recently purchased by the Messrs. Disston. The works will be used as an iron foundry, and large back additions and buildings will be built as soon as the new firm get fairly under way.

Fifty acres of the Large estate have been purchased by a number of gentlemen of the Twenty-third Ward. The land so purchased runs from Fifty-acre lane eastward to the Hancock's property, and northward from Arrot to Harrison streets. All of this tract will be cut up into building lots as soon as streets can be opened and graded.

The building at 723 Sansom street will be torn down at once and a new one will be erected in its place, of brick and stone, five stories high; the size will be 22x93. Steam heating and probably electric lighting will be used. Eastman & Brothers, manufacturers of perfumery have a five-years lease on the building from January 1st, 1888.

John Wanamaker's home for his female employees, at Broad and Brown streets, will be ready for occupancy by the latter part of October. A four-story addition has been built to the brownstone mansion facing on Broad street, which will contain seventy-four rooms, 8x12 feet each. A gymnasium and swimming tank will be among the attractions.

Mr. Ball, of Frankford; Mr. Benson, of Fox Chase, and Mr. J. Donald Marshall, of this city, have formed a syndicate and have purchased the property known as the old picnic woods, at Bustleton, which they intend to improve and sell as building sites. Mr. John Fisher is building a frame cottage there. The cottage on the Barnes tract, Bustleton, is nearly completed.

The Large estate, on the Asylum pike, above Orthodox street, comprising between thirty and forty acres, which includes Large's woods on Fifty-acre Lane, has been purchased by a syndicate composed of Messrs. Raynor Bros., Albert Foulds, William Rushworth and Edward Flood. It is stated that the purchasers intend laying out the whole plot in building lots of large size and suitable for the better class of residences; also that all streets are to be not less than fifty feet wide.

The Ladies' Depository, at 1024 Walnut street, will remove to 1108 Walnut street, a property which has been purchased for $28,000, with money that has been left to this association. It is the intention of the Board of Managers to alter the front, however; it will not be like a store front, but somewhat on the order of a private house. Then the interior will undergo some repairs, and a lunch room will be opened. It is their purpose to extend their business and place the association on a paying basis.

The Chicago News says: "Paper doors are coming into use, and, as compared with those of wood, possess the advantage of neither shrinking, swelling, cracking nor warping. They are formed of two thick paper boards, stamped and moulded into panels, and glazed together with glue and potash and then rolled through heavy rollers. After being covered with a waterproof coating and then with one that is fireproof, they are painted, varnished and hung in the usual way.

The building of the B. & O. tunnel on Twenty-fifth street, has greatly damaged St. Francis Xavier's Roman Catholic Church, at Twenty-fifth and Biddle streets. The culvert throws water into the basement of the church; and the blasting so shook the foundations as to make the building positively unsafe. The congregation has brought suit against both the city and the railroad company.

Wendell & Smith, 218 North Thirty-second street, are just finishing the last two of their eighteen houses at Haverford, and all are sold but two. Those at Thirty-sixth and Fairmount ave., built as far as the second row of joists; they will be two stories high, contain seven rooms and will sell from $2750 to $3000. The same builders have finished fourteen two-story houses for Mr. Skelly on Thirty-sixth below Fairmount avenue, on the site of the old St. Agatha Church.

George Peterson, A. H. Perkinpine, George Deacon, P. Kems and L. S. Holloway have purchased the large iron foundry of Stewart Peterson, at Broad and Noble streets. The price paid was $137,000 half of which will remain on mortgage. The ground has a frontage of 300 feet on Noble street and a depth of 185 1/2 feet on Hamilton street.

A deed bearing date the 19th day of July, transferring fifty-two pieces of property has just been placed on record. The deed is from John Wanamaker and Mary B. his wife to Charles F. Hazletine, 1516 Chestnut street for the consideration of $129,164.36.

Among the properties transferred is the building No. 109 Walnut street, the house and on the east side of Broad street, 150 feet south of Jefferson, and that on the south side of Market street, 41 feet east of Twenty-first. Most of the properties, however, are in the lower section of the city, on Bainbridge, Christian and Catharine streets, in the vicinity of Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth streets, and on Gray's Ferry road near Christian. There are also some houses on Eighth street, below Norris, Juniata avenue, Germantown, and Clifton street, in the extreme northern section of the city.

Another big building operation is about to commence at Wayne Station on the Pennsylvania Rail Road. What is called the North side is where the improvement will be made; the land will be divided into fifty-three lots upon which will be erected from thirty-five to forty houses of various kinds; ten of these will be started this summer, four to be built of stone and will sell for $6500. The ground near Wayne avenue unit for building will be made into a public park; a new street will be opened to be called Bouvier avenue, which is to be sixty feet wide. Where this avenue runs into Wayne avenue the width will be increased to two-hundred feet, in the centre of which is to be placed an immense rockery. The low ground will be utilized as a pond, having its outlet over a waterfall. Mr. Childs is working in conjunction with Wendell & Smith, in making these improvements. As yet no architect has been chosen and anything in the way of a new idea is always gladly welcomed.

Architects' Notes.

Architect George Plowman, 1017 Chestnut street, will not be able to complete the Betz & Shoenberg Opera House, Broad and Montgomery avenue, so as to be ready for business by the second week in August. Mr. Plowman has done everything possible to advance the work but a serious delay was caused by striking a number of springs in digging the foundations.

Sealed plans and accompanying proposals detailed specifications are invited and will be received until September 1st, for a Roman Catholic Church to be erected at New Iberia, La. The same shall be either a brick or a frame structure; the church to have a seating capacity independent of aisles, chancel and organ loft of 800 or 900. Cost of church not to exceed $25,000. If plans are accepted $150 will be payable for them, for further particulars apply to Rev. Father Jacquet, P. O. Box 82, New Iberia, La.

T. P. Chandler, jr., 302 Walnut street, is the architect for the house being erected at Chestnut Hill by I. S. Jenks.

Will H. Decker, 1407 1/2 Chestnut street, is preparing plans for an office building for F. A. Poth Brewing Company. The building will be of brick with stone trimmings and cost about $12,000 when completed. The building will be done by the company's own men. Mr. Decker is also making plans for the alteration of the house 629 Marshall street, this is not under contract; proposed cost is $2000.

A letter from B. L. Agnew, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Broad and Diamond, under date of July 26th, contains supplementary information regarding their new building to that published in our columns of the 11th instant. He says "we have determined to give the contract to Messrs. Catanach & Son and an arrangement has been made to have a meeting of the congregation next Monday afternoon at half-past four o'clock to break ground. The church building will be 85x100, constructed of light Chester granite. There will be a vestibule on the north end of the building and one on the south, of such width as to leave a square audience room. The organ will be in the north-east corner, and in front of the organ the pulpit will be placed, the seats will circle around the pulpit and thus the speaker and the choir will have the congregation directly in front of them. The Sabbath School room and Audience room can all be thrown together so as to seat about 3,000 people. The plans were drawn by T. P. Chandler, 302 Walnut street, and are decidedly original."

The firm of Jackson & Reed, architects, has been dissolved, Mr. Jackson remaining at 804 Walnut street. The work that was on hand at the time of dissolution will be finished by Mr. Jackson. Mahlon Bryant's residence at Walnut Lane and Wayne avenue, Germantown, is being pushed towards completion. It will cost $40,000. The warehouse for David Stewart, Thirteenth and Willow streets, is about half finished. This building will be five stories high, built of brick and terra cotta, size 185 by 80. Two elevators will be used. A R. Allen's cottage, at Bay Head, N. J., is completed, as is also the frame house for the Newbold Improvement Company.

Smith & Pritchett, 1430 S. Penn Square, are the architects for the new Academy of the Sacred Heart, to be built on Arch street above Eighteenth. The building will be of stone and brick, and contain four stories and a basement, with a chapel in the rear. Steam heat will be used and the building will be lighted by gas.

Culver & Rodgers, 901 Walnut street, are busy on plans for several very handsome properties to be put up at Wayne station on the P. R. R. These houses will be of stone and handsomely appointed in every particular. Mr. George P. Fallon, of Wayne, for whom these houses are to be built, purchased the lot consisting of about five acres, for $2000 per acre. It is located in South Wayne, facing the Lancaster pike. About ten houses will be put up at once, each costing from ten to eleven thousand dollars.

Brian & Godwin, 1413 Filbert street, are at work on plans for James Geisenberger for houses which are to be erected in Tacony, 23d Ward. The site is Longshore and Hagerman streets, and the improvement will consist of three stores and two dwelling houses three stories high, 16x35. Pressed brick laid in block mortar, with blue stone trimmings and galvanized cornices, will be used. The lower floors of the stores will be of plate glass. Hardwoods will be used in the interior finish, and all the modern conveniences will be in vogue. The walks in the yard and the front pavements will be of artificial stone.

Yarnall & Cooper, 14 S. Broad street, are altering the dining room and adding new chambers to the Aldine Hotel. The work is about half completed. These gentlemen are preparing the plans for the store 723 Sansom street, elsewhere reported.

E. W. Thorne, 14 S. Broad street, has just completed the plans for a cottage to be built at Rutledge, Delaware county, Pa., for C. H. Fleishman. The cost will be $2,500; contracts not let.

Summary of Last Week.

The number building permits reported in the columns of this paper for July 25th was 72, against 73 the week previous; 153 improvements were represented by 72 permits, which is 10 less than the week before. Nearly all of the auction houses have postponed sales until September. M. Thomas & Sons and James A. Freeman are the only ones remaining open. July 19th was the only date of that week upon which a sale was held, and that was at Thomas' house; the amount was small, only reaching $500.

There were 309 transfers of property, which is represented as follows: Amount of cash mortgage considerations $1,188,964.15, the cash considerations being 1,032,639.15, and the mortgage consideration was $156,325. A further incumbrance of $8,574.32 for ground rents is also to be charged against these conveyances, which, calculated when on a basis of 6 per cent, amounts to $142,905.32.

Paper Wood.

There are few things that cannot now be made out of paper. Its adaptability is astonishing, and the wildest speculation as to its future are excusable when we reflect upon the present uses of this material. As the delicate substance can be made to serve for steel or iron, it is not difficult to understand how paper is for many purposes now taking the place of wood. A new mill has been started in Sweden for the manufacture of paper from moss. Paper of different thicknesses and pasteboard made of the white moss have already been shown, the latter even in sheets three-quarters of an inch thick. It is as hard as wood, and can be easily painted and polished. It has all the good qualities, but none of the defects of wood. The pasteboard can consequently be used for door and window frames, architectural ornaments, and all kinds of furniture.

OFFICE OF THE

STATE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT COMMISSION,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 21, 1887.

THIS COMMISSION WILL RECEIVE AT THEIR office, in the City of Indianapolis, on or before the 12th day of December, 1887, designs, and plans, and specifications for a State Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, or Memorial Hall, or Monument and Memorial Hall combined, to be erected on the grounds known as Circle Park, in the City of Indianapolis (a city of 100,000 inhabitants, and the capital of the State of Indiana), according to an act of the General Assembly of Indiana, approved March 3, 1887, appropriating the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and directing the expenditure of the same, and additional donations for the erection of said structure.

Such plans and designs as are offered will be submitted to thorough examination of a board of three competent experts. The cost of the structure must not exceed two hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

All plans and designs submitted are to be understood to be subject to the terms, conditions, and limitations of the law, and the right of the Board of Commissioners to reject the same is hereby reserved. For further information, copy of the law, diagram, and description of the location; rules governing the competition, and instructions to competitors, etc., apply to the Secretary.

are endorsed by the board of underwriters and by leading architects, chemical experts, consulting and supervising engineers, and in fact by thousands of users of steam surface coverings who are ready to attest the merit of Magnesia coverings.

Recommended by a board of examination of the government of the United States as superior to standard hair felt.

PAYS FOR ITSELF IN A YEAR.

Four million feet applied last year.

In selecting a covering it should be remembered that the most permanent and efficient will in the end prove cheapest, even though its first cost be slightly higher than that of inferior ones. Experiments with naked pipes show that a 2-inch pipe, carrying steam at 60 pounds pressure, will condense 180 grammes per foot per hour. Covered with a good covering like magnesium carbonate, the condensation will be but 38 grammes per foot per hour, a saving of 142 grammes per foot per hour, which is equivalent to 3.12 pounds of steam per day of ten hours for each foot of pipe covered. The covering of 100 feet of pipe, then, will save in a year of 300 ten-hour days, the coal necessary to convert 93,000 pounds of water into steam. One pound of bituminous coal is capable of making about 8.5 pounds of steam, so the saving of coal due to the 100 feet of covering would be 3½ tons per year, which, at $4 per ton, amounts to $28. In the real saving will probably amount to more than this estimate in most cases; and it may be said in round terms, that the 100 feet of covering causes each year a saving of its own first cost, $28.00.

Inasmuch as the material pays for itself in a year, and will last indefinitely under ordinary conditions, its advantageousness is beyond question.

ESSENTIALS OF A GOOD COVERING.

- 1st. It must be Fire Proof! No organic matter can be used with safety or true economy.
- 2d. It must be the best possible non-conductor of heat.
- 3d. It must not injure the iron.
- 4th. It must retain its shape and firmness of structure under all possible conditions.
- 5th. It must be light in weight.
- 6th. It must be easily applied, and capable of being readily removed and re-applied when necessary.
- 9th. It must show as good results the second and subsequent years as the first.

MAGNESIA SECTIONAL COVERING possesses these essential qualities.

In the matter of durability, it will last as long as the iron pipe, if reasonably used.

CHINA'S POPULATION DECREASING.—According to the figures given by Mr. S. S. Poppoff, the Secretary of the Russian Legislation in Peking, the population of China has decreased since 1842 about thirty-one millions. Mr. Poppoff gives China's present population as 382,000,000 against 413,000,000 in 1842. These figures are said to be reliable, as they come from Chinese officials.

A BUILDER in Newburgh, N. Y., who is tearing down a building to make room for a new one, is putting the old brick and mortar of the building to a novel use. He has contrived a machine into which he feeds the old bricks and mortar, and it is ground into powder; or rather into building sand and cement, and the material will be used in setting brick in the new building.—American Machinist.

RETURNED FROM EUROPE.—Mr. Clarke, Merchant, of Merchant & Co., of this city, agents in America for the "Gilbertsons' Old Method" and Camaret brands of roofing plates, has returned from Europe. Mr. Merchant's visit to Europe was solely to improve, if possible, the quality and standard of these plates, besides which, in order that the possibility of inferior plates of these popular brands finding their way to the American market might be entirely avoided or rendered absolutely impossible, Mr. Merchant has succeeded in arranging with the manufacturers that no wasters or imperfect plates which arise in course of manufacture of either of these brands will be sold to any person in England, consequently any surreptitious shipment to America of plates of inferior quality cannot possibly happen.

These goods, through their superiority, have practically forced their way into popularity on this side of the Atlantic. They have stood the test of years and are now recognized throughout the country as the true standard of merit.

THE house of the near future, says the Boston Journal of Commerce, will have no fire-place, steam pipes, chimneys or flues. Wood, coal, oil and other forms of fuel are about to disappear altogether in places having factories. Gas has become so cheap that already it is supplanting fuels. A single jet fairly heats a small room in cold weather. A New York artist has produced a simple design for heating entirely by gas at a mere nominal expense. It is a well-known fact that gas throws off no smoke, soot or dust. The artist filled a brazier with chunks of colored glass and placed several jets beneath. The glass soon became heated sufficiently to thoroughly warm a room 10x30 feet in size. The design does away with the necessity of chimneys, since there is no smoke; the ventilation may be had at the window. The heat may be raised or lowered by simply regulating the flow of gas. The colored glass gives all the appearance of fire; there are black pieces to represent coal, red chunks for flames, yellowish white glass for white heat, blue glass for blue flames, and hues for all the remaining colors of the spectrum. Invention already is displacing the present fuels for furnaces and cooking ranges, and fast does away with such disagreeable objects as ashes, kindling wood, etc.

A walk around town with a view of scrutinizing the condition of what are improperly termed drinking fountains for man and beast will prove very interesting to any person having a passing belief in the consistency of things.

The sporadic and gushing sentiment with which the societies having the construction and maintenance of these fountains in charge parade themselves before a gullible and generous public in behalf of the animal kingdom is ridiculously absurd when the fact is known that the whole proposition ends as it begins in gush. A careful observance of these fountains distributed as they are about town during the month of July with its intense heat, and when the fountains to be of any practical use should be cleaned daily and should have a full supply of water constantly flowing through them demonstrated the fact that most of them were entirely free from water and contained nothing but the dried and well baked sediment and mud that had settled at the bottom.

Many of these fountains cost hundreds of dollars to erect, as a rule their construction renders them practically useless for teams, besides which they are so filthy even when the water is flowing through them that horses unless really suffering for water will not drink from them. These fountains should be kept in order or abolished altogether.

THE criminal record for this summer is so exceptionally great, and, in most cases, expresses such a disregard for consequences, that there must be some ultra cause at work, making perfect demons of human beings, whose butchering propensities are suddenly aroused and will not down until satiated with the blood of their victims. When it is remembered that a large majority of those who have committed murder were persons of drinking habits, who were suddenly seized with a frenzy to kill, and in many instances have committed the deed without any reasonable cause, the question naturally presents itself as to whether the nature of the intoxicant did not engender a disease culminating in a morbid desire to take life. That rum is the direct cause of a large percentage of the murders committed there can be no question, but it is an open question as to whether the drugs and chemicals used in the manufacture of a very large proportion of alcoholic drinks are not directly responsible for the serious consequences that follow. It is a well-known fact that arsenic, when taken in small doses, will accumulate in the system until the killing quantity has been absorbed, when death ensues as a consequence. Why, then, may not the slow absorption of poisonous drugs in alcoholic drinks produce, if not a like effect, a serious disturbance of the mental faculties—entirely dissimilar from alcoholism or mania potu—finally developing into a demoniac frenzy under the irritating influence of intense heat.

FROM the account recently published in one of our leading dailies of the wholly inadequate accommodations for vagrants in our prisons, it is evident some one has been sadly remiss in duty regarding this one particular line of work. The law somewhere says a vagrant shall be fed and properly clothed and those having the custody of him shall provide for him comfortable lodging or quarters, all of which seems to have been lost sight of, although grand juries have repeatedly called the attention of city councils to the existing facts. The Society for Alleviating the Miseries of Prisoners, whose attention has also been called to these abuses, has no authority to act in the matter, but has more than once brought the matter to the attention of the public and those having authority, but to no purpose.

It is almost incredible of belief that such a condition of things is possible in this age of advanced civilization when so much has been done in every direction to ameliorate the condition of the criminal classes. To those whose duty it is to investigate and rectify such abuses, but who have been so shamefully negligent, and who are, perhaps, at this time seeking recreation and cooling themselves at seashore and mountain resort, the story of this reeking, unwashed, drunken and wholly disreputable crowd of humanity must be particularly pleasant and highly enjoyable reading. In the methods now employed the element of reform seems to have been most successfully eliminated, unless it be in making it so unconsciously hot for the poor wretches that they refrain from repeating their offenses out of sheer desperation in order to escape another such incarceration. To make a prison too pleasant and attractive might have its drawbacks and might defeat the ends of justice, but it is both inhuman and short-sighted in the extreme to deprive any man, however depraved, of a sufficient quantity of air, decent accommodations and water with which to keep himself clean. A little attention to the decencies of life might lead the most unpromising subject to wish for further improvement. The most striking inconsistency of the whole business is the fact that the more heinous a man's crime, the more luxurious are his surroundings. Thus we see the unfortunate wretch whose present condition is largely due to a long line of depraved ancestors, or who has been dragged down by poverty, misfortune, and other untoward circumstances, deprived of every incentive that might lead to reformation, while his keen, daring and more villainous companion from the very heinousness of his crime, commands better treatment and more comfortable quarters.

A RECOGNITION OF MERIT.—On the first page of this issue will be found the advertisement of the Magnesia Sectional Covering Company, for which Macan, Pechin & Co., No. 7 South Delaware avenue, are the agents. The Magnesia Covering, from its wonderful non-conducting and heat-retaining properties and its peculiar adaptability to all mechanical uses, whether for steam pipe covering or for building purposes, for which it has already commanded considerable attention from architects for fire-proof buildings, has already gained for itself the reputation and popularity it justly merits. The agents have just completed a contract with the U. S. Mint of this city for a large amount of the Magnesia covering, and that, too, after an order for covering had been practically placed with another house. The fact is, the superiority of the Magnesia covering, after the most severe tests, was made so apparent that those having the work in charge had no other alternative left them, and as a consequence an order was given to Macan, Pechin & Co. for the Magnesia Covering. This is certainly an honest recognition of true merit.

DECIDED BY THE PENNSYLVANIA SUPREME COURT.

CONVERSION.—To establish by the provisions of a will, the conversion of real into personal property, the will must direct it absolutely, irrespective of contingencies; in other words there must be an imperative direction to sell.

A will in which there is no absolute direction to sell lands, but the power of the executors to sell is made dependent on the contingencies that the co-tenants should sell, and that the executors should realize the same price as the co-tenants, does not work such conversion.

COMMONWEALTH vs. GORDON.

Oct. 25, 1886.

CORPORATIONS.—The purchase by a foreign corporation, of the capital stock of a Pennsylvania corporation, as a device to enable the former to hold real estate in Pennsylvania, is a violation of the Act of April 26, 1855, which prohibits foreign corporations from acquiring or holding any real estate within the Commonwealth "directly in the corporate name, or by or through any trustee or other device whatsoever," unless authorized by the laws of the Commonwealth; and lands so held are subjected to escheat, although the legal title to the land is in the Pennsylvania corporation.

COMMONWEALTH vs. N. Y. L. E. & W. R. R. Co.

Jan. 3, 1887.

FRAUD.—In the case of a judicial sale, no inference of fraud arises from the fact that the owner whose title was sold remained in possession of the real estate sold; nor is it evidence of fraud that the purchaser agreed with such prior owner that he would reconvey to him the property upon being reimbursed for all the money he had expended.

MEAD vs. CONROE,

Oct. 4, 1886.

MORTGAGE.—The vendee of a farm gave a purchase money mortgage on it, and, with his vendor's consent, laid it out in village lots and deeded one to plaintiff, who paid for it and erected a dwelling house on it, having no actual notice of the mortgage, which was recorded. Afterwards the mortgage was foreclosed and plaintiff's lot sold to plaintiff's grantor, who verbally promised to hold it for plaintiff's wife, but gave a mortgage on it which was foreclosed, without notice to plaintiff, whose tenants were in possession; on the foreclosure the lot was purchased by and the deed made to the assignee of the mortgage. In an action of ejectment against the latter by the plaintiff to recover the lot, held, that although the case was one of great hardship, it disclosed no legal ground on which plaintiff could recover.

MCCORMICK vs. KINNEY,

Nov. 15, 1886.

PARTNERSHIP.—Where two partners meet and agree as to some items of an account and disagree as to other, and the disputed items are put down by clerks in their employ with their agreed items, just as they were claimed and are not decided, that is not an account stated, and is only binding as to the items to which they both agreed.

REHILL vs. MCPAGNE.

Oct. 4, 1886.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—A deed of land to a trustee, for the use of the cestuis que trust for their lives or the life of the successor, with the right to the cestuis que trust to occupy and improve the same, and providing that the estate so granted in trust shall be in no way liable for debts of the cestuis que trust, and that after the death of the cestuis que it shall go to their heirs forever creates a special active trust and vests the legal estate in the trustee; hence a deed by the cestuis que trust back to the grantor will be imperative and will give no title to one subsequently taking the land from the original grantor.

White and Colored Death Rates.

The Sanitary Era.

Most of our Southern cities have so fair a death rate, in spite of the large preventable mortality of their colored population, that they have rested easy under their records as usually republished without distinction of races; presuming, no doubt, that the intelligence of the readers of such news would not fail to make the proper allowance. Besides, there are allowances to be claimed for other cities—New York, for instance—on account of vast insanitary classes as hard to deal with as the negroes. It is the proper business of every municipality to control and regulate its insanitary elements, and to bring the death rate of the ignorant, the degraded and the destitute, whether negroes, Italians, Irish or whatever, as near as possible to some reasonable comparison with that of the more fortunate classes. The degree in which this work at once of humanity and self-preservation is accomplished, as shown in the common death rate, is the criterion both of good government and of a good place to live in. In some places it is vastly more difficult than in others; but the very facts that make it difficult, appeal by so much the more powerfully to good citizenship and humanity and make the death rate by so much the fairer test of these qualities in the people. These remarks are not intended to be censorious, much less invidious, towards any. We have none of us much to boast of, as yet, in sanitary administration. But great honor is due to a few devoted sanitarians for the progress constantly making in a number of places, and it is well for cities that are behindhand to bestir themselves also, and to better their sanitary reputation by improving rather than palliating their death rate. The more fully and widely a bad death rate is published, the better it will be for the place affected.

But, on the whole, it seems to us that our Southern cities are rather favored than otherwise, in point of comparative reputation, whether their white and colored death rates are reported separately or consolidated. The distinction is unavoidably noticed in any case, and the line of separation marked by color between the more enlightened and the main insanitary class of the population, exhibits the contrast and apportions the apparent responsibility, between the extremes of society, with a clearness that is impossible where the best and the worst sanitary conditions are mixed in one color.

Fires in Paris.

London Times.

The returns showing the number of fires which occurred in Paris during the year 1886 has just been published, and the total was 953, this being exclusive of 1,524 chimneys on fire. This is a larger total than has been recorded for several years, and among the calls for fire there was no fewer than thirteen in theatres and cafés-chantant, these being the Vaudeville, the Opera Comique, the Hippodrome, the Odeon, the Porte St. Martin, the Eden Theatre, (twice), the Opera, (twice), the Chateau d'Eau, the Theatre de Paris, the Padro, and the Bataclan. The three months during which there were the most fires were January, November and December. The total amount of damage done by the 953 fires is estimated at about lbs. 248,000, and in 842 cases the loss to property was covered by insurance, but the furniture was insured in only 640 cases. In 407 cases the fire was extinguished without having recourse to the engines, and in many of the other cases they were not wanted when they reached the scene of the fire. No fewer than 107 of the fires were caused by the upsetting of lamps, while only 10 are attributed to incendiaries. No lives were lost during the year, either among the inhabitants of the houses where the fires occurred or among the fire brigade, which at present consists of 1,744 men, including 51 officers, who are quartered in eleven different barracks, a twelfth being now in course of construction. Each barrack is provided with a hand engine and two pumps, carrying about 650 feet of hose and an escape ladder, a ventilator to be used when the fire breaks out in a place full of noxious gases, and safety lamps of various patterns. There are also eleven steam engine depots in Paris and Eighty-five lookout posts, of which sixty-two, each with two, three, or four men, are in the theatres. The length of the telegraph wires connecting the different stations is about 350 miles.

In Paris there are 490,000 unmarried men and only 380,000 married, while there are 416,000 unmarried women.

Uses of Slate.

Slate is not confined to its use as a roofing material by any means, but, on the contrary, is probably more universally used than any other stone. In composition and texture, it is admirably adapted to the reception of carved and moulded designs, is susceptible of a high polish, and possesses great power of resistance to the principal destructive elements, besides having the additional merits of wide range of color, embracing black, dark blue, purple, purple clouded green, gray clouded green, light green, and a clear bright red. The scope of consumption is rapidly expanding, and among the uses to which slate is applied the following may be enumerated: Flagging, flooring, floor tiles, moulding for tiles, vestibule trimmings, slabs, etc., wainscoting, mantels, hearthstones, steps, risers, platforms, sills and lintels, turned balusters, laundry and bath tubs, sinks and wash trays, meat and water tanks, refrigerator and cooling room shelves, cistern linings, brewers' vats, mangers, butchers' and carriers' tables, bar fixtures, billiard table beds, urinals, school slates and blackboards, countertops, vault work, grave linings and covers, and memorial tablets. Of the above, no record of production or value can be obtained that would prove at all useful as a basis for estimates. Possibly, a faint idea of the proportions devoted to these various uses might be obtained from the production of Slatington (Pa.) section, where besides an output of 108,000 squares of roofing slate there were also made (in 1885), in round numbers, 39,900 cases of school slates, 31,850 pieces, or 1,430 cases, or 27 carloads of flagging, 5,900 cases of blackboards, 30 cases of mantels and hearths, and 47 carloads of shaved slate.—Mineral Resources of the United States.

Architects' Notes.

Paul Brander, architect, south-east corner Sixth and Walnut streets, reports considerable work on hand, some of which is not yet ready to be made public. Among the plans complete are: A handsome cottage at Atlantic City for George Allen, Esq., on Maryland avenue. This cottage will be three stories high, of superior finish and workmanship. It will contain all the modern improvements and will cost about $5,000. Also; a large cottage for Fred. Pauley, at Cottage Point, Queens county, Long Island. This cottage will be two and a half stories high, hard-wood finish throughout, contain all modern improvements and will cost about $7,000. Mr. Brander has also just finished the designs of the art metal work for the new Market street bridge for the manufacturer, Joseph Newman, Race and Eleventh streets, this city. These designs consist of nine different panels (bronze) on the railings, a number of highly ornamental lamp-posts (also of bronze) with the coats-of-arms of Pennsylvania and Philadelphia, and grifford at the foot.

The church and rectory of the Protestant Episcopal church at St. Sauveur, to be erected at Twenty-second and De Lancey place, will occupy a lot 44 feet by 69 feet. She church will have a width 28½ feet. Architect Frank R. Watson has prepared the plans.

The Bergdoll Brewing Co.'s four-story brick storehouse, which was destroyed by fire, is being repaired and remodeled. Otto C. Wolf is the architect.

The Robert Smith India Pale Ale Brewing Co. will erect an entire new plant at Thirty-eighth street and Girard avenue, 140x235 feet, comprising a brew house, bottling house, store house, boiler house and stable. Excavations have been commenced. Otto C. Wolf, 1121 Arch street, has finished the plans.

Mr. James H. Windrum estimates the cost of the Girard Estate stores, at Twelfth and Market streets, at $350,000. There will be six stores, each six stories high. Two of the buildings will be 40 ft; the others will have a frontage of 31 feet 9 inches. The fronts will be of brick, with terra cotta trimmings.

The firm of Jackson & Reed having dissolved partnership, Mr. Reed will hereafter be identified with the new firm of J. Harris Reed and Angus S. Wade, at 20 S. Broad street. The plans on hand at the time of dissolving the partnership will be finished by the old firm of Jackson & Reed, instead of by Mr. Jackson alone, as was erroneously reported in our last issue.

J. Harris Reed & Angus S. Wade, architects, 20 South Broad street, have just finished plans for a frame cottage to be erected on a tract of the Swarthmore Improvement Company, Delaware county, Pa., costing $2,500; also working on plans for a $4,000 cottage at same place, a brick and frame house at Tacony, costing $3,000, a beick and frame house at Norristown, Pa., costing $2,500, the remodeling of a house on Green street, this city; also the preliminaries of a proposed $25,000 country hotel, the remodeling of a country Episcopal Church, costing about $12,000, a frame house at Sharon Hill, and one of brick at Norristown, Pa.

Architectural Pen Points.

BY J. C. WORTHINGTON, ARCHITECT.

Architectural Pen Points is the name given to a unique little volume of which J. C. Worthington, an architect of this city, is the author.

Its theme is church architecture, a subject on which Mr. Worthington has evidently expended considerable thought, as his notes on the building of a church would indicate. A large part of this little book is descriptive of the plans drawn by Mr. Worthington for the Methodist Episcopal Union church, which is to be erected at the corner of Diamond and Lambert streets, this city, and which have been submitted for the consideration of the trustees. The book is beautifully illustrated by four well-executed photographs taken from pen sketches, made by Mr. Worthington. Architectural Pen Points will be published at irregular intervals for gratuitous distribution among those interested.

Summary of Last Week.

The number of building permits reported in the columns of this paper for August is 1st was 44, against 72 the week previous; 88 improvements were represented by these 44 permits. But one property was sold at auction. This was sold at James A. Freeman & Co., the other houses having no sales.

There were 242 transfers of property, which is represented as follows: Cash and mortgage considerations $1,019,282.26, the mortgage consideration being $273,005 and the cash consideration $736,277.62. Against these properties is a ground rent charge of $5,232.89, which on a 6 per cent basis amounts to $87,214.89.

The Oil Yield of New York and Pennsylvania.

Statistics show that 53,000 oil wells have been drilled in Pennsylvania and New York since the discovery of petroleum, at a cost of $200,000,000. These wells have produced 310,000,000 barrels of oil, which was sold at the wells for $500,000,000. This represented a profit to the producer of $300,000,000. The amount of exported is placed at 6,231,102,923 gallons.

Danger Lurking in the Chimney Top.

A long experience in burning wood fuel in both heating and cooking stoves has brought out a danger point in this combustion that may throw light on some of the unexplained fires that from time to time occur in both city and country, and especially in the country. Being much annoyed by rain running down inside the flue, writes "Observer" in the St. Louis Miller, I procured a sheet-iron cap for one flue and a fire-clay T cap for the other. After that time I was every now and then troubled with the flues being on fire, and in several instances the roof took fire outside. After a long experience of this kind the iron cap was removed, and no fires have been in that flue or on the roof of that building. This led to a close watch over the other building, which had the stove-pipe enter into a fire-clay flue of six feet, ending in a T top on the outside. The fire-clay flue rises through an attic. The frequency of fires led to a very careful examination into all the associated conditions. Thus I find that the colder the weather is there is not only increased combustion, but increased condensation of the elements of the wood carried up in the smoke, and, striking against the top cap, is retarded in its emission, and water and a tarry substance containing an inflammable oil is thrown back down the flue, and gathers on the top and around the openings of the top, often dropping on the roof. This substance is easily ignited, and the flue, the top, and the matter on the roof all burn with great force, and is a source of great and constant danger. I have tried burning zinc, sulphur, salts, etc., but all failed. Direct draught, no obstruction by caps, and frequent cleanings are the only preventives of the danger. The soot, of itself, has little or no inflammability.—Fireman's Herald.

THE story of the manipulation of our national debt reads like a romance. On the 31st of August, 1865, it amounted to $2,756,431,571. By the 31st of August, 1887, it is likely to amount to no more than $1,156,000,000. That is to say, in 22 years, we have paid just $1,600,000,000, or much more than half of the debt. In 1865 we had to pay for interest, $160,000,000. Next year the interest payment will be but $41,189,010, involving a saving to the people of $110,000,000 a year. These are wonderful figures, unparalleled in finance, and not possible to parallel except among a free, self-governing people. But we have reached the end of our debt-paying power, for a time at least. No more of it can be called by the Treasury until 1891, and much of it not before 1907. Under such circumstances we are face to face with an imperative demand for reduction of the revenues. Any reduction of the custom duties, short of total removal, will certainly have the effect to increase the income of the government, and the country has pronounced in distinct tones against such a policy. The only alternative is the overthrow of the internal revenue system, and that is the end to which every patriotic man should address his attention: This is the vital matter in the struggle for relief of the people from their burdens, and the politician who will not admit the fact, and act upon it, because he will lose a little paltry patronage by the abolition of the Internal Revenue Bureau, deserves strong popular reprobation.—Mechanical News.

THE GROWTH OF TREES.—Cultivated in groves, the average growth in twelve years of several varieties of hard wood has been ascertained to be about as follows: White maple reaches 1 foot in diameter and 30 feet in height; ash, leaf maple or box elder, 1 foot in diameter and 20 feet in height; white willow, 18 inches and 40 feet; yellow willow, 18 inches and 35 feet; Lombardy poplar, 10 inches and 40 feet; blue and white ash, 10 inches and 25 feet; black walnut and butternut, 10 inches and 20 feet.

Machine-Made Houses.

Springfield Republican: A prominent city landlord who is putting up many of the wooden houses in a district which is being rapidly filled, when asked by an old resident for a few barrels of shavings the other day, replied: "We don't have any shavings in the houses now, they are all made at the mill and you will have to go there for them. I don't believe the carpenters now-a-days make more than a barrel of shavings in building a house. Modern residences are put up pretty much as Solomon's temple was, the parts are brought together all prepared and fitted, and it is short and easy work to put them together."

The wooden house is turned out of a saw and planing-mill, much as if it were a toy block. With ready-made clothes the average mechanic can put up a ready-made house, while there is still the same opportunity for elaborate workmanship and outlay as in fine clothing.

While the last few years have not seen so sweeping a change in house construction as the substitution of balloon frames for the old-fashioned heavy beams, yet many changes are noticeable, and improvements are certainly being made. A wood-working establishment will now take the contract for finishing the entire woodwork, outside and in, and the base boards, thresholds, window and door casings, banisters, cornices and wainscots are smoothed and finished before reaching the building. Once the carpenters planed out the moldings and cut out the casings at the house. Now machinery sticks a wide casing with ornamental flutings in one piece, and whether used around doors with corner blocks or plinths, or mitred, machinery finishes it, and the hand saw and plane have but little to do.

In a cheaply-constructed machine-made house, one carpenter can now do the work of three men, and with less skill. This inroad of machinery has driven out skilled carpenters from the ordinary work of finishing the woodwork of a building, and much of it is done by a cheap class of help from Canada. During the long winter months many Canadians pick up a knowledge of the use of tools for lack of other employment. In the spring they come South and find work in coarse carpentering at a dollar a day. They save money, become expert, collect a kit of tools and soon pass for full-fledged carpenters, although they never have served apprenticeship and are not very skillful. They can put together machine-made houses, however, and in this work many of them find employment. But there is still demand for skilled carpenters, although their work is more in the nature of cabinet-making.

Labor-saving machinery did not decrease the demand for carpenters any more than the Boston & Albany did away with teaming by horses, as many at the time actually feared it would, and opposed its construction on that ground. Said an experienced builder recently: "You know when they invented the sewing machine, people predicted that women couldn't longer find employment as seamstresses. It did not do away with plain sewing by women, but added fills and flounces enough on dresses to treble the number of women employed in sewing. It was just so in the carpenter business; woodwork is made ornamental enough to give plenty of employment to hand labor, and there are more wood-workers than ever, although they don't do just what carpenters did ten years ago." In fact, wood-work is now the feature of a house, and is even the leading element in finishing stone and brick buildings. It is the fashion to finish ceilings in wood, wainscots are becoming popular, and wooden mantelpieces are replacing the cold marble fixture which could once be found in almost every well-finished house that had a fire-place. With the style to finish hard-wood in its natural grain came infinite possibilities for artistic taste as well as lavish expenditure of money. Whether the house be of Queen Anne or old colonial in style, the exterior now must be elaborately ornamented in wood-work. Cornice, verge boards, piazza posts, window frames, and even the perpendicular walls of gables, are full of intricately-sawn wood ornaments. In the ready-made house, this is machine-made, as well as the furnishings inside, but for those who can make the outlay, there is the opportunity for hand labor. Paint has taken the background, and rooms are planned so as to bring out the effects of wood designs. People have discovered new methods of filling, staining and polishing woods, so that where color is used its made to represent the natural grain as much as possible."

THE AIR OF SEWERS.—Professor Carnelley, D. Sc., and Mr. Haldane, of University College, Dundee, have been investigating the impurities of sewer-air, and find that the organic acid in the sewers examined was about twice and the organic matter three times that of the outside air, whereas the number of micro-organisms was less. As regards the quantity of these three impurities, the air of the sewers was better than the air of naturally-ventilated schools, while even mechanically ventilated schools were more polluted with organic matter. The sewer-air contained a much smaller number of micro-organisms than the air of any class of houses, and the carbonic acid was rather greater than in the air of houses of four rooms and upwards, but less than in two and one-roomed houses. As regards organic matter, however, the sewer-air was only slightly better than the air of one-roomed houses, and much worse than that of other classes of houses. The amount of carbonic acid found by the observers shows that the sewers observed were better ventilated than those investigated by previous observers. They attribute the excess of carbonic over that of the outside air chiefly to oxidation of organic matter in the sewage and the air of the sewer. The excess of organic matter is probably chiefly gaseous, and derived from sewage itself. The micro-organisms in sewer air come entirely, or nearly so, from outside, and are not derived, or only so in relatively small numbers, from the sewage itself. This important conclusion is proved by the facts that the average number of micro-organisms in sewer-air was less than in the outside air, namely, as nine to sixteen; that the number increased with the efficacy of the ventilation; that the average proportion of moulds to bacteria in sewer-air was almost exactly the same as in outside air at the same time, whereas one would expect the proportion to be very different were the outside air not the source from which they were derived, seeing that such a difference has been proved to exist in the air of houses and schools. Another consideration is that the filthiness of a sewer seems to have no influence on the number of micro-organisms. Further experiments in the laboratory showed that the number of micro-organisms in sewer-air is diminished nearly a half in passing along a moist tube five feet long and one-and-three-fourths inches in diameter, at a rate of nearly one foot per second. There was, however, distinct evidence of the occasional dissemination of micro-organisms from the sewerage itself; especially in splashing, owing to drains entering the sewers at points high up in the roofs. It is therefore important that drains should be arranged to avoid splashing. The authors' conclusions tend to make one more doubtful of the supposed evidence of the bad effects of ordinary sewer-air, when not vitiated by splashing.—The American Architect.

It costs New York City about $98.50 per million gallons for its water. It costs Boston about $60 for the same amount. Hoboken pays a private company $75 per million gallons, and Bayonne and East Newark pay Jersey City $1.00 per million gallons. Jersey City at present pays, besides interest on water bonds, about $30.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 15, 1887.

It is estimated that $300,000,000 are annually expended in the United States in the construction of new buildings.

—THE building fever in the southern and south-western parts of the city seems to be as strong as ever. Thousands of houses have been built already this summer and they are still going up by the hundreds.

THE clubbing propensities of Director Stokley's policemen will not be stopped until a few severe examples are made. The assaults upon citizens by policemen without seeming justification arise no doubt in some cases from the irritability of age, while in others it is the result of arrogance coming from a long continuance in office, and a feeling of security of place among Stokley's old men. At all events, there is entirely too much clubbing of inoffensive citizens, and if the Director want act the courts ought to, and very vigorously at that.

THE following is taken from the Los Angeles, Cal., Sunday Times, and is a summary of Real Estate Transactions in that village for the week ending July 30, last. An aggregate of nearly three millions of dollars leaves the best efforts of the Philadelphia brown somewhat in the shade. Totals for the week: 91 transfers for a nominal consideration; 258 under $1,000, aggregating $111,078; 303 between 1,000 and $5,000, aggregating $671,828; 53 between $5,000 and $10,000, aggregating $398,933; 45 over $10,000, aggregating $1,710,934; grand total, 759 transfers, aggregating $2,892,813.

DURING July the fire loss in the United States and Canada amounted to $14,026,500, against $10,000,000 in July, 1886, and $9,000,000 in July, 1885.

The opinion of City Solicitor, Charles F. Warwick, that under the act of 1868 Mayor Fitter, with Director Stokley, under the new city charter, have the exclusive control and jurisdiction of the Fairmount Park guard, will raise a breeze among the Park Commissioners.

Mayor Fitter is ex-officio a member of the Park Commission, and it is his duty to be present at all their sessions.

Of course his higher office of Mayor swallows up by its ponderosity and gravity the more or less ornamental office of Park Commissioner.

Still it is an anomalous position.

There must now be a clash of authority between the Mayor and the Park Commission.

That any violent means will be resorted to no sane man believes.

A semblance of interference on the part of the Mayor will lead the Board of Park Commissioners to file a Bill in Equity praying the Court to enjoin His Honor. Of course the Mayor will be one of the plaintiffs, and at the same time the principal defendant.

Now the plaintiffs cannot quietly and secretly consult and map out the campaign that must beat the defendant.

Lay on Macduff. This will be a curious legal battle. An act that contradicts itself, and to which both parties appeal as the source of their power, and a plaintiff and a defendant in the same person.

THE mistake men make in early life is in not buying a home for themselves. They are entirely too apt to drift along in a nambypamby sort of way, wasting as fast as they earn, until middle age reaches them and family wants become heavy, and the possibility of ever owning their own home is rendered beautifully less every year.

Buy a house; no matter how unpretentious, buy a house. There is nothing in the wide world that will put a man on his mettle, excite his ambition, increase his earning capacity, concentrate his will power so much as an obligation to make regular payments on a piece of real estate. There is more tangible matter-of-factism in a house and lot than in anything else on God's earth. Homes are the haven to the loaf, and home-owners are steady workers and temperate in most things, their children are cleaner, sweeter, more refined, better dressed and better educated than the children of men who are eternally on the move.

It is a well-established fact that in all communities of workmen the home-owners are the most industrious and the most contented; they are opposed to strikes, they avoid the boisterous troublesome, discontented, shiftless non-home-owners, who beat their wives and spend their money for drink, and better still, the home-owners can be relied upon for six days' work every week.

LOOKING at the Sheriff's office from a business standpoint, it would be decidedly best to continue in office the present incumbent. As to his capabilities, there is not room even for the question; as to his honesty, his present and past record shines in glittering contrast to that of many of his predecessors. The office of High Sheriff of the County of Philadelphia is a position involving too much of the real and personal interest of the citizens of the county to permit of any political monkeying in the selection of a candidate to fill it. As the Sheriff's office stands to-day, if you have business there, your business is transacted on business principles; you meet business men, transact your business, and go about your business, just as you would in any business establishment in the city. If the people—an uncertain factor when it comes to filling political offices with meritorious men—want a strictly simon-pure political Sheriff, with all of the old-time tricks and subterfuges, and the old-time delays in settling estates, and unbusinesslike methods generally, they should have him; but if they prefer honesty and business ability, they had better continue in office the man who now so creditably fills the bill.

THE fire loss for the month of July, 1887, is unprecedented. Over $14,000,000 went up in smoke during that month in the United States and Canada. The necessity for some preventive system of protection is becoming more apparent every year, for the terrible strain upon the wealth of the people of this country, representing, as it does, a waste of over one hundred million dollars yearly, must, notwithstanding their wonderful resources, make itself felt in the future. It is useless to look to the government of cities for that much-needed protection which would make safety against fires almost absolute. The most cities of any class can be expected to furnish is an adequate supply of water and the necessary apparatus and organizations to fight fire, but the question of prevention and protection, meaning as it does the saving of hundreds of millions of dollars, is a matter which should and must excite the interest of those who pay the losses. It is well known that nearly every fire, large or small, that occurs arises from causes which might be prevented, hence it follows that any collective effort on the part of the insurance companies, which would prevent fires as far as possible, would prove advantageous in the way of saving a part of the millions that they now pay yearly for losses, besides materially reducing the cost of insurance. The cost of maintaining a national system of inspection would be but a small percentage of the average yearly loss. To be sure the earnest co-operation of fire and police departments would be needed, but that could be relied upon, as these organizations now furnish the only means of protection we have. Something must be done to prevent the present great fire waste, and the fire insurance companies must introduce the necessary measures of prevention or hazard the chance of bankruptcy.

THE circular issued by the Newark Leather Manufacturers is a manly protest against the dictatorial assumptions of the Knights of Labor, and fairly makes an issue, which, without the disgraceful stultification of those who have agreed to it, cannot be settled except upon terms of unconditional surrender by the workmen involved belonging to the trades organizations.

It is very evident that manufacturers all over the country are becoming heartily tired of their negative position as proprietors of business interests over which, under the present condition of things, they are permitted to exercise but partial control. It is also evident that a long and tedious lock-out must take place before the question of supremacy can be permanently settled. Of course, such an event means incalculable loss to both employers and employees, but it will surely come, with all its resulting evils, unless the Knights are prepared to take the back track, and withdraw from their present aggressive and dictatorial position. The present booming condition of those branches of trade which largely represent the productions of labor will, of course, continue to make manufacturers conservative, for policy's sake, just so long as the demand and prices justify it; but just so soon as the demand decreases, and the margin of profits grows less, then, as surely as one evil begets another, the issue will be made and fought to the bitter end. We give below the circular in full:

TO OUR EMPLOYEES: Since the formation of the so-called Labor Organization, there have been strikes, lockouts, threats and disturbances of different kinds in our factory, resulting in loss and damage to us, and causing loss of time and money to our employees; and being convinced that a man who is not a member of such organization is as good a workman, a better citizen, and more apt to be faithful to himself, his family and his employer, than one who is bound by the rules of such organizations to obey its orders, regardless of consequences, however unjust or tyrannical its commands may be; and believing that better results will be obtained by according to both the employer and employee the right of individual contract for his labor, this factory will hereafter be open only to such workmen as will agree to deal individually with us.

In carrying out the above we do not propose to reduce wages; but, on the contrary, we favor uniform wages in all manufacturing for the same class of work. We will protect our workmen from any unlawful interference or annoyance by any man or body of men, as far as it is possible. The above to take effect on Saturday, August 13, 1887.

THAT the majority of Philadelphia architects are entirely too conservative is patent enough to every one sufficiently interested to give the question a modicum of thought.

There is no use begging the question, we are far behind either New York, Chicago, or Boston, and this through stupid adherence to old customs and a want of faith in ourselves. We built and built after the pattern of our fathers, and their monotonous sameness, with such radical faithfulness that up to the Centennial it was dollars to cents that when an excavation was made, the structure to cover it was intended to be just like the one next door.

Of course, fresh ideas have expressed themselves since '76, to the great advantage of the city and the lasting credit of the minds that conceived them, but it's a question if the popular demand for new styles did not have more to do with bringing about the change than did the architects themselves. Of course there were exceptional cases of brainy men with fresh ideas, who fretted under the trammels of custom and the want of opportunity, but as a rule, prior to the Centennial, the average Philadelphia architect was too indolent to think and too awfully afraid to entertain for a second any proposition that involved the cost of an additional dollar to his favorite red brick front with marble trimmings.

In fact the same hide-bound characteristics even now prevail as to interior work, and to the extent that architects themselves deprecate it and preach against it; yet it seems that the old-time course of sameness and mistaken economy that formerly exercised such a frigid rigidity to the exteriors of Philadelphia houses is still the ruling passion in the matter of interior work, and will not be shaken off. Of course we refer to high-price houses, where the opportunity for brilliant conceptions is presented on the one hand and the best efforts of the truly skilled mechanic on the other. "But the owner won't pay the price for fine work; he won't stand the extra cost." In nine cases out of ten this is far from being the truth. It is the old answer which was always ready when the question of house fronts was brought up prior to the last decade. It is the coinage of men who are too cowardly to suggest an innovation, or who have really nothing to suggest. It is like a rider who neither knows the mettle of his horse, nor who, through personal considerations, desires to test it. A case in point arose only the other day, and which might be stated in detail were the authority to do so not wanting, wherein an architect entirely underestimated both the tastes and liberality of his client, and kept "still harping on his daughter," until, in sheer desperation, the client sought the help of a prominent manufacturing firm of this city for plans, ideas, and suggestions in keeping with the magnificence of the home he desired to build, and which his munificent means could justly afford; and there are cases where the parsimonious ideas of architects have entirely dampened the enthusiasm of rich men of taste, who needed only the sympathy and aid that should have been given them in forming into tangible shape hopes and wishes as to an ideal home, which they had cherished for years, and which finally effervesced into a fac-simile, inside and out, of the last house the architect had built for another man.

Preservation of Wood by Lime.

I have for many years been in the habit of preparing home-grown timber of the inferior sorts of fir—Scotch, spruce, and silver—by steeping it in a tank (that is, a hole dug in clay or peat, which was fairly water-tight) in a saturated solution of lime. Its effect on the sapwood is to so harden it and fill the pores that it perfectly resists the attacks of the little wood-boring beetle, and makes it, in fact, equally as durable as the made wood. I have a mill which was lofted with Scotch fir prepared in this way in 1850, and it is in perfect preservation. The timber is packed as closely as it will lie in the tank, water is let in, and unslaked lime is thrown on the top and well stirred about. There is no danger that the solution will not find its way to everything in the tank. I leave the wood in the solution from two to three months, by the end of which time an inch board will be fully permeated by it. Joists and beams, would, of course, take a longer time for saturation; but in practice we find that the protection afforded by two to three months' steeping is sufficient if the scantlings are cut to the sizes at which they are to be used.—Field.

MR. MILES, a scientific engineer, states that it is a fact peculiar to Spanish countries, that ordinary brick dust, made from hard-burned, finely-pulverized bricks, and mixed with common lime and sand, is universally and successfully employed as a substitute for hydraulic cement. Mr. Miles says that in an experience of six years in Cuba, his opportunities were ample for testing its merits, and he found it to be in all respects superior to the best hydraulic cement for culverts, drains, tanks or cisterns, and even for roofs. In an experiment which was made to test the strength of this product, it was found that a block of it, one-half inch in thickness, without sand, and after an immersion in water for four months, bore, without crushing, crumbling, or splitting, a pressure of fifteen pounds per square inch. It is thought that by the addition of pulverizing mills to brick-yards, to utilize the waste and broken bricks, a profitable manufacture might be carried on.

The following towns and cities will have new electric light plants: Jackson, Tenn.; Hudson, N. Y.; New Haven, Conn.; Galveston, Texas; Bristol, Tenn. The Weston Electric Light Co., of Newark, N. J., will rebuild its plant recently destroyed by fire. Jamestown, Dakota; Grand Rapids, Mich.; York, Pa.; West Point, Va.; Chicopee, Mass.; Bennington, Vt.; Lowell, Mass.; Easton, Md.; Sheffield, Ala.; Beaver Dam, Wis.; Portland, Me.; Charlestown, W. Va.; Galveston, and Austin, Tex.

DURING the last six months $100,000,000 have been invested in business enterprise in the Southern States, $40,000,000 more in new buildings, and about $300,000,000 in farms, city lots and timber and mineral tracts.

Two seats in the New York Real Estate Exchange were recently sold for $1,070 each. About how much could be obtained for a seat in the Philadelphia Real Estate Exchange, does anybody know?

EMPRESS AUGUSTA herself drew the plan of Castle Babelsburg. Emperor (then Prince) William selected the place in August, 1828, on the occasion of a family gathering at Glienicke, but it was some time before his father gave his consent to make the acquisition, he having perceived that the Prince should inhabit the Marble Palace at Potsdam. Princess Wilhelm, not content with the plan designed for the erection of a castle in the English style, sketched another herself of a cottage pattern, which found general admiration, and was so artistically and skillfully conceived as to admit of future and harmonious enlargements. Building was begun in 1834, under the direction of architects Persius, Gerhardt, and Schinkel, but the castle and its beautiful park were not completed until 1849, at a total expense of 500,000 thalers.

RIGHTS OF AN ASSIGNEE AS TO PREMISES ENTERED.—An assignee for the benefit of creditors, has an election to accept or decline the lease of premises previously held by his assignor. If he enters into possession of the premises and transacts business there, he will be deemed to have accepted it, and is liable for the rent during the period of occupation. If he enters, inventories and removes the goods within a reasonable time, and no longer occupies the premises, he is not liable for rent. Such acts do not amount to an election to take the term. Acts are sometimes more expressive than words, and, as a rule, the intent of a party is inferable from his acts.

MEYERS vs. HUNT, Assignee.
City Court, N. Y.

A simple way of loosening a rusted screw is to apply heat to the head of it. When the burners of lamps become clogged with char, boil them in strong soapsuds. By using soda water as a wash you can clean ceilings that have been smoked by a kerosene lamp. If you drop soot on the carpet, cover thickly with salt, and it may be swept up without blackening the carpet. A few oyster shells mixed with the coal used for a furnace or large stove will prevent the accumulation of clinkers. To clean brass bird cages use a tablespoonful of salt and a tea-cupful of vinegar, beat, and apply with a piece of flannel and rub till dry.

A MOUNTAIN OF PAINT IN CALIFORNIA.—A few months ago, while some men were prospecting for gold in the western part of Calaveras county, large quantities of earth of all colors and shades were discovered. The substance crested in layers, and upon further investigation it was found that it extended over about twenty acres of the mountain on the side on which it was found. The substance was found to be various varieties of ochre. The find was a veritable mountain of paint, containing all the primary colors with their various shades.—San Francisco Alta.

From the cornfields for miles outside Wichita, Kan., you can see street cars in rapid motion without carrying a passenger day or night. They are supported by real estate agents, who advertise in eastern papers that "street cars pass the door." This metropolitan attraction would be all right if there were any doors there, but all I could see was an endless avenue cut through the cornfields, through which the mules patiently plod with their empty cars.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Waterway Improvements—Delaware Set Down for the Lion's Share.

General W. F. Smith's United States engineers annual report, in which he submits estimates for expenditures to be made during the next fiscal year for improvements to harbors and rivers smells entirely too fishy. The total amount involved represents $418,500, of which the little state of Delaware is to have expended on her harbors and rivers $333,500 or nearly eighty per cent. of the entire amount. New Jersey is to receive but $20,000, or less than five per cent. of the total, while Maryland is set down for $65,000, or a trifle over fifteen per cent. It is very evident that Delaware is to be well cared for so long as a prominent member of the cabinet hails from that state.

- Joseph Leary's new house at Doylestown, Pa., will be, when completed, one of the most attractive in that town. Frank Worthington's new house, at same place, is nearing completion.
- The members of the Siloam M. E. Church, Seventieth street and Woodland avenue, Paschallville, expect to hold a bazaar September 1st, to raise funds for a new Sunday school building.
- Mr. John Riley, of Pittston, Luzerne county, Pa., has secured the contract for the erection of a two-story brick school in Smithville, Lancaster county, Pa. It will contain all recent improvements.
- A large tract of land has been appropriated by Andrew H. McNeal for the use of the East Burlington Athletic Association. The ground will be enclosed, a grand stand erected, and base ball and cricket fields planned, together with a tennis court.
- The foundation for the new St. Anne's Catholic Church, corner of Gilpin and Union Streets, Wilmington, Del., is being laid with cement. George W. Thompson, of that place, has the contract. The building will be of Brandywine blue granite, and will be under roof before fall.
- Improvements on the De Kalb Street M. E. Church, of Norristown, Pa., contemplated some weeks since, which comprise new chairs, enlarging the Sunday-school room, and numerous other alterations, have been postponed until some time in September, owing to the lack of carpenters.

—Jacob Leippe will erect four neat and substantial dwelling houses at Reading, Pa.

—A Land Company, to be known as the Maxwellton Land and Improvement Company, with a capital of $100,000, of which Theophilus M. Williams and Edgar Reily are at the head, has been formed at Haddonfield, Camden county, N. J. They have cut up the old St. John Military Academy and St. Agnes Hall property into building lots.

—The following cities and towns will have new water works: Atlanta, Ill.; Lewistown, Kan.; East Lanas, Mich.; Valparaiso, Neb.; Osceola, Mo.; Gladwin, Mich.; Montrose, Col.; Marshalltown, Ia.; Belair, Md.; Austin, Minn.; Dansville, Mass.; Clinton, Mich.; Wellston, O.; St. Thomas, Ont.; Kinsley, Kan.; Findlay, O.; Carlinville, Ill.; Canon Falls, Minn.; Hillsboro, Ill.; Waterville, N. Y.

—On the 31st of August next application will be made for a charter for the Crum Creek Steel and Iron Company to be located at Crum Creek, (not a P. O. town) Chester county, Pa. The incorporators are Henry B. Birtwell, Chas. K. Lippincott, D. Reese Essey, Jared Swanger, Dr. John D. M. Cardeza, William Provost, Jr., Charles S. McCoy and Ebenezer Birtwell. The plant will be built and put in operation as soon as possible.

—At Washington, D. C., permits have been granted to Thomas A. Rover for a brick building at 115 K street, Northwest, to cost $4,200; Francis P. Lennp, for a brick building on Sixteenth street, Northwest, to cost $10,500; Dr. R. S. Hill, for nine brick buildings, 1 to 17 Patterson street, Northeast, to cost $7,600; Thomas I. Cohen, for brick dwelling, 226 East Capitol street, Northeast, to cost $8,000; T. A. Harding, brick dwelling on Kennebaw avenue, to cost $3,500; B. Wilkins, brick dwelling, 1709 Massachusetts avenue, Northwest, to cost $20,000.

—A company has been organized to build underground railroads for rapid transit in Chicago and suburbs. It is designed to lay a tunnel thirty-five feet under the streets, reaching to all quarters of the city. The lines on the principal streets will comprise four tunnels, two each for trains moving in different directions, and approached by staircases from the street corners at intervals of about half a mile. The tunnels are to be of brick and masonry, and lighted by electricity and ventilated by powerful fans, which will force and exhaust the air. The whole system is to be similar to the underground roads of London and Paris, and will overcome all objections advanced against elevated roads and fast surface motors. The matter has been thoroughly investigated, thousands of dollars expended in drawings and engineers' advice, and the new corporation is backed by men whose names are a guarantee that the new system is not being agitated to sell out.

BUILDERS' ITEMS.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Germantown wants another new school house. Wm. C. Nockey, builder, Chestnut avenue, Chestnut Hill, is building a two-story stone stable on 29th, between Willow Grove ave. and Hartwell streets.

K. T. Darlington, of West Chester, Pa., has had the contract awarded him for the house of Edward Waln, Jr., at Westown, Pa.

The St. John's Reformed Episcopal church, Front and Berks, will be ready for occupancy by September 1st.

The contract for the renovation of the Emanuel German Lutheran church, at Frankford, has been awarded.

The Chiselhurst Building and Loan Association was opened on the 8th of this month. Fifty-five shares were taken.

There is nothing doing at present regarding a new church for the Third Baptist Congregation of Germantown, but the determination is to erect a handsome edifice in the near future.

An extension to the present court house at Downingtown, Pa., is talked of.

J. E. Winner has purchased a tract of land at Thirty-ninth and Haverford Avenue, for $16,000, upon which he intends to build a number of three-story houses.

A number of small houses are being erected on Bicking Street, between Sixty-first and Sixty-second Streets, by J. M. Power Wallace.

Zook & Chase, of 629 Walnut Street, have just purchased a large tract of land, containing ninety acres, near Glen Loch, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, for a large Philadelphia syndicate, which will be at once cut up into building lots. The above firm will act as agents for the sale of lots.

John Guest will build a handsome Queen Anne House, on Ridge Avenue. George L. Patchell, of Darby, has the contract.

It is said that an immense signal tower, with forty-seven levels, is to be erected at the extensive new freight yard, now being located at Frankford Junction.

Work on the new School House at Fifth and York Streets, Frankford, will be shortly commenced. The deed for the ground has been signed.

Architects' Notes.

Will H. Decker, 1407½ Chestnut Street, has plans on the boards for a three-story brick house with brown-stone trimmings, at Twenty-ninth and Brown Streets, for Frank Scherer.

Addison Hutton, 400 Chestnut Street, has completed the plans for a brick and stone school house, at Bethlehem, Pa. Specifications are now in the contractor's hands.

T. F. Miller, 615 Walnut Street, is now working on the plans for a stone and frame stable for William Johnson, at Fort Washington, Pa. The building will be two-and-a-half stories high, and contain all the latest stable fittings and modern improvements.

Brown & Day, 1430 So. Penn Square, have finished plans for several very pretty houses, which are now in course of erection at Wayne Station, P. R. R. They have several more drawings of the same description on the boards, which will be finished shortly.

Lindley Johnson, 512 Walnut Street, has drawings on the boards for a new house to be built for George Heyl, at Rosemont, Montgomery Co., Pa. The building will probably cost $20,000, and as the contracts are not as yet let, no definite information can be given.

E. O. Betolett, 20 South Broad Street, is altering a house for George Potts, at Pottstown, Pa. The improvement consists of an addition, in Colonial Architecture, of a billiard and dining-room, a cellar and attic; also, new entrances. No contracts have as yet been let.

Frank R. Watson, 518 Walnut Street, is now at work on the plans for the Nicetown Baptist Church. A portion of the building only is under contract, and the church has just been started. The plans call for a building 76 feet front by 111 feet in depth, of stone construction, in the Gothic style of architecture, with spire at the corner. The church will accommodate from four to five hundred, and the Sunday School room about six hundred persons, and will be newly furnished, and stained glass will be used in the windows. The building will be heated by steam and lighted by gas.

The United States Supervising Architect has yet to approve of the plans for the new Post Office building at Reading, Pa. The contracts have not been given out as yet. Full details cannot be given, but information received says that the building will be of brick, stone and terra cotta, two stories in height, with an attic and loft. A tower will also be a feature. The frontage, which is on Washington Street, will be 115 feet, while the depth on Fifth Street will be 50 feet. The entire structure will be fire-proof, iron beams, brick and terra cotta arches, an iron roof, with terra cotta tile covered with slate, will be used in the construction. No wood work will be used, excepting the cabinet work. Steam heat and electric light will also be introduced. $200,000 is the sum that has been appropriated for this new building.

C. W. Henry has had plans drawn by McKim, Mead & White, architects, 57 Broadway, New York, for a handsome residence at Wissahickon, Chestnut Hill. The architecture is very unique; broken range work for masonry will be used and the style will be similar to that of H. H. Huston's residence. A conservatory is to be attached which will be built of iron, with Hayes' Patent roof, and glass rabbits. The dining room, hall, first and second floors, and the main stairs the full height, will be of white oak quartered. The den and library will be of cherry, as will also the bath rooms. The wainscoting of the pantry and passages and the servants' quarters are to be finished in ash; all other woods used will be white pine. Stained glass windows, ornamental fireplaces and all of the thousand and one appliances which help to beautify a house will be introduced, and special care will be taken in all sanitary appliances. The entire building will be heated by steam. Speaking tubes, electric bells, burglar alarms, will be introduced. A laundry is also to be fitted out. No contracts have been given out.

Camden and Vicinity.

The School Board of Camden intends purchasing ground for the purpose of building school houses. A lot has been secured in the seventh ward for the same purpose. In the eighth ward, on a lot of the Land Improvement Company, ground has been broken for a school building. The building at Fifth and York Sts. will be commenced in about one month.

Two frame houses will be built at Berlin within the next three months. They will be located on the Booth tract. The same number of houses will be built at Magnolia.

The annual meeting of the Mutual Loan and Building Association, of Gloucester, was held on the tenth instant. A new series of stock was issued.

A handsome stained glass window will be erected in the lecture room of the Third Street M. E. Church, Camden, N. J.

The Church of the Immaculate Conception, Camden, N. J., is to have a tower. It has been contracted for by Father Fitzsimmons, and will cost $12,000. Jeremiah O'Rourke is the architect, and Shaffer & Reynolds, of Newark, are the contractors.

Robertson & Cohn, the builders, of Camden, are about to erect nineteen houses in the vicinity of the City Hall.

Summary of Last Issue.

The number of building permits reported in the columns of this paper for August the 8th, was 81 against 44 the week previous. These 81 permits represented 301 improvements, which is a much larger number than has been issued for several weeks: as in one operation alone of H. R. Shoch's there were 138 2-story houses.

At the auction houses there were no sales, but Sheriff Ridgway sold $86,110 worth of property at the new court house.

The transfers of property as reported in that issue show a slight decrease from the previous week, but 224 conveyances were made for the 8th against 242 for the previous week. The total amount of value represented being $792,593.13. Of this amount $615,231.13 represents the cash consideration; $177,362 the mortgage consideration, a further incumbrance of $8,125.50 ground rent is also to be added for this sum, which taken on a basis of six per cent is equal to a further charge of $135.425.

OFFICE OF THE STATE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT COMMISSION,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 21, 1887.

THIS COMMISSION WILL RECEIVE AT THEIR office, in the City of Indianapolis, on or before the 12th day of December, 1887, designs, and plans, and specifications for a State Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, or Memorial Hall, or Monument and Memorial Hall combined, to be erected on the grounds known as Circle Park, in the City of Indianapolis (a city of 100,000 inhabitants, and the capital of the State of Indiana), according to an act of the General Assembly of Indiana, approved March 3, 1887, appropriating the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and directing the expenditure of the same, and additional donations for the erection of said structure.

Such plans and designs as are offered will be submitted to thorough examination of a board of three competent experts. The cost of the structure must not exceed two hundred and twenty thousand dollars.

All plans and designs submitted are to be understood to be subject to the terms, conditions, and limitations of the law, and the right of the Board of Commissioners to reject the same is hereby reserved. For further information, copy of the law, diagram, and description of the location; rules governing the competition, and instructions to competitors, etc., apply to the Secretary.

GEORGE J. LANGSDALE, President.

JAS. F. GOODKINS, Secretary.

PRICE 15 CENTS

No system of filtration can purify water containing the noxious germs of sewage, and no practicable measure of dilution can render them harmless. A single cholera stool in any body of water used for domestic purposes may extend the disease indefinitely. The dejections of a typhoid-fever patient were emptied into a running stream miles away from the town of Plymouth, Pa., last year. This water was used for domestic purposes, and in one month there were 1,200 cases of the disease in the town, with 120 deaths. In a Dublin hospital forty cases of typhoid fever were traced to the dejections of typhoid-fever patients emptied into the water twenty-five miles up. Any economy that stops short of absolute certainty in the matter of wholesome water is reckless extravagance—extravagance in the waste of human life and strength. A water actually polluted in some degree may have no apparent bad effect upon a community in ordinary periods, though no one can say it does not do actual harm, but in a period of cholera and typhoid epidemic it will almost certainly become the means of extending the disease. Any system of sewage removal that gives room for a reasonable suspicion of contaminating the supply of domestic water should be abolished at whatever cost. Unhappily, chemical analysis cannot always tell us of the danger in water. There are noxious qualities that escape the utmost researches of the chemist. When he finds salt above a few grains to the gallon in water, he can say with positiveness that there is contamination from sewage, for nearly all the salt used for domestic purposes passes out with the sewage and is inseparable from it; but he cannot always tell when water is free from all contamination.

In a city, well-water is never well water, but sick water. Pump-water may be put aside at once as unfit for domestic use. The fact that it is sometimes used without apparent evil is of no consequence. In a city no well can escape pollution from surface and soil impurities, and such polluted water is one of the most frequent means of propagating disease. In periods of epidemic, the chances that anybody using such water will escape are few. In a London cholera season, 600 deaths were traced directly to the use of pump-water that had been apparently harmless before. Taste and color are not tests of water. First-class drinking water should not contain more than a grain of organic matter to the gallon, yet some clear waters, pleasing to the taste, contain ten times that amount.

The yearnings of the stomach are the inspiration of all human endeavor. Until a man's stomach is satisfied, there is no recognition of the Humanities. As a man is fed, so will he think and so will he be. A man's ancestors determine the maximum of health and of sense he may have, but within the limits of this restriction he is largely what his food makes him. There may be murder in a mince pie or a poem in a leg of mutton. "C'est la soupe que fait le soldat," say the French. There is an intimate relation between meat and morality. A man with indigestible food in his stomach is not a free moral agent. Digestion depends upon what we eat, and a man's views of life depend upon his digestion. If the characters of men are to be improved, the quality of their food must be looked after.—Exchange.

Houses in Rio Janeiro.

Is Rio built of wood, of brick, or of marble? Neither. It is however, massively built. The walls of the buildings are concrete, formed of split stone, mortar, and an occasional layer of brick, are usually two feet thick and in some of the older buildings are even thicker. The color of the walls is frequently white, sometimes a brilliant blue, olive-green, or a light red. The roofs, four-sided, of the hip style, are all covered with thick, red, oval tiles, and there being no chimneys, their aspect is dull. To relieve this the more genial houses have either a balustrade or stuccoed wall around the roofs, with statues, vases or other figures on the corners. The stories and windows are high. Balconies are common, with smooth granite bottoms, sculptured underneath, being composed of large blocks extending through the thickness of the wall, and lending strength as well as ornament to the edifice. The windows in the modern buildings open door fashion, and are well adapted to the climate. They are very securely fastened at top and bottom by simply the turn of the handle of an iron bolt. Windows in the lower stories have strong wooden shutters inside. In chamber windows the glass part opens inward on hinges, with blinds opening outward. The trimmings, such as window caps, door and window facings, are of smooth granite so abundant at Rio—often perfectly arched, and lend an aspect of durability as well as of ornament to the building. The foundation walls to the height of two feet or more are of granite. In some of the stuccoed building almost too much expense seems to have been devoted to outside show. Many houses are in imitation of reddish marble and very handsome. Some of the inside shutters, of black walnut, or those painted white with gilt borders, show to advantage through windows of plate-glass. There is not much display of curtains. The front sides of some of the older buildings are wholly or partly covered with flat porcelain tiles, generally of blue color, also like what may be seen in Lisbon.—Andrews' Brazil.

Chambers' Journal tells of the latest thing in paper: "Doors, which one would think were polished mahogany but that they swing so lightly, and are free from swelling, cracking or warping, are composed each of two thick paper boards, stamped and moulded into panels, and glued together with glue and potash, and then rolled through heavy rollers. The doors are first covered with a water-proof coating, then painted and varnished and hung in the ordinary way. Few persons can detect that they are not made of wood, particularly when used as sliding doors. Black walnut is said to be getting very scarce in this country, but picture frames are now made of paper and colored like walnut, and are so perfect that no one could detect them without cutting them. Paper pulp, glue, linseed oil and carbonate of lime or whiting are mixed together and heated into a thick cream, which, on being allowed to cool, is run into moulds and hardened. Drawing-rooms can be set off by handsome pianos manufactured from paper, a French invention. A beautiful musical instrument of this kind has lately been an object of great curiosity to the connoisseurs and musical savants of Paris. The entire case is made of compressed paper, to which is given a hard surface and a cream-white, brilliant polish. The legs and sides are ornamented with arabesques and floral designs. The exterior, and as much of the interior as can be seen when the instrument is open, are covered with wreaths and medallions, painted in miniature by some of the leading artists of Paris. The tone of this instrument is said to be of excellent quality, though not loud. The broken, alternating character of piano music is replaced by a rich, full, continuous roll of sound, resembling somewhat that of the organ. Only two of these instruments have been made. One is still on exhibition; the other has been sold to the Duke of Devonshire.

London Engineering says that in Bournemouth the local Board of Commissioners have adopted a plan for using salt water for sprinkling the streets and flushing sewers. The cost will be 5d. per 1,000 gallons, and when, at the end of thirty years, the cost of the plant is paid, it will be only 3d. On gravel roads in the vicinity of Portsmouth, it was most successful in preventing dust, as it forms a sort of skin over the surface. In Great Yarmouth it has been used for seventeen years and gives satisfaction.

—A new fire house is to be built for the Columbia Fire Engine Company, at Allentown, Pa. Architect Jacoby, of that city, has prepared the plans.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY, AUGUST 22, 1887.

One of our leading architects, in a recent conversation, said that more work could be gotten through with at the present time in a half a day than could be done in two days ten years ago. He ascribed as the reason for this the introduction of the type-writer and the blue print, which made their appearance about the same time. The practicability of the blue print was realized at once, while the type-writer was more slow in gaining ground. When a young man first begins practising his profession he generally has all the time he wishes to make his own drawings and write out his specifications, but as years roll on and the business increases, the mere mechanical work must give place to that of higher order, and what a comfort as well as a saving of time and health to turn over to a type-writer a hastily written set of specifications, which in a few hours will be transformed into a neatly printed, typographically correct pamphlet. The type-writer is an instrument to be patronized.

PHILADELPHIA and Gloucester city can justly claim an equal share of responsibility for the disgraceful scenes enacted within the very realms of Jersey justice to the shame and disgrace of both cities.

The martyrs (?) to Stokely's tyranny who enjoy the unstinted hospitality of that now popular watering place, are loud in their denunciations of those police restrictions which prevent them from giving free scope to their beastly ideas of American liberty in the full expression of their insane and devilish passions at home. The thousands of Philadelphia's best citizens (?) who invade the Gloucester beer gardens every Sunday, and with the most reckless bravado indulge in the most possible excesses, even to the extremity of indecently assaulting helpless women, are piling up mountains of argument in justification of the present strict police surveillance over the liquor and beer saloons of this city. It would be difficult indeed to determine which of the two cities merits the highest niche of infamy, the one, that for the sake of the shekels that are poured over its beer counters, ignores its every local, county and state law, to its lasting shame and disgrace, or the one that vomits forth its army of freedom hunters, (?) who seem to have lost all ideas of moderation and decency, and who, under the stimulating influences of Jersey air, enact scenes too beastly to mention and too disgraceful even for the worst dens of infamy.

Those who confound the present rigid enforcement of the liquor laws with the personalities presenting Mayor Fitler's administration, are assured that they can escape from not only their own ignorance and stupidity but also from Director Stokely's by removing to New Jersey's hospital shores, where it would seem the worst and most debased of Philadelphia's long suffering martyrs are heartily welcome.

FROM present indications the coming Constitutional Centennial Celebration promises to be a great success in more ways than one. It has become such a fashion for people outside of Philadelphia to speak somewhat slightly of our lack of push and progress, that we seldom—if ever—get half the credit which rightly belongs to us. So much is this the case that with our habitual indifference the commiseration of our neighbors is received with a good-natured shrug, and by our silence we tacitly agree with them in their erroneous opinion. In fact, it is the hardest thing in the world for Philadelphia to break the "cake of custom" and assume that degree of variability which leads to improvement, but when once the "pain of a new idea" has been successfully borne, she rises to the occasion and sweeps on to success. Thus, in spite of our cobble stones, our brick pavements, our swinging signs, our overhead wires, our slow transit, our polluted water, our bosses and our widows, together with many other drawbacks, it only needs a sufficient cause to bring Philadelphia to the front. This was fully demonstrated in 1876, and that the success of that year will be repeated in September goes without saying.

The impulse given to every channel of trade by the influx of visitors at such a time is almost beyond calculation. The most unobserving cannot fail to see what a boon such a gathering will be to the city in every respect. The immense amount of money put into circulation by the hundreds of thousands of visitors will give trade an impetus, felt long after the cause of it has become a pleasant memory. This is one of the many advantages of such an anniversary. There is another that may not strike the great mass of people so favorably at first sight, but which, in a quiet way, may be more prolific of permanent good. We refer to the influence such a demonstration will have upon the youth of Philadelphia, teaching them the much needed lesson, that there is something nobler in life than merely to "put money in thy purse." Matthew Arnold, the apostle of the "gospel of relaxation," who visited this country a few years since, said, in speaking of his impressions, that the most surprising thing he saw while here was a little boot-black reading the "Life of Washington" in one of our public libraries. Such a thing was unheard of in England, and would not have been permitted, so he told the librarian, to whom he applied for information, after his first shock of surprise had somewhat abated. That quiet half hour under the influence of such a book may have changed future destinies of nations. Let us hope the reverence and love for our constitution, our laws and our country, engendered by a proper observance of such anniversaries, may have some power to slacken the wild rush after money and position that bids fair to swamp us in this, of all ages the most utilitarian.

WE do not claim to have the necessary scientific knowledge to determine the question, yet there is no reason why we should not ask his honor the Mayor if he considers the fire escape now being erected in front of the Chestnut Street Opera House sufficiently strong to stand the immense weight it would have to bear in case of a fire taking place at that theatre while the house was filled with people. It strikes us that the balconies, as they are now being constructed, would prove to be first-class death traps: for the material they are made of was never intended to bear the strain the great number of people who could crowd upon the balconies could give it.

Perhaps this is another case of a practical man superseding an architect. At all events the question is too serious to be trifled with.

THERE is need of a large increase in the public school facilities in this State. Much progress has been made this year meeting the necessary demands for room, but much yet remains to be done.

MORE motive power and more particularly small engines and boilers have been contracted for this year already than for the same number of months in any preceding year. This is certainly indicative of prosperous times and constantly increasing demand for manufactured goods of all kinds.

Does it not seem strange that, notwithstanding the fact that there are thousands of American women holding positions of trust, through whose hands millions of dollars pass daily, there has not been a single defalcation among them, neither are there any hiding in Canada; unless things are greatly changed, and very soon at that, it won't be long before the young men of the country will have the doors leading to positions of trust closed against them. Confidence when once shaken is not easily restored.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company would confer an everlasting benefit upon patrons of its sea shore lines if it would increase the accommodations at the Market street ferry. The scene presented at that point on Saturday last was very discouraging to those seeking a day's rest at the sea shore. Thousands of men and women, struggling and swelling in line, trying to purchase tickets, conscious of the few minutes remaining to catch the train, and in full sight of the three ticket sellers, who worked with commendable zeal, but who were physically unable to meet the demand for tickets, and this is the way it has been all summer. If it were impossible for the company to obtain more ticket sellers, or to find room for more, there might be some reasonable excuse for present arrangements, but as neither is the fact, it is simply a beastly outrage upon the rights of passengers and shows very poor management on the part of the company.

WHEN a doctor cures a patient he does not advertise the fact, but when a lawyer wins a important case his name is repeated from city to city. The architect who designs and superintends the construction of a fine building is not known beyond very narrow limits. Yet he and his work should be known for the benefit of future employers of architects. If we could know that A. B. designed the Drexel building, C. D. the Brown Bros. Bank and so on down to X. Y. Z. who builds John Smith's brick stable, it would be an advantage all around. The successful architect would realize more, and those who were less well known would be or might be stimulated to greater exertion. Professional pride or supposed pride has come to do with this hiding of one's identity, but it is a mistake. Why should not the architect do as the builder or contractor does? Hang up his sign.

THE assumption that a builder of experience is fully competent to design, draw the plans and construct an important building without the aid, judgment or advice of a competent architect, is in keeping with the recklessness with which men now-a-days take the chances on other matters involving the safety of human life.

Practical men may become entirely too practical, so practical in fact that they become mere guessing machines, and with an abiding faith in their own guessing abilities they take chances that would absolutely paralyze an architect who has made a life study of the strength of material and how to combine or distribute that strength in producing a structure entirely free from chance or guess-work.

Only those who know, have any idea how far this guess-work in building extends, and the confidence with which the practical men take chances would be amusing, could the serious consequences that are liable to follow be entirely eliminated.

When such a man as J. B. Johnson, director of the United States Testing Laboratory, at the Washington University, St. Louis, rails at practical architects themselves for knowing so little about the character and strength of building materials, it is certainly high time for "practical" builders to confine their guessing propensities to operations justly within their scope and experience; for if guessing on the part of an architect can be justly regarded as criminal, what must be said of the builder who unhesitatingly assumes the responsibility and guesses his way straight through, regardless of consequences? A case has been cited recently by the British Architect where an owner of several small lots in Manchester, England, employed from time to time different practical builders to remove the brick partition walls between the houses in order that the store-room might be enlarged. Of course, an architect was not consulted, as the expense must be avoided for economy's sake. Subsequently another practical builder was called in to open a passage way through the cellar walls; it would have been all right had he not forgotten that it was necessary for the iron pillars above, which supported the walls, to have a suitable foundation to rest upon, which, having been removed, collapse followed as a consequence, causing the death of three persons.

THE volume of permits does not seem to sensibly diminish throughout the country. Building activity is quite general. Architects are generally engaged on autumn and winter work. The outlook is good for all builders and manufacturers of material. There has been scarcely any falling off in mid-summer. Prices have been firm for nearly all products. Mills and factories have been running full time. Work has been abundant and very few labor disturbances have arisen. We are now on the threshold of the fall trade under excellent conditions. In very few quarters are there indications of any accumulation of goods. Iron and steel miles and furnaces have been busy everywhere and doing well. The manufacturers of lumber have had no leisure, and the distribution of stock has been beyond all precedent. Prices have been maintained for all good qualities, but within two weeks anxiety to sell has got the better of early summer confidence and prices are being shaded for considerable inferior stock. The increasing demand for hardwoods has been met and prices are easy in all, or nearly all, markets. The mills are busy, and the dealers are handling immense quantities of lumber for building purposes. The local lumber market has been active. Yellow pine has been arriving freely. Hemlock is more plentiful, and white pine is abundant.

The demand for building stone has led to the development of several new sources of supply and the organization of three or four companies on an apparently very solid basis. There will be no dearth of stone when all these new companies and quarries get going.

The general trade conditions are good. We hear more or less talk about the possibility or probability of a scarcity of money, but the chances are in favor of the borrowers. Banking facilities have been greatly increased all over the country. Philadelphia has been specially favored. Collections are good. There are comparatively few failures. What one or two years may bring forth need not concern us now, but the probabilities are that the great and little managers of industry, commerce, transportation and finance have profited by past experience, and that they will not be caught in a cyclone of disaster.

THE treatment of Citizen Roggenburger by Captain Schooley, of the 11th District, at the preliminary hearing, of the charges he preferred against Policeman Kleinguenther, introduces a new feature into our city government. If Captain Schooley was truthfully reported and spoke the truth himself when he stated that a rule of the police department requires an oath that the complainant will not prosecute an officer in the courts after the finding in the Police Court, it is high time that some higher authority than the police department came to the rescue of citizens from its brutality.

But the assumption that the policeman who exercises his brutal instincts can take refuge behind a police examination, through "a rule of the department," and is thereby rendered invulnerable from any subsequent court proceedings, is such a monstrous piece of magisterial buffoonery, that unless the very accommodating rule is rescinded, the mayor, director, superintendent, and in fact the whole department will be very apt to be held up to ridicule, not only by our own citizens but by those of neighboring cities.

It looks very much as though there was an understanding between some of the heads of the department to defeat as much as possible the proper investigation of charges brought against policemen; and that the oath exacted before an investigation is permitted is the surest and best way to defeat it. Director Stokley has had too much experience not to comprehend the influence this oath must have upon policemen themselves. There are already too many cases of brutality on record, and this oath that is now required before an investigation is permitted will not tend to decrease them.

A REAL or imaginary difficulty of a legislative character seems to stand in the way of the construction of a proposed underground railway in this city. But out in Chicago they don't have difficulties to stand in the way of needed and urgent improvement. Already $30,000,000 have been subscribed to build an underground road.

It is designed to construct tunnels of brick and masonry thirty-five feet under the streets, reaching all quarters of the city, four tunnels being constructed under the principal streets for trains moving in different directions. The tunnels are to be approached by stair-ways at the street corners at intervals of half a mile, will be lighted by electricity, and ventilated by powerful fans. The system is to be similar in design to the underground railways of London and Paris, and Mr. Lehman says the matter has been thoroughly investigated, thousands of dollars having been expended in procuring drawings and engineers' advice, and the new corporation is backed by men whose names will be a guaranty that the new system is not being agitated to sell out. It is proposed to construct the line to the northern boundaries of the townships of New Trier, Northfield, Wheeling, Palatine and Barrington; to the western boundaries of the townships of Barrington, Hanover, Leyden, Proviso, Lyons, Lemont and Orland; to the southern boundaries of the townships of Orland, Rich and Bloom; and to the eastern boundaries of the townships of Bloom, Thornton and Hyde Park, and to connect said lines by a belt line, all located in the County of Cook.

The Camden Telegram thus lets loose its wrath upon the city across the river:

Camden people all buy their papers in Philadelphia to find out what is going on on this side of the river. When will our people cease being clams?

Camden is the twenty-seventh town in population in the United States, and that is all you can say of it.

What will ever become of Camden?

Nobody can tell. It is true it is building up rapidly with cheap bonus houses, many of which will have to come down in a few years, and now and then a business building goes up, but it is so seldom that the generation in which it is built all die off before another one is started.

We are the laughing stock of the civilized world, the joke of every negro minstrel and the butt of every newspaper article that wishes to locate the doings of a crank, and so ashamed of our own town that when we go traveling we register as from Philadelphia.

We have not enterprise enough to build an opera house nor honor enough to pay our subscriptions to the stock, and when the Angel Gabriel blows his horn on the day of judgment we will be so far behind we will not know it until seven days afterwards.

Engineers are trying to find out why concrete should be destroyed by sea water, as is found to be the case.

The mania for building houses of ten or a dozen stories high is extending itself in every direction. New York set the example and other cities and towns are following. It needs not the saying that when such lofty structures take fire their destruction is almost inevitable, from the inability of the firemen to reach the burning portions.

This was illustrated in the great fire at Pittsburgh on Saturday morning last, when the Hamilton building took fire and was completely destroyed. All such toplofty buildings necessarily have elevators and staircases, which constitute flues or drafts which carry the flames upward beyond the reach of water, where, of course, they have their own way.—Evening Star.

THE heating and ventilation of buildings is a subject which bears a great deal of discussion. The most valuable discussions are those that are carried on by practical men, whose experience enables them to offer suggestions worth listening to. F. E. Kidder, architect, is running a valuable series of articles through Building, and which are illustrated. Builders and architects cannot afford to remain in ignorance of the latest developments in this direction. Here are some of his conclusions for the proportioning of radiating surfaces:

All kinds of radiators are measured or rated according to the superficial feet of radiating surface which they possess.

Thus, 2.9 feet of one-inch pipe are required for one foot of surface. Probably no two patterns of radiators will occupy the same space for a given amount of heating surface.

As a rule, cast-iron radiators occupy less space for the same amount of surface than either box-coils or pipe radiators.

In heating by direct radiation the required amount of radiating surface is generally determined by dividing the cubic space to be warmed by a certain quantity determined by experience. In determining the radiating surface an allowance is also made for the exposure of the room, how it is to be occupied, and the amount of glass area in the room; also, the quality of building, and whether it is a brick or frame building. The following are average proportions of direct radiating surface recommended by persons having long experience in hot-water heating.

For dwelling-houses: Living rooms, one foot radiating surface to every thirty to 40 cubic feet; chambers, one foot surface to every fifty cubic feet. For exposed rooms increase the radiating surface by from ten to twenty-five per cent. Where there is an unusual amount of window area the heating surface should be increased accordingly.

For schools: one foot radiating surface to forty-five cubic feet; for churches, theatres, and public buildings, one to fifty.

For indirect radiators, where natural ventilation only is employed, the radiating surface should be about twice that required for direct radiation.

For heating by indirect radiation, where a known quantity of air is to be heated every minute, the following table, showing the amount of air warmed by one square foot of radiating surface with the temperature of the water at 190°, is given.

To use this table divide the number of feet to be warmed by the number in the table corresponding to the given conditions.

If the heating surface thus found is less than would be obtained by taking one-half the proportions given for direct radiators, then it should be increased to that amount, as it has been found by experience that less radiating surface will not be satisfactory.

Cubic feet of air warmed per hour by one foot of radiating surface containing water at 195° F.:

	10 TO 110 F.	0 TO 120 F.

With forced draught,	215	180

THERE is a much felt want in New Jersey for more and better school accommodations. Mr. Chapman, Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of New Jersey, says:

"There are two things which are serious obstacles in the way of the Board of Education in this State. One is the lack of suitable accommodation for school children, and the other is the system of teaching itself. There is a sad need of enlargement of the school buildings in all parts of the State. Indeed, it is a serious question whether the cities are entitled to the State tax or not. The law provides that a certain amount shall be appropriated to each city to pay for teachers' salaries and fuel, but on the condition that suitable accommodation must be furnished by that city for the children. There is not a city in the State that provides such accommodation as the law demands, Jersey City, which has increased from five to six thousand in school population in the last five years, has not erected a single additional school-house in that time. This is the condition of things all over the State, and it is a disgrace which the people ought to wipe out at once."

Whitewash and Fire.

Whitewash has many uses, political and moral (or immoral rather), as well as economic. But as a fire extinguisher it has not been hitherto generally recognized here. "Do you know," said a scientific gentleman the other day, "that it is next to impossible to burn a whitewashed fence? And do you know further, that in France, to protect the frame and interior of other buildings from fire, the walls, beams, joists, and the under side of floorings are thickly coated with lime wash before they are placed in position? It is so, and if this course, which has prevailed abroad almost from time immemorial, were adopted here, it would save many a house, many a village from destruction. I do not mean to say that it will prevent the spread of a fire once under great headway, but from its unflammable character it is a guard against the prime ignition that often leads to dire results." This little hint set the writer to making inquiry among competent authorities, and full confirmation of the Doctor's words was the outcome.—Am. Analyst.

New Ideas.

The improved mortise-lock and latch consists of the case proper, having the body of the face-plate cast as an integral part thereof, with a recess therein opening from the edge on the open side of the case, into the bolt openings, a cap cast with a flange as an integral part thereof, the said flange corresponding to the recess in the body of the face-plate, and a scalp having openings formed therein corresponding to the bolts and secured to the body of the face-plate.

The method of constructing ornamental columns consists in preparing a number of prismatic pieces of material, having two planes meeting at an angle depending upon the relation of the cross-section of each particular piece with the cross-section of the completed column. The pieces are assembled in two boxes, so that they can be held more or less obliquely. The pieces are then united by the aid of cement, and reduced by any convenient process to the form of a column.

Abel Peck, Newburg, N. Y. The balance consists in the window-frame having a shelf or projection on its inside, the window-sash having a rack-bar secured to its side edge, a bracket secured to the shelf, a disk mounted on a shaft, journaled in the bracket, and provided on one face with a spiral rim engaging the rack-bar, and on its other face with a bevel gear and a gear-wheel meshing into said gear.

BROMIDE and water, it has just been found, is a cheap and valuable disinfectant. It has been successfully tried on Broadway, N. Y., soil. The application of this disinfectant might be comfortably made on Chestnut and other streets.

WILL IT STAND?

If one will watch carefully the conversation of bricklayers, this question will be heard a good many times in a single season, and, whether the job be great or small, above ground or below, it is rarely all having an interest in the structure are perfectly satisfied on the various points of solidity and permanence, and as the strengths of various materials entering into modern structures have already been given in these columns, the following practical suggestions are given for determining the probable stability of walls, ditches, embankments, etc.

To find the pressure of the different kinds of earth, filling, etc., against walls, it is necessary first to ascertain the line or angle of rupture, or natural slope the earth would assume but for the resistance of the wall. This natural slope, of course, differs with the different kinds of earth, but assuming that the earth is level with the top of the wall, the line of rupture for the different kinds of earth, filling, etc., may be estimated according to the following calculations based on estimates and measurements.

A bank of vegetable earth will rupture on the surface at a distance from the top of the wall of three-fifths the height of the wall.

A bank of sand will rupture at two-thirds the height of the wall.

A bank of unheven stone will rupture at a distance of one-seventh the height of the wall.

A bank of rubble at two-fifths the height of the wall.

A bank of brick, with a bank of vegetable earth behind it, will rupture at a distance of about one-sixth the distance of the height of the wall.

A bank of clay, well rammed, will rupture at a distance of three-sixteenths the height of the wall.

The strongest horizontal stress against the wall is at half the angle which the natural slope makes with it; hence the greatest stress for a bank of vegetable earth will be at three-tenths the height of the wall, measuring from the bottom course upward.

For a bank of sand, at one-third the height of the wall, measuring from the bottom upward.

For a bank of rubble, one-fifth the height of the wall, measuring from the bottom.

For a bank of unheven stone, at one-fourteenth the height of the wall.

For a bank of brick, at one-twelfth the height of the wall.

For a bank of clay, at three-thirty-seconds the height of the wall.

From the foregoing considerations, it is plainly a matter of necessity that the walls of any building, no matter of what material, or for what purpose used, should be made proportionately strong to these heights, to sustain the different pressures.

Again: In the case of exposed situations, if the bank is liable to be saturated with water, the wall, especially, should be at least double in strength. Some claim that walls of brick, in such situations, are peculiarly adapted to make provisions for this increased pressure of saturation by absorbing waters, increasing the gravity, thereby rendering more firm, but many years' practice and observation has failed to prove any reason for this claim. In any event the safest is always the best, and in the end the cheapest.

A NEW BUILDING LAW.

A revised law governing the erection of buildings has just been adopted by the municipal authorities of Germany. No new building shall cover more than two-thirds of the area of the building lot, and in the case of buildings erected in place of torn down structures, on lots previously built upon, the area covered by the building shall not exceed three-fourths of the whole lot. The maximum height of any building is limited to seventy feet. All building must, moreover, conform to the law requiring the height of the street front, measured from the sidewalk to the main roof cornice, not to exceed the width of the street. Blocks of houses are permitted, but in the case of detached buildings the distance between two adjoining ones shall be at least eight feet, if there are no windows in the side walls, and at least twenty feet in the side walls have windows. These requirements are, obviously, intended to secure to the dwellings ample light and air, as well as sunlight for all living and sleeping rooms.

Joseph Drinnan is building several new houses on Allegheny avenue, Falls of Schuylkill.

Ground has been broken for William McCallum's new residence at Mount Airy, Philadelphia.

Christ's Lutheran church at Stouchsburg will be rebuilt. This building was destroyed by fire a short time since.

Martha Robinson has bought the property on South street, west of Twenty-fifth, on a lot 15 by 67 feet, for $3500.

Morgan Wright and John Jamison will build a pair of brick dwellings on Marshall street, near Stanbridge, Norristown, Pa.

Jacob M. Peters, 5204 Frankford avenue, is building a two-story stone store and dwelling on Church street between Penn and Leiper streets.

Wm. Douglas, 530 N. Sixty-third street, is making a twelve-foot addition to a brick church on Vine street between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets.

A directors' meeting of the Real Estate Exchange was to have been held on the 16th inst. No business was transacted as a quorum could not be obtained.

Surveyors are at work surveying the Jennings property at Milburn, N. J. The estate will probably be cut up into building lots and small houses erected upon it.

The property No. 904 Walnut street has been purchased by Dr. William Pancoast from F. W. Lewis. The lot is 26x13 1/2 feet. $27,000 was the purchase money.

A number of lots have been sold at Sunny-side, near Chester, Pa. Quite a number of houses will be erected shortly. B. W. Blakely is one of the largest purchasers.

A two-story brick addition will be made to the schoolhouse on Bodine street between Oxford street and Columbia avenue. George Doring, 2040 Hancock street, is the contractor.

J. Lewis Kates is about to begin the construction of forty-three houses on Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, above Berks, and ten of the same architecture on Norris street, above Eighteenth street.

The Provident Life and Trust Company has purchased the property situated at Nos. 50 and 52 South Fourth street for $40,000. This property was owned by the Tevis estate and has a frontage of 45 feet, and a depth of 20 feet.

Gideon Ruth will build a handsome stone and frame houses at Dufferin, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The ground has been staked out for that purpose. Morgan Ruth has the contract for building; he is also the architect.

Theodore Knight has the contract for building a school house in Darby, costing in the neighborhood of one thousand dollars, and builder George S. Patchell also has the contract for a house at the same place for John Guest.

A report has been circulated that the Real Estate Exchange would remove to the Master Builders' Exchange, Third and Walnut streets. This report is positively denied, nothing whatever being known of it at the office of the exchange.

J. N. Sharp has purchased from I. V. Williamson a lot bounded by Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets on the east and west, and Diamond and Norris streets on the north and south, upon which a number of houses will be erected in the near future.

The Chambers Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Broad and Sansom, has been viewed, with the intention of purchasing, by a real estate man. The price offered was $250,000, which was refused, as the church is not in the market.

Two warehouses will be built by the Philadelphia Grain Elevator Company, at Port Richmond, foot of William street. The buildings will be used for storage purposes. They will be two stories high, the one to be 550x100 feet, the other 300x200 feet.

Mr. J. Gaiser, of the Leverington hotel, Roxborough, Philadelphia, is having put up four two-story brick houses, of five rooms each, on East Leverington avenue, near Ridge avenue. The houses are to be well finished, and will rent for $10 or $11 a month.

L. T. Brooke, No. 14 S. Broad street, will superintend the erection of two houses at Dufferin. No style of architecture has been decided upon, and in fact no architect has been employed. As soon as water is obtained from wells to be sunk the work will go on at once.

Francis F. Cantrell, 528 Walnut street, president of the Gwynedd Improvement Company, is attending to the sale of lots for that concern, which comprises 27 acres on the Lehigh branch of the P. R. R. New streets are being laid out and houses will be built subject to proper restrictions.

John N. Hughes, builder, has the contract for removing the house 2219 Green street. The rear portion is to be removed thirty-three feet sideways, and in the space left vacant an addition of sixty-five rooms will be built. This building was erected during the Centennial for a boarding house and is owned by David Giltinan.

The purchase of properties Nos. 50 and 52 South Fourth street, by the Provident Life and Trust Company, secures to them all the property on the west side of Fourth street from the corner of Chestnut north to Ramstead place, excepting the liquor store at No. 32 and No. 48, owned by George Aikens, who is holding out for $65,000, $50,000 having been offered.

The Amateur's Theatre, which was to have been built at Twenty-first and Chestnut streets, and for which Angus S. Wade was the architect, has been delayed in consequence of the owner of the selected site raising his price from $40,000 to $45,000. The projectors of the scheme state that $40,000 is the most they will give for a building site, and are looking at several lots in the central portion of the city with a view to purchasing.

The Messrs. Disston have commenced another block of houses on Tulip street, below Unruh, Tacony, 23d ward, and they are also erecting seven small houses on Wissinoming street, on the ground formerly used by John G. Campbell, as a coal yard.

Charters have been granted to the Susquehanna Building and Loan Association No. 2, of Philadelphia, capital $1,000,000, and to the Norristown Land Improvement Company, with a capital of $100,000.

The houses which have been erected on Twenty-sixth street, between South and Bainbridge, by John White, are being sold. They are three stories in height, with lots fourteen feet front by fifty-nine deep on the east side, two on the west side, lots 14x58. Annie J. Connor purchased them for $11,000. Mr. White has also sold the three 3-story houses and lots, each 14x58 on Welling street, between Bainbridge and South streets, to Gustave Menzel, the price paid being $6,600.

A scheme is now on foot to build a mammoth hotel at Ocean City, N. J. Doubtless this would pay handsomely, as this new resort had double the number of visitors this season than any previous one. One difficulty to overcome will be the conservative principles of those at the head of the Association. When these old fogies are displaced and men of enterprise put in their place, Ocean City will have the chance, which she has never had, to make her a successful summer resort. Those interested in the operation say that the hotel will be ready for next season.

The congregation of the Church of the Crucifixion, colored, will build a schoolhouse on Eighth street above Bainbridge. The frontage will be 40 feet and the depth 60 feet. Chester gray stone will be used for the base, and the trimming to the windows and doors will be of ornamental brick and Hummelstown brown stone. The entrance will be on the north side, through a wide and lofty gabled entrance into a vestibule. On the south of the entrance, twin arched windows afford the light to the first floors. Directly over these twin Gothic windows, reaching up under the gabled roof, furnish the light to the second floor. The first floor is raised three and a half feet above the pavement. On this floor will be located the infant school-room, with sittings for 194 persons, and two class rooms. The second floor will be used for advanced pupils, and will accommodate 200.

The Church of the Crucifixion belongs to the Protestant Episcopal denomination, and is in charge of the Rev. Henry L. Phillips.

Architects' Notes.

Architect James H. Windram reports that the Girard Estate stores at Twelfth and Market streets will cost $350,000.

Yarnall & Cooper, 14 S. Broad street, are the architects and contractors for the five-story building at 723 Sansom street, which will occupy the site of the building now being torn down.

Work has been commenced upon the new buildings for the Robert Smith India Pale Ale Brewing Company. The new brewery building will be located on Girard avenue, east of Thirty-second street, with a frontage of 96 feet and 120 feet deep. The large storage house, bottling department and stables will be located on Thirty-eighth street between Girard avenue and Poplar street. The brewery building will be a massive fire-proof structure, composed of stone and brick, richly ornamented with Hummelstown brownstone and copper. Every department will be equipped with the most modern machinery. The plans were prepared by Otto C. Wolf, architect. Charles McCaul is under contract to complete the buildings by November 1st. The cost of the building and machinery will be $225,000.

Drawings have been made by the architects in the Phoenix Bridge Company's office for a block of thirty-two-story brick houses, with stone trimmings, to be put upon High street, Phoenixville. Trouble has been experienced in regard to the grade of the land upon which these houses are to be built, as no calculation was made for a rise in the grade. Several of them will have a sub-cellar. Work was commenced on the 17th inst.

Brown & Day, 1430 S. Penn Square, are preparing plans for a frame school house at Camden, Kent county, Delaware, which will accommodate 400 pupils. The size of the building will be 72 feet front by 48 feet deep and two and one-half stories high. The building will be completely fitted up for school purposes, and work will commence as soon as plans are completed. No contracts have been let. These gentlemen are working early and late, and while so large an amount of new work is not coming in as formerly, yet they have enough on hand to keep them busy for several weeks. One hundred and sixty men have been placed on the houses at Wayne, and so great is the hurry of the builders they have ordered the mill work before the drawings are completed. They also have a large stone house at Chester, Pa., finished in hardwood, a conservatory and many other features for beauty and comfort. The contracts are not as yet let.
